Twister Levels Church, 50 Injured in Kentucky

RAVENNA, Ky. (AP)—A tornado, perhaps the same one which killed a little girl south of here, ripped up Ravenna Friday, collapsing a church where 23 small children were studying the Bible.

A score of the children were injured, but none was killed.

There was no warning in this east central Kentucky community which borders on the mountain country. The black funnel just "came over the mountain and down into the town," one witness said.

In all, state police estimated about 50 or more persons were injured.

Betsy Bush, 9, was one of those in the church. Her quick wit in dropping to the floor immediately may have saved her serious injury.

"I heard it and lay down on the floor," she said. "But some of the other children were running around and screaming."

Betsy suffered only some minor bruises.

Her father, Floyd Bush, was at their home across the street when the twister hit. As he rushed out of the house, the church was collapsing and rubble was falling in on the children.

Under Brick Timber

"I never heard anything so pitiful in my life," he said of the children's screams and moans. He rushed into the ruins and found some of the children buried under mounds of brick and timber.

Some of the children, Bush said, "must have had 2,000 pounds of stuff on them."

Most of the children were taken to the Estill County Hospital at Irvine, Ravenna's sister city along the Kentucky River here. However, they later were transferred to other hospitals in this area.

A check at other hospitals failed to turn up any cases which were termed worse than fair.

Four Within Hour

The tornado which hit here was one of three, or perhaps four, which dipped into the state within hours. No witnesses at Bellpoint, where Valerie Hope Collins, 9, was killed, could verify if a funnel had been sighted.

However, there were funnels at Columbia, in south central Kentucky, and at Wide Creek, southeast of here.

If all were the same tornado, it would have made a giant — turn, looping around the fringe of the hill country. The Weather Bureau said this was quite possible.

The Collins girl, whose home is at Newport, was visiting her grandfather, Brad Collins. She was killed when a partially constructed church collapsed in the high wind.

Tried to Run, Hit

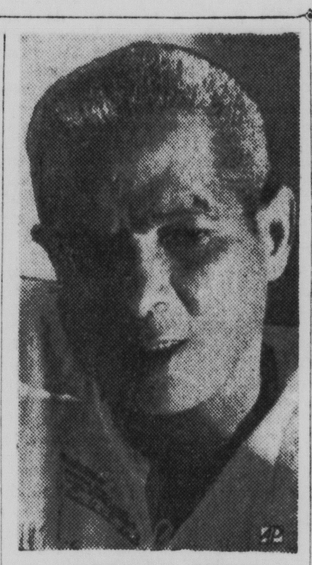

Her uncle, Daniel Collins, and some other children at the scene were only bruised. Officials said the Collins girl tried to run and was hit by a falling beam.

The tornado here opened its havoc by tearing the roof from the Louisville & Nashville Railroad roundhouse on the edge of town. Then it acted like a mammoth ice cream scoop, cutting across the business and residential areas of the town.

In the tornado's wake came sunny skies and a glorious double rainbow—and misery for the 1,100 residents of the town.

An Army reserve unit was ordered to help with the cleanup and to prevent looting.

Estill County Judge W. M. Noland estimated the damage here at a million dollars. The damage at Wide Creek, Bellpoint and Columbia wasn't estimated.

Alternate Proposal Favored

Bargaining Team Will Leave Today

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro said early today he will receive a four-man bargaining team from the United States to work out details of swapping 1,200 captive Cuban rebels for 500 tractors.

But the bearded prime minister raised anew his alternate proposal to trade the rebels captured in the abortive April invasion for "political prisoners" held by the United States, Puerto Rico, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

Preferred Top Members

Castro notified the U. S. Tractors-for-Freedom Committee that he would receive its technicians, provided they have full power to negotiate the tractor-prisoner deal as "spelled out" by the Cuban prisoners mission sent to the United States to broach his offer.

The freedom committee announced in Detroit its bargaining team will fly to Havana Monday.

In his note to the freedom group Castro said he would have preferred leading members of the committee itself, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Milton Eisenhower, come to Havana, "but that is not indispensable."

To Decide Over Business

He insisted, however, that the bargaining mission "must have powers to discuss the quality and amount of indemnification Cuba is asking. Your committee cannot decide by itself what kind of equipment Cuba is going to accept as compensation for all the material damage done by the aggressive actions launched from the United States against our country." Castro declared.

"Your committee ought to know that we are the ones to decide over our own business and that we only accept technical advice when we ask for it beforehand."

The note, signed by Castro, also called for an answer to his proposal for exchanging the invasion captives for Cubans held in the United States and elsewhere.

Repeats Basis

"In this case," he said, "Cuba would be willing to surrender all her claims for material indemnification."

Castro has insisted repeatedly during his overtures that the exchange should be on a "freedom for freedom" basis.

Castro insisted he had no ulterior motive in suggesting that Mrs. Roosevelt and Dr. Eisenhower come to Cuba to take a personal hand in the negotiations.

The freedom committee said its bargaining team will fly from Miami, Fla., Monday at 2:30 p.m. EST on a regularly scheduled flight and indicated newsmen could go along. The plane ordinarily flies empty to Havana to pick up passengers for Miami.

Break Possible In Laos Talks

GENEVA (AP) — A possible break in the deadlocked international conference on Laos appeared in the making today—at least in the talking stage.

U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman Friday delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko a note President Kennedy personally approved. Then Harriman spent an hour backing it up.

Nothing Specific

American sources said Gromyko responded to the extent of expressing eagerness for going on with the 14-nation talks but he offered nothing specific in the way of compromise. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home planned to fly here from London Sunday to see Gromyko.

Violations of the cease-fire in Laos by the pro-Communist rebels caused the Western powers to call an indefinite postponement of the conference last Thursday.

The decision followed the rebels' capture of Padong, a mountain village 20 miles south of rebel headquarters at Xieng Khouang.

American sources understood that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev instructed Gromyko to indicate a desire for resumption of the Geneva conference as a result of his talks with President Kennedy.

Blames Air Drops

Khrushchev and Kennedy were agreed on the importance of a cease-fire when they met last weekend in Vienna, though some observers doubted that the words in their joint communique held the same meaning for each.

Gromyko told Harriman Friday that U. S. parachute supply drops to Padong's defenders had provoked the attack by the rebels.

Esopus Schedules 'Lady of Hudson' Service Sunday

A special event in the Town of Esopus sesqui-centennial celebration will take place Sunday afternoon when a special service and benediction will be held at the shrine "Our Lady of the Hudson" on the grounds of the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen. The service is scheduled to commence at 3 p. m.

The speaker at the service will be the Rev. Michael Downing, CSsR, who is the prefect of students at the Mt. St. Alphonsus monastery, Esopus. Father Downing during World War II was a chaplain in the U. S. Navy and during 1951 to 1953 served as chaplain of the Town of Esopus, Post 1298, American Legion. Father Downing's address will be "The Town of Esopus, Past, Present and Future."

Choir to Take Part

Also participating in the service will be the Mt. St. Alphonsus choir composed of students attending the seminary. Those who have heard the choir have high praise for its quality and ability. Assisting Father Downing in the solemn mass of benediction will be the Rev. James Kelley, CSsR, pastor of the Church of the Presentation. The public is invited to attend the service.

The Church of the Presentation, where the service will be held, is known as "the church below the hill" in Port Ewen and is an off-shoot of St. Mary's Church, Kingston. In 1874, when the then new church was dedicated, it was named after one of Mary's special feasts, the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The little Catholic Church in Port Ewen is part of the history of the Town of Esopus. It grew because the area grew and the parish continues to grow with the surrounding village and

Amvets Will Give Word Sunday on Bingo Penalties

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) — The state convention of the American Veterans of World War II (Amvets) will disclose Sunday what action it has voted against two posts suspended in the wake of a state investigation of bingo.

Delegates to the convention acted Friday in the cases of Post 52 of Tuckahoe and University Post 481 of Manhattan, but declined to announce the result until Sunday, at the close of the four-day convention.

The State Investigation Commission said convicted swindler William P. Buckner had been connected with bingo games the posts sponsored.

Meanwhile, delegates considered a resolution today that asks Gov. Rockefeller to call a special session of the Legislature to consider a bill to give Korean War veterans bonus payments, a measure that died in the 1961 session.

Another resolution calls for an increase in pensions to disabled veterans of World War II and the Korean War. A spokesman said current payments failed to keep up with inflation.

White Eagle Assn. Observing Grand Opening of Hall

A two-day celebration marking the grand opening of White Eagle Hall starts tonight with a public dance and on Sunday evening a banquet will be held at the new $135,000 building on Delaware Avenue at Gerald Street.

The White Eagle Benevolent Society which built the hall is bringing Rymanowski Brothers Recording Orchestra from Troy to play from 9 p. m. to 1 o'clock for the dance and will present a program of speakers at the Sunday banquet, starting at 6:30 p. m., including a Catholic priest, Rev. John J. Gill, a graduate of the parochial school of Immaculate Conception Church which members of the society attend.

List of Speakers

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson of Woodstock, who represents Ulster County in the State Legislature, and Mayor Edwin F. Radel will represent the community as speakers. Others will be the president of the society, Edward E. Lukaszewski, Aloysius Mikula, president of the Polish-American Citizens Club of Poughkeepsie; Augustus R. Schrowang, architect for the building and Attorney S. James Matthews of this city. Joseph Kelly, city editor of The Freeman, a former supervisor of the Fourth Ward in which the hall is located will be toastmaster.

Father Gill, who is at St. Patrick's Church, Verplanck, warmly accepted the invitation to speak from President Lukaszewski. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gill of 56 Crane Street, and was ordained to the priesthood on May 30, 1959 at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City.

Father Gill received his primary education at Immaculate Conception School and graduated from Kingston High School magna cum laude in 1951. After two years of college, he entered St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, Yonkers, from which he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1955 and where he studied Sacred Theology for four years. He offered his first solemn Mass at Immaculate Conception Church on Sunday, May 31, 1959.

Formed by Polish Citizens

The White Eagle Benevolent Society is an organization that is a continuation of the Polish Sick and Aid Society of the Sacred Heart of Jesus and Mary. The first society was organized on May 8, 1892 by Polish immigrants who settled in the Downtown section of the city, mostly in the Fourth ward area, where they built Immaculate Conception Church. Before the congregation was organized most of the Polish people attended St. Peter's Church and later had a

Six State Areas Qualify for Aid To Cut Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six areas in New York State are among the first 4 in the nation eligible for special federal aid under a new $400-million program to combat persistent unemployment in depressed areas.

The New York areas are Amsterdam, Auburn, Gloversville, Jamestown-Dunkirk, Ogdensburg-Massena-Malone and Plattsburgh.

The Area Redevelopment Administration said Friday other depressed areas would be added to the list in the near future.

The administration said a community, to become eligible, must submit a plan for reviving its economy.

Meanwhile, the Urban Renewal Administration approved a $12,000 grant to finance preparation of a plan for the growth and development of the Towns of Newburgh and New Windsor, Orange County.

The grant, which goes through the New York Commerce Department, will be supplemented with $24,000 in state and local funds.

The work, to be completed in 20 months, includes parking, traffic, population, housing and economic studies.

Four Persons Injured In Six County Crashes

Four persons were injured in six separate vehicular accidents in Ulster County over night, including a nine-year-old Town of Ulster boy who was struck by a car, and a Poughkeepsie man was arrested for allegedly passing a bad check at a Highland traffic circle market operated by Supervisor John Gaffney of the town of Lloyd.

Ulster Boy Fair

Stephen Chatham, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chatham of 5 Stahlman Place, who was struck by a car as he was riding his bicycle along Vincent Street about 100 feet east of Nichols Street, Town of Ulster, late Friday afternoon, was reported in "apparently fair" condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Rafael Trinidad, 29, of Albany, who was injured early this morning in a two-car collision on the Thruway south of Kingston, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance with a possible fractured leg, chest injuries, contusions and abrasions. No condition report was available this morning.

Lester Simpson, 30, of Newburgh, was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie, early last night with a severely lacerated left arm after the car he was driving on Pancake Hollow road near Highland, Town of Lloyd, failed to make a left turn, struck a utility pole and turned over.

Earling Rise, 61, of Atwood Road, Stone Ridge, told state police he would see his own doctor for treatment of a head injury suffered when a tire blew out on his sedan about 11:30 p. m. Friday on the Peak road, Stone Ridge.

Passed at Fruit Market

Highland state police arrested Allen Walker, 29, of Poughkeepsie yesterday on a forgery charge involving an alleged bad check passed at a fruit market operated by Supervisor John Gaffney at the Highland traffic circle on Route 9W.

Kingston state police said the Chatham boy was riding his bicycle in a westerly direction along Vincent Street when he turned into the path of a car operated by George S. Clark, 40, of Box 419, Kingston, proceeding in an easterly direction.

Trooper T. J. Morrissey said the child received possible internal injuries, contusions and bruises. Time of the mishap was 4:15 p. m.

Apparently Fell Asleep

Trinidad was proceeding south on the Thruway at Mile Post 76.9, town of New Paltz, about 15 miles south of Kingston, when he apparently went to sleep at the wheel of his car and smashed into the rear of a car operated by Kenneth D. Folta, 22, of Saratoga Springs.

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
Freeman Staff Writer

It's coming back big, they say—the player piano, and it's bringing the kind of music we like to hear locally—stimulation of industry.

It is already striking tones of a new future for the Charles Ramsey Corp., 15-19 Gage Street, manufacturer of piano hardware, and one of the city's older industries.

Harry C. Kapreilian, president and general manager of the corporation, today said growing interest in the mechanically played piano, is now noted west of the Mississippi, and this means it could again become popular elsewhere in the nation.

Big years of the player came soon after start of this century and the industry reached a peak in the 1920's when it shared popularity with the victrola.

New production of the instrument, Kapreilian said, is boost-

Colonel to Face Trial In Texas Tower Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a colonel to face a court martial in the collapse of a radar "Texas Tower" that dragged 28 men to their death in the Atlantic Ocean.

The officer, Col. William M. Banks, has been charged with being derelict in duty by failing to keep himself informed.

Banks was in command of the Boston air defense center and the tower was part of its radar network.

The court martial was ordered Friday by the air defense commander, Lt. Gen. Robert M. Lee. The Air Force indicated the military trial may convene within a week.

Charges against two other officers—Majs. William R. Sheppard and Reginald L. Stark—were dismissed. Both had been serving under Banks. Lee also dismissed a charge against Banks of culpable negligence resulting in death. Banks is from Raleigh, W.Va.

The tower, officially known as No. 4 but unaffectionately known by its crew as "old shaky," buckled and sank in an Atlantic gale Jan. 15.

Standing on three stilt-like legs in open sea, No. 4 had been battered and weakened by hurricanes Daisy and Donna, and it was inclined to sway and vibrate like a tuning fork.

"There were times when the men lay in their bunks and practically cried because the thing swayed so," the sister of one of the lost crewmen has recalled.

Security Clerk Gone, No Access to Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police today sought a clerk from the hush-hush National Security Agency who has been missing since Monday.

The FBI declined comment on whether it was taking part in the search for William Hyter Covington, 28, conducted by Maryland state police at the request of NSA.

Defense Department officials said Covington had no access to secret material.

NSA—so secret its employes are not supposed to tell their friends where they work—engages in communications intelligence. Located at nearby Ft. Meade, Md., it maintains around-the-clock monitoring of all signals and messages on the air waves, including those in code form.

Officials said Covington had been on sick leave for two months following an operation.

He returned to work May 31, but after working two days asked to be off June 2 because he said he needed additional medical treatment.

Last Monday and Tuesday Covington telephoned that he was sick. Wednesday, his wife called the security agency to learn where he was and was told he hadn't been in. The Covingtons live at Laurel, Md.

NSA listed Covington as missing Thursday. He was reported seen at the race track at Charles Town, W. Va., and also in Arlington, Va.

Last summer, two NSA code clerks fled to Moscow and have since been used by the Soviet Union for propaganda blasts at the United States. Both Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin are reported to have gone to work as mathematicians for the Soviet government.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

"Psychiatry and faith are teammates," says Chaplain Joseph H. Lief of the Veterans Hospital at Northport, N. Y. There for 15 years this rabbi has offered patients the strength and inspiration of faith, while psychiatrists have offered them mental health.

He has devoted his life to serving the personal and spiritual needs of thousands of patients, says the National Jewish Welfare Board, with "the warmth of a human and with brotherly feeling," becoming "famous in the field of pastoral counseling."

Congresswoman Edith C. Green (D.-Ore.) and Howard E. Butt Jr., a well-known Bapist layman from Texas, will be among the featured speakers at the 54th annual meetings of the American Baptist Convention and related agencies. Other speakers will be the Honorable Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon; the Rev. Dr. C. E. Carlson, Washington, D. C., executive director, Baptist joint committee on public affairs; and the Rev. Dr. Curtis R. Nims, pastor, First Baptist Church, San Francisco, Calif., who will give the convention sermon.

"Mission to the Unchurched" is the third-year emphasis of the Baptist Jubilee Advance. It will be launched June 14 at the opening session of the Portland convention by the Rev. Dr. Jitsuo Morikawa, New York City, who will direct that year's emphasis. Dr. Morikawa's address that evening will be on "The Vocation of the Church — Witness in the World." Dr. Morikawa is secretary of the Division of Evangelism of the American Baptist Home Mission Societies. The Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Cober, Philadelphia, Pa., who directed the second year BJA emphasis "Mission to the Local Church," is planning to present two or three pastors who will give their testimonies on what has happened in their church and congregations during the past year because of the 2nd year BJA emphasis. Protestant Rally in Berlin Hampered by Cold War Snags

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — The struggle between the Protestant church and the Communist regime of East Germany will reach a new peak in July.

The church has scheduled its annual mass rally in divided Berlin for July 19-23 and the Communists are doing their utmost to wreck it.

Half a million of the church's 40 million members throughout Germany attended the rally, known as the Kirchentag, in Munich last year. An equally large turnout could be expected next month.

But the Communists have made it plain they will do all they can to prevent East German members getting to Berlin.

They may also interfere with free travel to surrounded Berlin by barring church leaders from West Germany coming by road or rail. They have done this before when meetings of which they disapproved were held in the divided city.

Struggle Over Unity

The struggle is over the unity of the Evangelical church.

Groups of member churches are federated in one body which straddles the iron curtain. The biggest group, the Church of the Union, which formerly covered the area of Prussia, now stretches from the Oder River in the Communist East to the Rhine in the free West.

The Communist regime doesn't like this. It wants for East Germany a separate church leadership. So it is campaigning to split the church in two by obstructing unified meetings of members from East and West.

To justify their opposition the Communists have slapped a political label on the rally.

They claimed East Germans were being lured to West Berlin to become pawns in the cold war. They called the organizers "militarists and revenge seekers," claiming the Kirchentag was under the patronage of North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

So far the Communists have confiscated church papers announcing the date of the Kirchentag, vetoed meetings in East Berlin and warned East Germans not to try to get to West Berlin to take part.

The church has made one concession to this pressure. It has advised serving members of the West German armed forces not to come to Berlin to take part.

Cardinal's Drive For Foster Homes

June has been designated as "Catholic Foster Home Month" in the New York Archidocese and a campaign will be waged to find foster parents for 564 dependent children ranging in age from infancy to 16 years, now on the waiting lists of the Catholic Home Bureau and the New York Foundling Hospital, the two placement agencies of New York Catholic Charities.

The Rev. G. Howard Moore, in charge of the Cardinal's Campaign for Foster Homes which has been in operation since 1947, will direct this latest drive to find foster families for homeless boys and girls. The search will extend to all sections of the Archdiocese which includes the counties of Westchester, Dutchess, Rockland, Orange, Ulster, Putnam and Sullivan as well as the boroughs of Bronx, Manhattan and Richmond.

Currently there are 26 foster homes in Ulster County where 58 children are being cared for until their own homes, if possible, can be rehabilitated.

The Catholic Home Bureau was the first Catholic agency in the United States organized for the exclusive purpose of placing Catholic children under foster home care. It was founded in 1899 to cope with the problem of finding shelter for the deluge of of Irish, Italian and German children left stranded in New York through the illness or death of their immigrant parents in the latter part of the 19th century. Now as then the Bureau is still looking for homes for the homeless, a number of whom are New York's latter-day "migrants," those of the Spanish-speaking backgrounds.

The New York Foundling Hospital, which dates back to 1869, also places children in foster homes as part of its four fold program of caring for abandoned and neglected infants of all races. The Boarding Department specializes in placing children up to two years of age.

These two Catholic child placement agencies presently have a combined total of 2809 children under supervision in 1260 foster homes.

Each proposed foster home, Father Moore explains, is considered on an individual basis but certain qualities, both tangible and intangible, are sought in prospective foster parents. They should have a genuine love and wholesome interest in children; parental affection, stability of character, flexibility and thoughtfulness; an understanding approach to the problems of growing children and a concern for the spiritual and moral as well as the physical and intellectual forces in a child's life. Foster parents are paid $75 a month for each child plus medical care and clothing allowances.

Applicants must be between 25 and 60 years of age, have an income sufficient to meet the needs of their families and must either be citizens or have declared their intention of becoming one by filing first papers.

Additional information and applications to become foster parents may be obtained from the Cardinal's Campaign for Foster Homes, 122 East 22nd Street, New York 10, or by phoning GRamercy 5-7030.

Must Bring Christ To Minority Is Churchman Plea

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—One of the church's greatest needs is missionary work among minority groups in this country, a Methodist leader says.

The Rev. Dr. Hanford H. Closson, associated general secretary of the Methodist home missions division in Philadelphia, said Friday that more effort should be made to reach Negroes, American Indians and Latin Americans, especially in the Southwest.

"It is imperative that we use every effort to bring the principles and person of Christ to bear upon our society," he said. "We are vulnerable in world affairs because we want other national to follow a way that we have not yet been able to follow in our own country."

Q) "I have bought a few stocks in the past year that I am not happy about. My broker is a nice chap but I'm afraid he's rather excitable. He calls me regularly to tell me that somebody important is moving into such and such a situation, that another stock is rumored to be set for a merger or that still another is reported ready to split. I bought into all of these issues and none of the actions he mentioned has taken place. How would you handle this situation?" —C.G.

A) I think you should tell your broker that you're unhappy about your purchases; also, that if he wants to keep your business, he'll have to stick to facts and stop feeding you tips.

Almost all rumors and tips are false, and the reason is plain. Strong companies rarely allow leaks about their future plans, although insider buying sometimes reveals them. A good broker is usually backed up by an analytical department which is always sorting and sifting information to come up with some logical assumpsions on the basis of careful study.

I believe that in this matter you are almost as culpable as your broker. You tried to make some easy profits without thorough investigation, and money simply isn't made that way in the stock market.

Q) "Not long ago I purchased Universal Oil Products for long-term appreciation. I am a junior in college and have no immediate need for the money. My parents have urged me to sell now that I have recovered the full purchase cost. What do you think?"—R. G.

A) Universal Oil Products (NYSE) shares have performed very well this year. Much of this strength has come from belief that the company's anti-smog device will be accepted in California. But with or without this development, I would hold this stock as a fine research situation with good prospects for growth on increasing royalty income.

Will Valid, Kin Left Out, $700,000 for Area Church

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey's second highest court Friday upheld a will in which an elderly spinster disinherited her only living relative and left almost all of her $800,000 estate to a small country church near Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court said Miss Edna K. Denver, a retired Jersey City school teacher who died last July at 89, was of sound mind when she made the will.

The will was fought by her nephew, William D. Beattie, 54, of Oradell. He said she lived in a world of delusions, had no clear idea of how rich she was, and could not leave a valid will.

The court said, "by commonly accepted standards, Edna K. Denver was very penurious and very eccentric."

It pointed out that she lived in a small apartment heated by a kerosene stove, had ancient furniture, wore old-fashioned black clothes, collected her own rents, and lived on her teacher pension without even clipping her substantial bond coupons.

But it said that "old age, penury and eccentricity do not per se establish a lack of testamentary (will-making) capacity."

It said Beattie's own witnesses showed Miss Denver was a lucid person of strong mind, a very shrewd investor, honest in all her dealings, and a person who talked intelligently with her friends.

She left more than $700,000 in trust for the Shrub Oak Methodist Church in the tiny village of Shrub Oak, N.Y. She was buried there.

The court said Miss Denver's reason for leaving Beattie without a cent was that he didn't bury his mother—Miss Denver's sister—in the Shrub Oak family plot, but instead kept her body in a vault of Hackensack Cemetery for 10 years.

KINGSTON, NEW YORK, JUNE 10, 1961

DOMINICAN CHALLENGE

The Trujillo assassination poses a sizable challenge to the United States. What follows next in the Dominican Republic is certain to have an effect, possibly a profound one, on our relations with the Organization of American States.

Our OAS leadership, which we dare not shirk, is at stake here as it must be in everything that transpires in the Caribbean of which Castro's Cuba is a part. At the same time, it is essential that we act with wisdom and caution. The importance of having a democratic regime succeed Trujillo can scarcely be over-estimated. But in our zeal to bring this about we must be careful not to add new fuel to the fire of Latin American resentment of Yankee power.

Satisfying all the conflicting purposes of the 14 Latin American nations may require the genius of a Cavour and the wisdom of a Solomon. But we must bend every effort to that task, yet still eschew unilateral action. Senator Smathers has urged us to send in the Marines. We did that in 1916. But this is not 1916. Troops may ultimately have to go in, but if so they should be troops of several nations under OAS command.

Our record of success in the Organization of American States is encouraging. The Latins followed our lead in embargoes and sanctions against Trujillo and even in severance of relations. We can hope that leadership will be maintained. The present goal is a democratic Dominican Republic; the long-range goal is a strengthened and more unified OAS.

TOO GOOD TO LOSE

Perhaps the ultimate salvation of the world may come about as a result of man's making this old globe too cushy a place to live to permit it being destroyed. Science is making tremendous strides along this road.

The latest development in this rosy prospect is our preparation to launch, this summer, a satellite hurricane-hunter by which we hope to discover ways to kill off cyclones, tornadoes and such before they get a good start. That is the reported purpose of the third Tiros meteorological satellite which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to put aloft a few weeks hence, at the start of the Atlantic hurricane season.

Other scientists are plugging away at sea water desalinization, promising that maybe within this decade they will find a way to assure mankind of inexhaustible, inexpensive supplies of fresh water. With water and weather controlled, we could make the desert bloom and add enough cropland to support the expected doubling of our population. And for added recreational facilities there is, of course, the moon.

Meanwhile, we've got quite some chore on our hands. We must assure that our nuclear antics don't ditch this long-orbiting sphere we're already riding, before we get the improvements completed.

The Supreme Court rules that embezzled money is subject to federal income tax. Well, there goes another handy loophole.

LAND FOR SALE — CHEAP

Interior Secretary Udall's announced new regulation to spur state and local communities to obtain federal lands for parks seems commendable. Under it, communities dedicating such parks to the use of all Americans could buy the land for $2.50 an acre or rent it for 25 cents an acre a year. Heretofore the price has been 50 per cent of the fair market value, which is rising.

For the first year the annual limit is 12,800 acres. After 1962 this would drop to 6,000 acres. The limit up to now has been 640 acres. The plan would be a boon to our expanding need for outdoor recreation areas.

But is the out-and-out sale necessary? The leases, if of a sufficiently long term, would be almost equally valuable.

When we sell these lands, how do we know state administrations with easy consciences wouldn't resell them to speculators? Perhaps there is some such guarantee in the regulation. If not, there ought to be.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

POPULARITY

Personal popularity has the political value of making it smoother for a President to carry his program to completion. An unpopular President may be the richest man in all this world but Congress always responds to the voice of the people, as it should, and if the people do not like the President, for one reason or another, Congress will fight him.

John Kennedy, as a candidate, was not particularly popular. Neither was his opponent, Richard Nixon. Their debates, while novel, were not too exciting. Such a display of forensics will not likely be tried too soon again. Kennedy was elected by a small popular vote, which translated into political terms ordinarily would mean that he would not exercise much influence over Congress.

Then came the first hundred days. John Kennedy developed a personal popularity of major political significance. The general sentiment was that he ought to be given a chance. His press interviews, in contrast with President Eisenhower's which were extraordinarily dull and ambiguous, were exacting and informative. Jack Kennedy answers questions with certainty and sparkle.

The spell of popularity continued to swell until the Cuban fiasco which hurt President Kennedy's reputation, particularly as he assumed full responsibility instead of firing those who were really responsible for errors of judgment and of commission. His avoidance of an immediate decision against Castro looked like indecisiveness. Many who had looked upon Kennedy as a possible Moses, took a second look at him and critics became numerous.

The White House sped up its public relations program, emphasizing the glorious womanhood of Mrs. Kennedy, the charm of Carolina, the brilliance of Bobby. But it did not work and had there been someone with the sharpness of William Randolph Hearst to shout "Remember the Maine!" no one could have known what might have happened. But Kennedy remained adamant. He would not risk a war over Berlin because of any action he might take in Cuba.

Again many stepped back to ask whether Kennedy was strong enough, mature enough to head this nation. Criticism was no longer only political; it became personal.

Then he went to Europe, to Paris, Vienna and London and conquered a continent by his personality, his culture, his charm, his surprising knowledge and his wife. It was a public relations job but an extraordinarily brilliant one. Without a single misstep, without an iota of cheapness, President and Mrs. Kennedy captured the hearts of the masses. In Great Britain, this was particularly fortunate, because the British have been moving away from us in many directions. It is more important for the United States, from a practical standpoint, that half a million Londoners came out to shout themselves hoarse for Jack and Jackie, than that Khrushchev should have behaved like a gentleman, which he did. Londoners do not shout for foreigners very readily.

What Kennedy actually accomplished was to overcome the froth of minor antagonism and to re-establish such unity as Winston Churchill produced during the worst days of World War II. And this was accomplished without saying one word or making a single gesture.

Mass popularity is a major quality in international relations. Winston Churchill could do no wrong, could say nothing untoward, so far as the American people are concerned. He was a master of public opinion in his hey-day and could do more with the wave of a hand than most politicians could accomplish with profound speeches. Apparently John Kennedy possesses this same quality — a warmth of personality which carries itself not only to individuals but to great masses.

Actually, President Kennedy did not achieve an agreement about anything. Even his understanding with Prime Minister Macmillan is only a repetition of an already established position. Nevertheless the enthusiasm of the British people for President Kennedy and his wife re-established a cordiality which even Franklin D. Roosevelt did not achieve in Great Britain. That popularity can stand the United States in good stead in the forthcoming discussions, particularly as it becomes increasingly necessary for this country to find a unification of policy with Great Britain.

Although the United States is probably the strongest nation on Earth, it cannot stand alone. The world today is too complex, too involved, for any one nation to stand absolutely alone. From an historical standpoint, Anglo-American friendship must be the foundation of policy and that has been strengthened by John Kennedy's visit.

The Mature Parent

Don't Let Jealous Child Upset Fairness, Firmness

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Our 8-year-old is very jealous of his older brother. Though he gets along with his little sister, he always is accusing me of unfairness and partiality to the older boy. Lately I've wondered if we did wrong when we sent him to his grandmother at the time of his sister's birth and kept the older boy with us. He is so jealous I think at times he hates me. . . .

ANSWER: Ask your pediatrician if he thinks this child needs professional help with his jealousy.

Now about you. You didn't send this boy away from home when his sister was born to hurt him, did you? You sent him to grandma because it seemed the only thing to do at the time. We parents are not gifted with infallible foresight. We do not have to spend our lives apoligizing to children for exposing them to situations whose harmful effects we could not forsee at the time.

I think you are doing just that. I think that fear of having treated this child unfairly makes you especially vulnerable to his accusations of "unfairness."

To feel obliged to deliver perfect fairness to a jealous child is to paralyze our ability to take firm stands with him.

If he demands his brother's privilege of a later bedtime we'll grant it in order to maintain his picture of us as a perfectly just parent. We back down from our stand on a bed time appropriate to his younger age, not so much because we're interested in justice but because we fear his accusation of imperfect fairness.

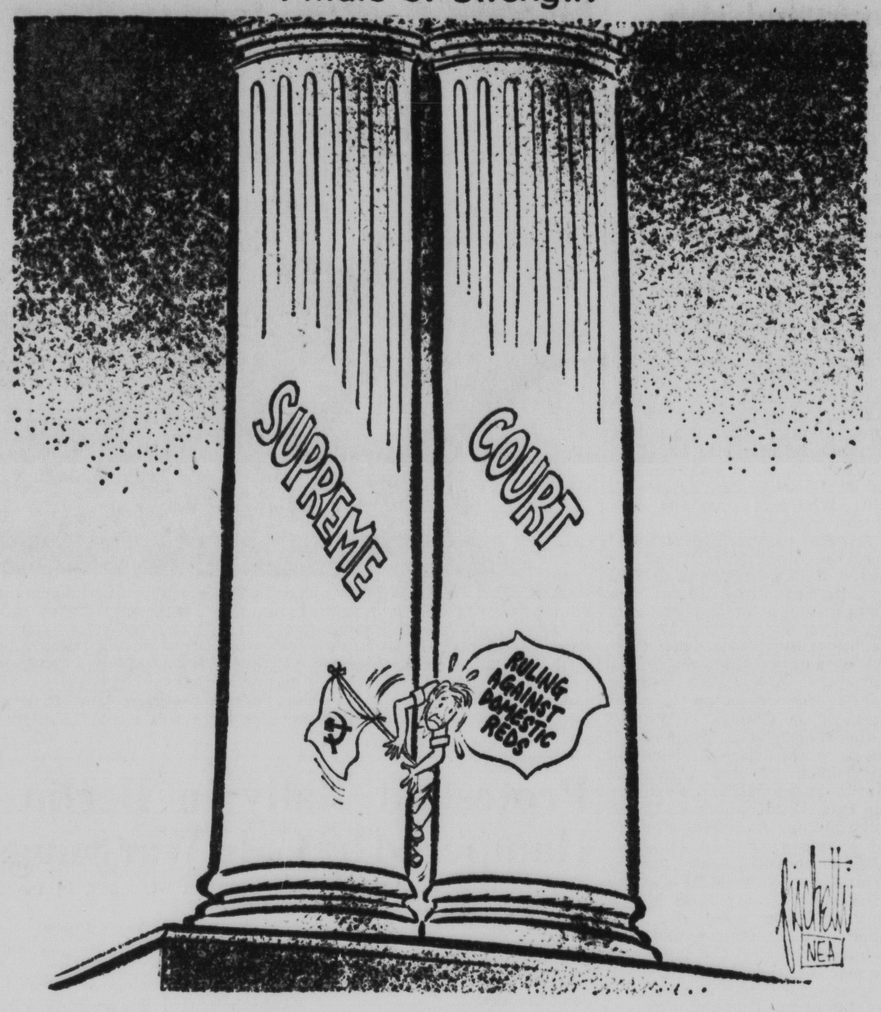

But if we don't mind being regarded as imperfectly fair, his accusations doesn't disturb us. We say cheerfully, "OK. I'm unfair. Now get along upstairs. Call me when you're in bed and I'll come up and say good night."

A jealous child sensing our anxiety to be perfectly fair can use it to make us indulge all his demands.

He can also make us very resentful. Because his jealousy is doubt of our affection, we can't afford resentful submissions to his demands which increase his doubt. We can't afford the pretense of perfect fairness that exposes us to constant challenges that irritate us. We can't afford to let his jealousy maneuver us into begrudged indulgences that justify his jealous belief that we do not like him.

Pillars of Strength

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — An old-fashioned New Deal-type battle between the United States government and the private power companies is shaping up on the New Frontier. It involves a proposed $176 million all-federal transmission line system in the upper Colorado River basin.

U. S. Commissioner of Reclamation Floyd E. Dominy went to Salt Lake City for a public debate on the issue with President E. M. Naughton of Utah Power and Light Co.

This private utility is running a big advertising campaign to buck the government proposal. Consumer groups, public power authorities and electric co-operatives are answering with a campaign in support of the Department of Interior's Bureau of Reclamation program, approved by Congress.

THE BATTLE COMES TO WASHINGTON this month in hearings before the House Appropriations Committee, when public and private power interest spokesmen present cases.

Bureau of Reclamation completed its testimony in May. House money hearing are closed. But when the battle moves over to the Senate side, it will all come out in the open.

The curious thing about this fight is that the Bureau of Reclamation's program for all-federal transmission lines has the approval of both Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

Part of the explanation for this is found in the fact that Dominy, a career civil servant who worked his way to the top in Bureau of Reclamation during the Eisenhower administration, was kept on as head by Kennedy.

Anyway, just three days before the Eisenhower administration ended, Republican Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton approved Dominy's recommendations for an all-federal transmission line system in the Colorado River storage basin.

Two weeks after the Kennedy administration came in, Secretary Stewart L. Udall reaffirmed Seaton's decision, over private utility objections. And the battle was on.

WHAT IS INVOLVED is a proposed 1,872-mile government built, owned and operated system of 115 and 230 kilovolt capacity. It would connect the principal government power dams and generating stations in Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.

Private power companies have some transmission lines of their own in this area, and propose to build others. They oppose an all-federal system as a duplication.

Also, they would like to be paid for "wheeling" government power over their own lines for wholesale distribution. It would go to government-preferred customers like rural electric co-ops and to private power companies that would retail it to consumers.

Private utilities also argue they would save the government money by constructing the lines themselves and by paying taxes on their system. Federal lines would operate tax-free.

THE GOVERNMENTS REPLY, IN BRIEF, is that it can deliver the power at six mills a kilowatt, while the private charge would have to be 6.75 mills minimum. The government system would thus provide a yardstick to keep prices down.

This would be done by interchanges with other federal power system. The upper Colorado basin transmission system would connect with the Hoover-Davis-Parker dam system on the lower Colorado at Phoenix. It would connect with the Colorado-Big Thompson system at Green Mountain, west of Denver. It would connect with the Missouri River system at Pueblo.

Ultimately this system might be connected with the Bonneville power system in the northwest through the upper Missouri power lines in Montana. An all-western power grid is one of the dreams of assistant secretary of interior, Kenneth Holum.

ANY IDEA THAT BONNEVILLE POWER could be delivered to the Tennessee Valley or the eastern U. S. is, however, nonsense. Maximum range would be 230 miles.

Bureau of Reclamation received $5.1 million from Congress for developing the upper Colorado grid this year. It is requesting $13.6 million for the year beginning July 1.

Citizen's Group To Study School Facts, Figures

The first meeting of the New Paltz Citizen's Committee was held recently under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce at the Municipal Building, Harold Phillips, president of the chamber acted as chairman of the meeting.

Approximatey 30 people, delegates from other organizations, and John Ashton Jr., president of the school board, attended.

Phillips introduced Van Pine, the Chamber delegate, who said, this group should study all the available facts and figures concerning public school education and how these facts apply to New Paltz. When the committee thinks it has pertinent facts about any part of the educational system, these facts should be presented to the school board and be published at the same time. In no way is the committee to think of itself as an agitation group. The purpose of the group is to offer constructive aid to the board and to the public."

Pine outlined the fundamentals of operation that the committee should endeavor to follow. They are:

The committee should get advice from everyone. All classes and ages must be represented in polls and statistics.

It should be well organized with a set of rules governing action. Action should be kept to study, advice and recommendation.

It should have freedom of thought, and action, but should cooperate with the school board.

It should have a two-way communication system set up between the school board and the community.

On a permanent basis, members of the committee should be rotated.

The members should be able, interested, nonpolitical and nonpartisan.

The committee should turn to the school board, faculty and administration for cooperation and help, but not to be dominated by them.

The committee should conduct research, study and then debate before making final recommendations.

The committee should operate with "no ax to grind."

Officers should be selected from active, interested people on the committee.

The membership should be free from pre-conceived notions and be flexible in its beliefs.

It should be a fact-finding committee, not a fault-finding one.

Mrs. Hicks, representative from the New York State Citizen's Committee on Education, spoke on the functions of such a committee. She said a written format of operations should be used as a guide for the future. She also said that there was a need to include teachers on the committee.

The Chamber of Commerce wishes it to be known that their chief interest in organizing a citizen's committee is that of organizer only.

Delegates to date from local organizations are Van Pine, Chamber of Commerce; Taylor Thompson, Jaycees; Millicent Zaleski, Jayncees; Stanley Hasbrouck Jr., Paltz Club; Robert Corey, VFW; Maureen Hasbrouck, VFW Auxiliary; William Gruner, American Legion; Mrs. Delia Shaw, American Legion Auxiliary; Frank Tantillo, Gardiner Civic Association; Mrs. H. Bradt, League of Women Voters; Mrs. Nathan Stillman, Garden Club; Alfred Stassman, Lutheran Church; John Schreiber, Huguenot Grange; Walter Paradies, Rod and Gun Club; Mrs. Eldon Johnson, Nursing Committee.

A meeting of the committee has been scheduled for Tuesday, June 13, at which time they will elect officers. Mrs. Schulte has been selected to act as secretary for the meeting.

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

This columnist in a previous article has dwelt upon the feverish activities connected with the great recruiting campaign of 1862 in New York State following Lincoln's call for 300,000 more volunteers to cope with the rapidly rising tenseness of the war situation. Col. Silas W. Burt, assistant inspector-general who had been assigned to the Hudson Valley together with several areas above Albany, was busily surveying the progress being made at camp sites as far down the river as Yonkers including the one on the Kingston flats where the construction of wooden barracks already was underway. Colonel Burt, following his visits to Newburgh and Kingston, expressed himself as being "deeply impressed by the earnest and serious interest in military matters by every one I met." At Kingston, August 14, 1862, he found that great progress had been made in organizing the 120th Infantry: 444 men had been mustered and 400 more reported as enlisted for the new regiment which Col. George H. Sharpe had been authorized to raise in Ulster County. However, he now found that the camp quarters were inadequate for such a large number of men.

Colonel Burt also reported that as none of the soldiers was uniformed, there were more of them loafing about the village (Kingston) than there were in camp, where they "appeared merely as a mob." It seems that Adjutant Tuthill was so absorbed in his routine duties that he could give no attention to other matters, while Colonel Sharpe was engaged in a personal canvass of his district to speed up enlistments, and so could not attend to the discipline in the big camp. Colonel Sharpe, who had captained a company of 20th Regiment men following the first Federal call for volunteers, was an indefatigable worker and it is logical to assume that he spared no time and effort to visit the several enlistment stations in the outlying townships, and gather in such physically fit young fellows as had not already gone South with Col. George Pratt's Old Twentieth, or Ulster Guards.

Yes, one can imagine the boys in their off-duty hours found "loafing" in the village rather an interesting place to pass the time on those hot August days previous to their departure for the Southland. Here, in the section known as Higginsville, between Wall Street and the Esopus Creek bridge, were the principal business places and it was from the sidewalks, if any, along North Front Street and upper Washington Avenue that they could stand and watch the almost incessant flow of wagon traffic from the busy townships up the Delhi and Kingston Turnpike. They also could see the folks back home, driving in from Hurley, Marbletown, Rochester, Wawarsing and other Rondout Creek areas. A good place to contact friends and neighbors, and perhaps also find out who had taken over a soldier's old job of teamstering for the tanneries and sawmills which lined the brooks and creeks back in the hills. Lads from the mountain towns possibly would know some of the men who were bringing in big loads of tanned hides and wooden firkins of butter from neighboring Greene and Delaware Counties. A feller, whilst waiting for his natty blue uniform and all that was to go with it, might even 'hoof it' down past the scattered houses to Rondout, there to view the sights of that busy waterfront village.

Still, things were moving along pretty well and the time was not far off when our boys would march down Union Avenue (Broadway) to board the Steamer Manhattan for New York, on the first leg of their trip to Washington. Capt. S. S. Westbrook and Lieutenants R. B. Newkirk and Daniel Elmendorf had completed their B. Company and that unit had been mustered into U. S. Service, and the captain was made acting commandant of the camp. The recruits, still minus their equipment, were well fed and sheltered. Butter and other "camp luxuries" were often furnished by committees. August 23, 1862, the 120th was presented with a stand of colors by the women of Ulster, and the following day, Sunday, came the sad parting of 941 Boys in Blue from home and friends. Total deaths in service, 279. Total wounded 394. The later additions by recruits and transfer made a total of 1,562 names on the muster rolls of that grand old regiment, the 120th Volunteer Infantry.

Bribe and Entry

Man With $14,000 InUnderwearNow Faces New Counts

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—The man who carried $14,000 in his underwear and $2,000 in his pocket must answer charges more serious than the one that sent him to jail for five days for vagrancy.

Identified as Boris Jordan, 42, the man was accused Friday of attempting to bribe a state trooper, a felony, and entering the United States illegally.

He also is wanted for questioning by Denver, Colo., authorities, who said Jordan fits the description of a man who bilked 36 banks in the Denver area of $7,000 to $10,000 by cashing worthless checks under the signature of Antoine Lorraine.

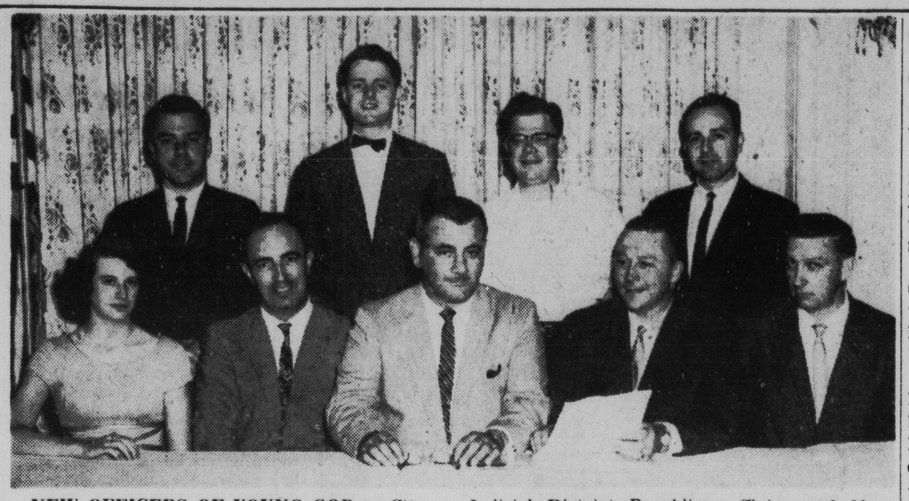

Dist. Atty. Thomas R. North said Jordan, shortly after he was arrested Wednesday at Rouses Point, offered Trooper Russell Trombley $2,000, and raised it to $3,000, if he would let him go. Jordan also allegedly offered $3,000 if Trombley would try to persuade immigration authorities not to file charges.

The Immigration Services issued a detainer charging Jordan with illegal entry.

North said he believed the alleged illegal entry occurred five years ago.

State Police quoted Jordan, who claimed to be a native of Germany, as saying he came to to special pockets in his under-Northern New York from Chicago to buy a farm.

Troopers found $14,000 sewn in wear.

Veterans Rights and Benefits Listed

Bonus—New York State paid a bonus for World War I active service performed between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918. The rate of payment was $10 a month for each month of active service with a maximum of $150 payable to any one case. There was no distinction made between stateside or overseas service. The detailed records concerning payment of WW 1 State Bonuses have been destroyed. A veteran, therefore, generally will not be able to obtain the date or amount of payment of the WW 1 NYS veteran bonus. A document may be obtained through this agency, however, from the Division of Veterans' Affairs, 155 Washington Avenue, Albany 10, N. Y., which will indicate that a veteran applied for and received the NYS bonus for service in WW I.

Compensation — The current monthly compensation rates for veterans with war time service-connected disabilities which became effectively Oct. 1, 1957 are: 10%-$19; 20%-$36; 30%-$55; 40%-$73; 50%-$100; 60%-$120; 70%-$140; 80%-$160; 90%-$179; 100%-$225. Peacetime service is compensated at the rate of 80% of wartime disability rates. Additional compensation for dependents is payable to veterans who are rated 50% or more disabled.

Education — Children of deceased veterans who are eligible for schooling under the War Orphans Educational program are not allowed to pursue correspondence courses under this law.

Insurance—World War 2 National Service Life Insurance or post-Korea NSLI policy holders (except for RH policies) may add a total disability income rider to their policies at a small additional premium cost. Policy holders who become totally disabled from any cause before age 60 and while the TDIP clause is in effect will receive an income of $10 a month for each $1000 of their NSLI which is in force. Payments under the disability income rider may begin after the insured has been totally disabled for six consecutive months and continue for the duration of the disability regardless of how long it lasts. No payment may be made for disabilities incurred after age 60 and no premium change for this benefit is made after that date. The premium cost for the TDIP varies according to the insured's age, type of policy and its face amount. Payments under the disability income provision do not reduce the face amount of the NSLI policy payable at death. Premium payments, moreover, both on the basic NSLI policy and the disability rider, may be waived upon application by the insured for any period of total disability lasting longer than six months.

Armed Forces—The Soldier's and Sailor's Civil Relief Act of 1940, as amended, permits the courts to prevent the foreclosure on a loan of a person in active military service and for three months after his discharge. The income of a service person, however, must be so reduced that the required payment on the loan cannot be made. The law does not forgive payments on the loan. Any part of the payment which is postponed must be made up after Armed Forces.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen on their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Three Candidates File for B of E Election July 12

Three candidates have filed petitions for positions on Saugerties Board of Education up to Friday afternoon, according to Mrs. Margaret Marburger, district clerk. Other petitions have been requested and are expected to be filed before the deadline on June 28.

Steve Stycos is running for re-election for his second term, having served on the board for the past three years. He resides at 25 Main Street in the village, and conducts a tailoring and cleaning establishment at 234 Main Street.

Charles Ollinger of Mt. View Avenue, Simmons Park, has filed a petition for the position created by the resignation of Kenneth Beadle, and later filled by Clarence Brower who subsequently moved from the vicinity. This opening is for a one year term. Ollinger and his wife Violet have four sons, Gerald and Joseph who are students in Saugerties High School and Jeffrey and Charles who are pupils in St. Mary's of the Snow. They have resided here since October 1955.

Ollinger has been with the IBM Corporation for the past 13 years and at present is a manager of installation planning and cabling. He served four and a half years in the U. S. Navy prior to his present employment. He is active locally in youth programs, including CYO, Little League, Babe Ruth and Biddy Leagues.

The third petition was filed by Henry P. Breitenbach of High Woods for a three-year term vacated by John Lowther. He and his wife, Shirley, have two daughters, both students in the Saugerties system. He is an employe of Shults Paint Company in Kingston.

He is active in community affairs and recently was elected president of the Lions Club for the coming year. He is also serving on the Citizens Advisory Group which was appointed by the board of education to study the school problems and make recommendations for a new school building program for the district.

The election for board members will take place at the Main St. School on July 12.

Glasco Firemen Start Campaign For Activity Fund

Glasco Fire Company will begin its annual canvass of the district Sunday, to raise money for the many activities which it sponsors and supports in the area.

This kickoff drive is scheduled at this time to insure the funds necessary for the forthcoming bazaar and fireworks display tentatively set for July 7 and 8 by the volunteer company.

Michael Mauro, president, in issuing this notice said, "We are hoping the residents in the Glasco Fire District will welcome and support the volunteers as they have in the past years. Only with your help at this time is it possible to continue to support and sponsor the Yankee Little League team, the annual visit from Santa, the fireworks display and the many other civic duties which are undertaken throughout the year."

Mauro also spoke of the excellent record of the district in having so few fires during the past year. He said that members of the fire department felt that this was a good indication of the precautions taken by the residents.

All vols on the canvass Sunday will be wearing their parade hats and will be carrying proper identification cards.

Set Film Showing At Baptist Church On Red Strategy

The film, "Operation Abolition" will be shown in First Baptist Church of Saugerties, Wednesday 7:30 p. m. This film reveals the Communist strategy and tactics in the rioting which occurred during House Committee on Un-American Activities hearings in San Francisco, May 12-14, 1960.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a report in relation to this rioting wrote, "The Communists demonstrated in San Francisco just how powerful a weapon Communist infiltration is. They revealed how it is possible for only a few Communist agitators, using mob psychology, to turn peaceful demonstrations into riots. Their success there must serve as a warning that their infiltration efforts aimed not only at the youth and student groups, but also at our labor unions, churches, professional groups, artists, newspapers, government, and the like, can create chaos and shatter our internal security.

"The Communists also demonstrated that the menace of communism is not a simple forthright threat. Instead, it is conspiracy which can be controlled only through full understanding of the true nature of the conspiracy and the ability to separate truth from propaganda."

The public is cordially invited to attend the showing of the film.

Orientation Held For Sixth Grade Students, Parents

Sixth Grade students from Saugerties elementary schools and their parents attended an orientation meeting at Saugerties Junior-Senior High School this week.

The meeting was sponsored by the high school guidance department under the supervision of Keneth Lane, guidance counselor, for the purpose of familiarizing the students and parents with the Seventh Grade program.

David Cunningham, high school principal, extended a welcome to the sixth graders and their parents in the school auditorium. This was followed by a short discussion period during which different phases of the junior high school program were explained. Participating in the discussions were Miss Audrey Grant, nurse-teacher; Miss A. Frances Larned, guidance director, and Robert Moser, Seventh Grade leader and English teacher.

Following the meeting in the auditorium, those attending were conducted on tours of the high school with several girls from the present Seventh Grade class acting as their guides.

As the groups visited the classrooms, the Seventh Grade teachers greeted them and answered questions concerning the Seventh Grade program.

Teachers who participated in the orientation were Graham Barkhuff, industrial arts department; Mrs. Robert Weiss, home economics department; Eugene LaPlante, art department; Richard Redder, social studies and mathematics, and David Goble, social studies.

Prior to the evening meeting, Lane visited all of the elementary schools and showed colored slides of the various events in a typical school day of the seventh grader. Each sixth grade student was also given a junior high handbook to use as a guide when entering the junior-senior high school in September.

Testimony Ends In Amesse Case, To Jury Monday

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Testimony ended Friday in the trial of David Amesse, accused of the Hudson River drowning of his girl friend, Rachel Perry, last Dec. 21.

Amesse, 20, is charged with second degree murder and first-degree manslaughter in the death of Miss Perry,18.

The prosecution contends Amesse pushed the girl off the Mid-Hudson Bridge because he thought shewas pregnant. Authorities said Amesse signed a statement saying he and Rachel entered into a suicide pact but that he "chickened out."

Amesse testified he did give the girl a push, but denied that he shoved her off the bridge. The defendant also said he signed a confession because he feared the threats of state troopers.

State Trooper John Conway, one of the final trial witnesses, denied Amesse had been threatened.

Woman is Hurt In Truck Fall

A 52-year-old Kingston woman was injured Thursday when she fell from a pickup truck and struck her head on pavement on Delaware Avenue, according to a report to police on Friday.

Estelle Kelly, of 221 East Strand, was a passenger in a 1957 truck operated by Charles E. Howell, of 215 North Street, when the vehicle skidded and struck a wall. The impact caused the door on the passenger's side to open and the woman fell out, police were told.

She was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated. Later she was released.

The player, as probably everyone knows, produces music by movement of rolls of perforated paper to activate keys. The old type conformed to the style of the ordinary upright piano, but those now being made are more compact and of modern design.

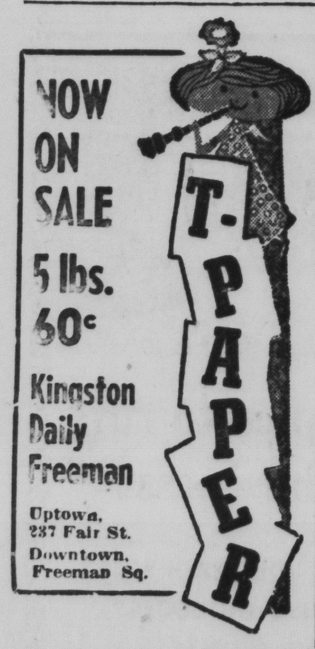

Words on Rolls

Words of popular songs are carried along with melodies on the olls, and this accommodation probably more than anything affecting popular music, accounted for the memorizing of more song lyrics back in the roaring twenties than anything else in the field.

The invention of the modern piano (non-player type), says Webster, cannot be credited to a single individual. The first application of the principle used was by the Italian harpsicord maker Cristofori in 1710-11. It took a long while after that, even though the hurdy gurdy, barrel and hand organs, hinted at the idea, before the player piano was produced.

Probe Bicycle Thefts

temporary house of worship on West Union Street.

Desiring their children to have a religious education and to be taught the Polish language, the congregation built a school near the church on Delaware Avenue. It was used until December of 1958, when, because of its wooden structure, it was declared a fire hazard.

When the Rev. Joseph Sieczek, pastor of the church, was faced with the problem of immediate action for a school building, the White Eagle Society offered the use of their brick building for classes and later for permanent use as a school, with an addition built on. The school with modern facilities cost about $200,000.

The cornerstone laying for the original White Eagle Building was laid in October of 1921 by Mayor Palmer Canfield during a program presided over by the Benevolent Society president John Lukaszewski. The stone was blessed by the Rev. Francis Lesniewski, pastor of the church. Verses were recited by Frances Hudela and Stella Musialkiewicz.

Appreciated by Priest

Father Sieczek, who blessed the new White Eagle building last November, will be out of the city Sunday, and has sent his felicitations to the society. He wrote, "May God continue to bless you is the sincere wish and earnest prayer of your chaplain." He has complimented the society publicly on several occasions for their cooperation in giving up their building for his school.

The new $135,000 building, 42 by 82, was started in April of 1960 by Slover, Jansen and Schline, following drawings made by Augustus Schrowang, local architect. Its banquet hall seats 300 people, and there is a recreation room for the society on the first of two floors.

Members of the building committee are Edward Lukaszewski, president; John Buboltz, vice president (former alderman of the Fourth ward); Joseph Klonowski, recording secretary; Walter Tatarzewski, financial secretary; and John A. Dudek, treasurer. Board of directors—Bernard Bujak, Francis Duffy, Walter Czarnecki, Donald Tomczyk, and Joseph Raczkowski Jr.

Officers of the White Eagle Benevolent Society are: Edward Lukaszewski, president; Adam Klonowski, vice president; Walter Tatarzewski, financial secretary; John A. Dudek, treasurer and Joseph Bujak, recording secretary. Members of the board of directors are: Raymond Stepski, Adam Argulewicz Jr., Joseph Raczkowski Jr., Walter Czarnecki, Bernard Bujak and Donald Tomczyk.

The widow of another received a letter from her husband which said:

"I hope it (the tower) lasts long enough to get home and see you and the kids again."

It didn't.

The Air Force said the charge against Banks is that:

"Despite his knowledge of the structural condition of the tower and his receipt of the severe weather forecast, Col. Banks failed to keep himself appraised of the developing weather situation; did not maintain contact with the officer in charge of the tower and with the commander of the squadron, and failed to hold himself readily available for any action necessary in view of the developing dangerous situation at the tower."

While the Air Force pressed its inquiry into the tragedy, a Senate subcommittee collected testimony.

35 From Holland Guests in City

A group of 35 visitors from Holland were entertained in Kingston earlier this week. The Convention and Visitors Committee of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce helped make the necessary arrangements, including a requested visit to the Old Dutch Church.

This is the third consecutive year a group of tourists from Holland included Kingston in their itinerary. On arrival they were greeted by Chamber manager Albert Kurdt and Harry Rigby Jr. assisted in making plans for the visit to the Old Dutch Church.

Two things which impressed the visitors very favorably were the display of a Dutch Flag in the lobby of the Governor Clinton Hotel, in honor of their visit, and the hospitality and assistance given by Mrs. Martha Rauscher of the hotel staff. Mrs. Rauscher, being able to speak Dutch, served as a guide and interpreter. The latter was appreciated by many of the visitors unable to read the dinner menu or speak English.

Highland state police arrested Walker on the check charge after a fast alert had been sent out to area police authorities Friday afternoon.

Walker allegedly cashed a check for $42.50 at the Gaffney market. The check was signed by "Joseph Evans." It was taken by one of Gaffney's clerks.

Gaffney became suspicious and called the Huguenot Bank, New Paltz, which advised him that there was no such account. Gaffney then called Highland state police and gave them a description of the car. State police sent out a wire message to area police authorities.

A trooper with the Hyde Park state police and a member of the Poughkeepsie Police Department spotted and stopped the car in Poughkeepsie, but Walker was not in it. It was learned that Walker was driving another car and was on his way to Highland.

Committed to Jail

Investigator Al Chieco, Trooper Joseph Franke and Poughkeepsie Detective Edward McLoughlin later found Walker in a second car in Highland and he was arrested.

Walker was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Patsy Conforti of Highland and committed to the Ulster County jail pending a preliminary hearing at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fans of the Saturday night who-did-it will be happy to know that all is peace once more in the Perry Mason family. Perry is back in the fold.

Raymond Burr is the living image of Perry, of course, and ever will be in the minds of millions of fans of the Erle Stanley Gardner mysteries. Include me in that group. Perry Mason is the only TV show our family watches on a regular basis.

For a few anxious weeks, it looked as though Burr might fly the coop. Now the troubles are resolved, and the resolution bodes well for future years of the popular series.

Burr explains: "It wasn't a matter of my holding out for a change of contract or a change of venue." These legal terms have rubbed off on him; the latter means change of a trial, for good cause shown, from one county to another.

The actor wasn't seeking to change counties. As he put it: "The issue was whether they would change the show so I could continue with it."

Burr's situation has been well chronicled in this space and elsewhere. It was that he found himself faced with a superhuman task of delivering weekly more dialogue than the average leading man has in a feature movie.

And did it for four years with scarcely a let-up, except for enforced stays in the hospital.

The producers came up with a formula to keep their Perry before the bar.

"It is quite simple," said Burr. "I now will work only five days out of every six. In other words, no matter how long the shooting of a program will take, I will be assured the sixth day off. That will be enough to regain my strength, whereas working six or seven days at 18 hours a day became virtually impossible."

Though he had another Emmy in his satchel, Burr didn't use it or any other means to exact more money from his employers.

President's Back Condition Better

By KARL R. BAUMAN

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy's doctor expressed confidence today that the President's ailing back is getting well.

But Dr. Janet Travell kept a sharp vigil over her famous patient to see that he obeyed orders.

She again directed that he get a lot of rest, swim in a heated pool and us crutches while walking about the seaside villa where he is staying.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said it still is too early to say whether Kennedy will be on crutches when he leaves late Sunday for Washington.

"Dr. Travell is confident that the President's condition is improving," Hatcher told newsmen. "He is experiencing less discomfort."

Get well telegrams poured in.

One came from Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of Canada. Diefenbaker said he was distressed to hear the news of Kennedy's back injury. He said he was more concerned that Kennedy should have sustained it during ceremonial tree planting in Ottawa May 16.

Kennedy wired back thanking the prime minister "for your gracious message," and added:

"The tree will be there long after the discomfort is gone."

Kennedy's condition, described as a lumbosacral strain, is said officially to be unrelated to serious our back operations he underwent in 1954 and '55.

Dr. Travell recommended the use of crutches to relieve pressure on the President's back.

Distinctive Ranch Type Home for Growing Family

(By Associated Architects)

It's always a pleasant surprise to find a house which is attractive and different, yet which costs no more to build. The "Mary", today's offering of the Associated Architects, completely refutes the idea that a home must be "boxy" to be economical. It's a trim, sleek three-bedroom ranch with a personality all it's own.

Important to its good looks are fine balance, careful adaptation to the lot and fine use of detail. Yet a look at the floor plan shows how closely the "Mary" adheres to the sound building technique that a simple geometrical form may be used.

Much of the balance is achieved by placing the garage on a lower level. Set in a brick area with landscaping appropriate to the lot, it is very convenient, yet allows the lines of the house itself to flow uninterruptedly above. The "Mary" can also be constructed on level ground and the area where the garage shows on the picture would become part of the full basement.

The design inside shows a fine sense of balance also: the three sleeping rooms on the right offer privacy and quiet. Windows, two of them corner units, provide excellent ventilation and light to the whole area. Sliding door closets are especially roomy. And a linen closet in the hallway is handy to all three rooms.

No bedroom is more than a step away from the bathroom and its fine, modern appointments. A lavatory adjoins the bath, opening into an entryway at the right of the family room. This is a most economical and efficient arrangement.

Surprising note is the kitchen which appears somewhat smaller than usual. Actually, with its built-in ovens and modern cooking top excellent layout of appliances and with a dining area provided in the family room, this room proves itself to every woman's satisfaction. It saves many steps, actually makes her more efficient.

Not only is the living room large and cheerful with light pouring in its magnificent, six foot by nine bow window, its sense of spaciousness is increased by its opening into the family room.

As a center from which all social activity radiates, the generously-sized family room lives up to its name. Traffic is channeled here from the rear entrance and by a foyer at the front door which smartly bypasses the living room.

On the outside, the roof design should be noted for two reasons: (1) its gentle pitch makes the house look longer and more trim, and (2) a 24 inch overhang all around not only adds attractiveness but helps keep rooms cool by shading them from the high midsummer sun.

Total cubage is 25,878 cubic feet. The living area occupies 1362 square feet, the garage 325 square feet. Overall dimensions are 48 feet by 27 feet. Plans show details and section views for building with full basement or with no basement.

Old Furniture Can Now Take On Bright Life

By VIVIAN BROWN

Bulky pieces of old furniture the lady of the house has been hoarding may see new light and become useful, if present trends are an indication.

That old oak round dining room table, fashionable during World War I, may see service again, and set the pace for an entire room. Everywhere one sees these sturdy wood tables revived handsomely for modern use. Some spotted at antiques shows were rejuvenated to look better than just about anything that could take their place. The tops of these tables are stained and rubbed to a full sheen, a paradoxial effect to achieve, but easily done with proper sanding, staining and rubbing with wax. It is a wonderful finish for oak in particular, although the bases of the tables that gave them their air of distinction are either of wrought iron or painted.

One oak table had a handsome x-shaped wrought iron base that fanned out below in spiral designs. Another table was finished in a dark oak with a pedestal painted in two shades of Italian blue greens — a green that is intensely, blue and a blue that is very green.

Eighteenth century reproduction high-back chairs were painted the same color as the blue-green base. The effect was handsome. These are the type chairs that are sturdy, and so well built that they are seldom discarded, yet they do not look chic with contemporary furnishings. The new look of these chairs is good enough for any room of the house. An odd chair could serve as a desk chair. A pair of them could be used in a foyer or entrance hall.

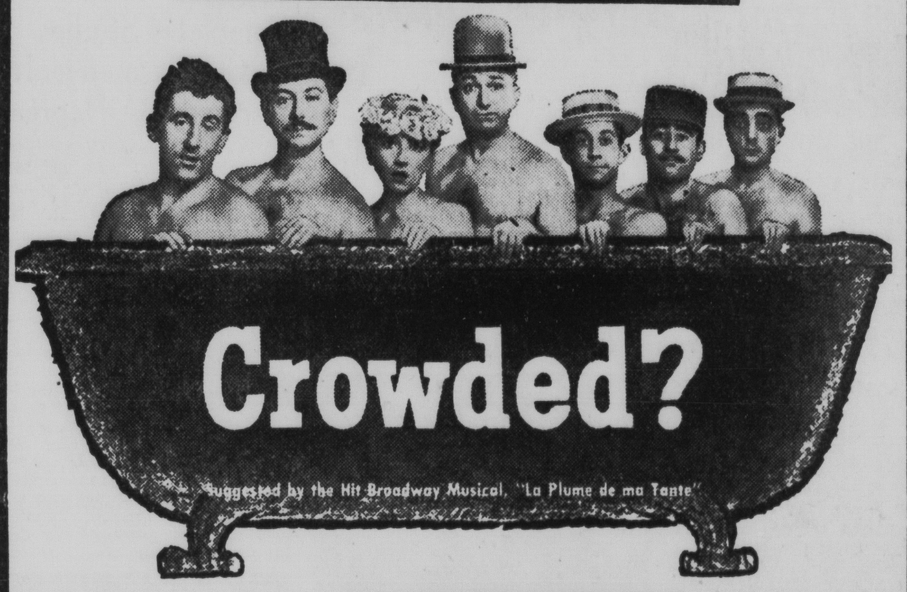

Secretaries and breakfronts often are the biggest eyesores in a house, unless built of special wood effects. These, too, may be painted in the new paint-and-polish look. One breakfront seen at a recent homefurnishings show was refinished in a mustard hue. Wrought iron pulls replaced the original hardware. The piece could see service in a dining room or living room.

A dry sink in a handsome deep orange color could perk up a solarium, dining room, den, living room. These are improved also by the addition of the black hardware. Wall brackets painted in deep hues — green, red, blue or other color look important against white or light-colored walls. Ditto book shelves.

There is a new vogue, too, for putting vibrant deep colors on old-fashioned candlesticks.

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Service Association, submits the following article:

Americans are said to have one of the richest and most nutritious diets of any nation and the lowest in real food costs—that is, in terms of hours of work required.

Too, Americans are eating better than they did 20 some years ago, yet they spend just about the same share of their income for food. This is so even though food costs today include a great deal more for packaging and processing than formerly.

Food shoppers are also expecting more in terms of quality. As marketing analysts note there is a greater sophistication and an increased expectation on the part of the consumer.

When the consumer shops for quality as well as price, however, she must know something about the items she buys. A recent survey in one urban area in Illinois disclosed that many homemakers would have preferred eggs of higher quality than they are actually using. Many of them did not understand what U. S. egg grades meant.

Two pages of colored pictures illustrating egg quality standards are included in Cornell bulletin 915, "Eggs: Selection, Care, and Preparation." You may receive this bulletin by writing to Home Demonstration Department, 220 Wall St., UPO Box 545, Kingston, N. Y. or calling FE 8-3494.

Egg Quality and Use

High quality eggs rate high in flavor and thus are a good selection for table use—for cooking in the shell, frying, and poaching. But lower quality eggs (grades B and C) have many uses in cooking and baking where appearance and delicate flavor are not as important.

All eggs need to be stored, covered, in the refrigerator—for short term storage, the carton in which they are sold is good. At room temperature, eggs can lose as much quality in 3 days as those kept for 2 weeks under proper conditions. Cracked eggs deteriorate rapidly and need to be used as soon as possible.

Did You Know

Four tablespoons of peanut butter supply the same amount of body-building protein as two ounces of lean-cooked meat.

If all the dairy products we consume yearly were in the form of fluid milk, the amount would be 302 quarts per person.

Nylon tends to pick up small quantities of dyes from other clothing and from the wash water when laundered with colored garments.

Outdoor cooking enthusiasts can use less charcoal if they first line the barbecue grill with heavy duty aluminum foil. The foil reflects more heat to the cooking area.

Farmers received 39 cents of each dollar consumers spent for domestically-produced food in 1960. This was one cent more than in 1959 and marked the first increase since 1951.

South was an expert. He won the opening club lead; drew trumps; and studied the hand carefully.

There was a simple way to play the hand. He could lead a spade toward dummy's king. Put the ace of spades in the West hand and he would have a parking place for his third diamond.

There also was a complicated way to play the hand and South decided to try it. He played one high diamond to see if the queen would drop. Then he carefully discarded dummy's deuce of spades on his long club and played a spade.

Give East the ace of spades and this would have worked perfectly. Unfortunately for South, the ace was with West. West led his last diamond and expert South went down.

Strangely enough, South had given the hand the best percentage play, because if West had started with a singleton diamond South would still have made the hand, so we can say that he played brilliantly, but without success.

PRESIDENT 11½?

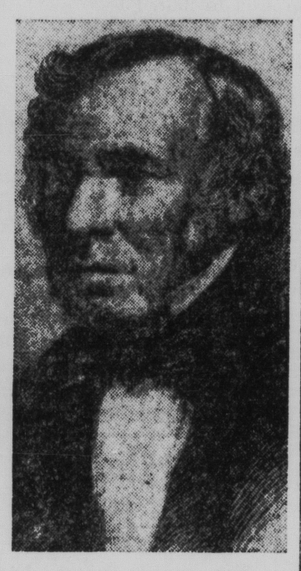

America's Forgotten President Held Office for Just One Day

James Polk; 11th President of the United States.

David R. Atchison; could he be called 11½?

Zachary Taylor; America's 12th President. He waited a day to take office.

For a single day he was P sident of the United S .es and he didn't know it!

The day was Sunday, March 4, 1849 and the man was David Rice Atchison. For the brief space of 24 hours he held the nation's highest executive office.

The presidential election of 1848 had seen Gen. Zachary Taylor defeat James K. Polk, who was running for re-election. Taylor's inauguration was scheduled, by law, to be held March 4, 1849.

But for the first and only time in our country's history, Inauguration Day fell upon a Sunday.

Federal laws prohibited holding these ceremonies on the Sabbath. Taylor was inaugurated on Monday, the 5th.

Since the 11th President, Polk, left office at midnight on the 3rd, America was left without a president for one day.

A law covered this happening. It stated that the President of the Senate would hold the office during such time.

Mr. Atchison, a Senator from Missouri, was the President of the Senate. And so, for a day, he was President, but was not informed of the fact until months later by a friend.

When his home state of Missouri was torn by the Civil War, he joined the Confederate Army. Returning from the war to his home town of Gower, he remained in retirement until his death in 1886.

The Missouri General Assembly erected a statue in Plattsburg, Missouri to this man who held the unique honor of being his country's only president for a day.

Where Did the Indian Maze Stone Come From?

The Maze Stone.

If a fortune were offered to the person who could decode the mysterious rock writing on the Maze Stone in Rinehart Canyon near Hemet, Calif., no one would claim it.

The huge gray boulder, with its weird symbols chipped into it with what is known as volcanic glass, was discovered 46 years ago by engineers searching for water. At first it was thought that the carving was the work of the nearby Cahuilla Indians.

"Our people did not do it," the Indians said, when shown the rock. Then one of the old men recalled a tribal tradition which declared the "people who came from the sea" did it.

Who these "people from the sea" were is another unsolved mystery. Twelve more rocks with a similar pattern painted in red have been discovered between Escondido, Calif., and the Mexican border. Also identical symbols are said to have been located in both the eastern and western hemispheres.

This leads to the belief that a single language may have been spoken throughout the world at one time.

The double swastika symbol is the same as is seen over temple doorways in Tibet.

Scientists are still puzzling over the mystery. The Chinese Imperial Encyclopedia in the British Museum records an account of a voyage made by Buddhist missionaries to a land they called Fusang. It is likely they could have drifted along the Japanese current, which touches and follows the west coast of North America.

There is also the story of the Buddhist nuns who sailed in a junk from Japan in 458 A.D., met a storm, and landed on the shores of a vast country which they explored.

From its trees they made clothing, and ate the berries for food. Could this tree have been the Century Plant which has many uses and which thrives in Mexico?

If this account of the travelers is true, then the Maze Stone carving is about 1,500 years old.

The five acres of land on which it stands has been made into a public park. Visitors and scientists alike would like to know what message the mysterious writing bears. But to date, no one has found the key.

Modern Cowboys Sprout Wings During Antelope Roundup Time

Shadow of airplane is cast on running herd of antelope during roundup from the air.

The plane swoops low over the sagebrush flats and grassy plateaus. In the plane the pilot and a man called a "spotter" carefully scan the land below. They are searching for antelope herds.

Perhaps the men want only to count the animals—or they may want to round up the brown, tan, cream and white creatures and herd them into a corral.

Rounding up antelope and other big game animals in the West is fairly common. Only now and then do men on horseback in big hats make roundups. Most of the work is done by men in planes and helicopters. These air vehicles are equipped with radios.

Little guys have to be cared for, too.

The antelope, or pronghorn, have proved to be the easiest and most popular big game animal for these modern roundups in the West. But there is risk for both air and ground crews.

Antelope can run up to 60 m.p.h. for short distances—and they can sail over rough ground.

To keep the antelope bunched, and headed for the traps on the ground, the pilot of the plane must fly very low. He may have to circle or bank quickly—so there is always the danger of a crack-up.

Ground crews—sometimes on horseback, but usually in jeeps—are stationed out of sight near traps. Most of the traps, or corrals, are made of fine-mesh netting or wire and anchored with steel posts.

Circular in shape, the traps have widely spaced wings, or deflectors, which lead to a narrow passageway that opens into the corral.

As the herd leaders are forced into the wing area, ground crews rush in from all sides to keep the pronghorns from escaping.

Once inside, escape is almost impossible when the gate to the corral is fastened.

Leaping frantically, the pronghorns fling themselves against the enclosure. But usually the netting gives enough to keep the animals from harming themselves. After a day or two of being corralled, the antelope usually quit down. They also get used to men.

Later the animals are ear-tagged and loaded into darkened trucks. Such loading isn't without danger. The pronghorns' hooves and antlers are sharp! Once loaded, the antelopes may be hauled from 100 to 200 or more miles—and released in a new area.

Several western states, including Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Texas and California have antelope roundups. They try to set up new antelope herds in less crowded ranges.

As a result, several states now have excellent and large antelope herds.

Great cattle roundups may be only a colorful memory in the West, but big game roundups are on the increase. They are a part of scientific game management.

Help Yourself!

By Frances Gorman Risser

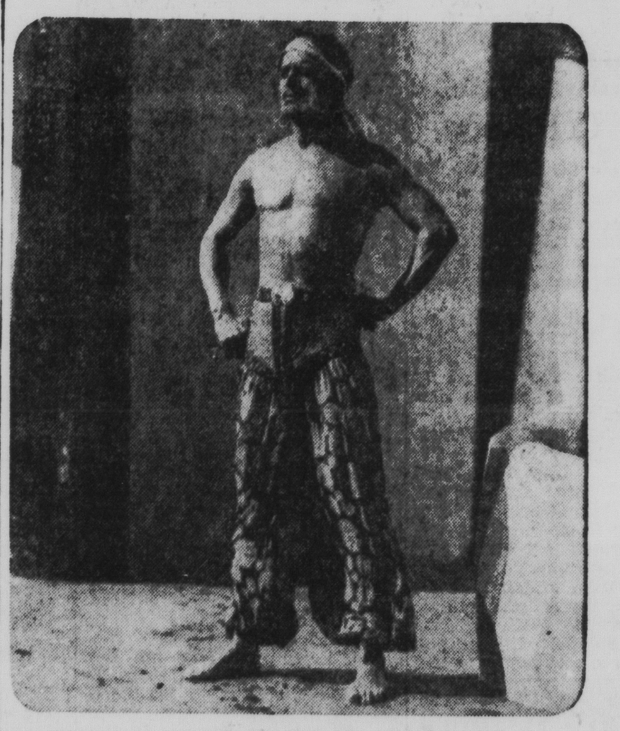

If I owned a big grocery store,
I know I'd give away
A lot of yummy things to eat
To people, every day.

If I saw someone looking hard
At goodies on a shelf,
And knew he didn't have two cents,
I'd say, "Just help yourself!"

I'd have a cafeteria
For homeless dogs and cats,
With tasty bits of meat and fish
Spread out on plastic mats.

I guess I wouldn't get rich quick
With my free grocery mart,
But I know I'd feel awfully good
Way down in my heart!

Braves to Play Poughkeepsie 9; Chick Boice In

Parade and Ceremonies Planned With Opener

Two former major league pitchers will be on the firing line when the Kingston Braves launch the NY-NJ League home season against the Poughkeepsie Hoe Bowls tonight at Dietz Stadium. Game time is 8:30 p. m.

Al Corwin, former New York Giant flinger, will be on the mound for Kingston opposed by Tom Acker, former Cincinnati Red southpaw relief specialist.

Corwin and Acker have both shown phenomenal form in early season games. Corwin has pitched in two games permitting only 2 hits in 11 innings while fanning 19. Acker was equally impressive againt Kinderhook, giving up 5 hits and striking out 17.

General Manager Fred Davi has also summoned the acquisition of Chick Boice, who was recently released by Auburn of the New York-Penn League. Boice, a hard hitting first baseman, was dropped when the Yankees signed two high priced bonus rookies and placed them at Auburn.

Pre-game ceremonies include a parade of city officials, players; Miss Baseball of 1961 and other dignitaries up Broadway from Delaware Avenue starting at 6:30 p. m. Alderman Sam Perry and William (Pucker) Davis were a committee handling the transportation arrangements.

A brief ceremony will be held at Dietz Stadium prior to the baseball game. Mayor Radel will toss out the first ball.

John (Honey) Russell, former professional basketball star and Seton Hall coach, will be among the spectators. He is now a member of the Milwaukee Braves scouting staff.

Rival managers John Pullie of Kingston and Billy Ostrom of Poughkeepsie will go into the contest with loaded lineups.

The Hoe-Bowls are bringing in two veteran New Jersey semi-pro players for outfield duty—Bob Fisher and Eddie Bauer, who played with the Paterson, N. J., entry in the early days of the NY-NJ.

Ostrom, of course, is the hardy perennial of Mid-Hudson area semi-pro baseball and will be at first base for the visitors. He is a renowned slugger who has yet to lose his touch after more than 20 years of campaigning.

With Chick Boice available for first base duty, Manager Pullie will shift hard hitting Wally Widholm to his normal catching post.

Kingston fans have a new favorite in the hard slugging Irishman Dennis Casey, who has two home runs in three games and a .500 average. The Braves are undefeated with a 3-0 record.

The probable lineups:

Poughkeepsie	Kingston
Bates, ss	Musco, 2b
Callahan, c	Lewis, cf
McKenna, 3b	Pike, ss
Centi, lf	Widholm, c
Molinaro, rf	Boice, 1b

Jamestown Wins, 9-2, in NYP Loop

Life if full of surprises, the saying goes, and the Jamestown Tigers had one up their sleeves.

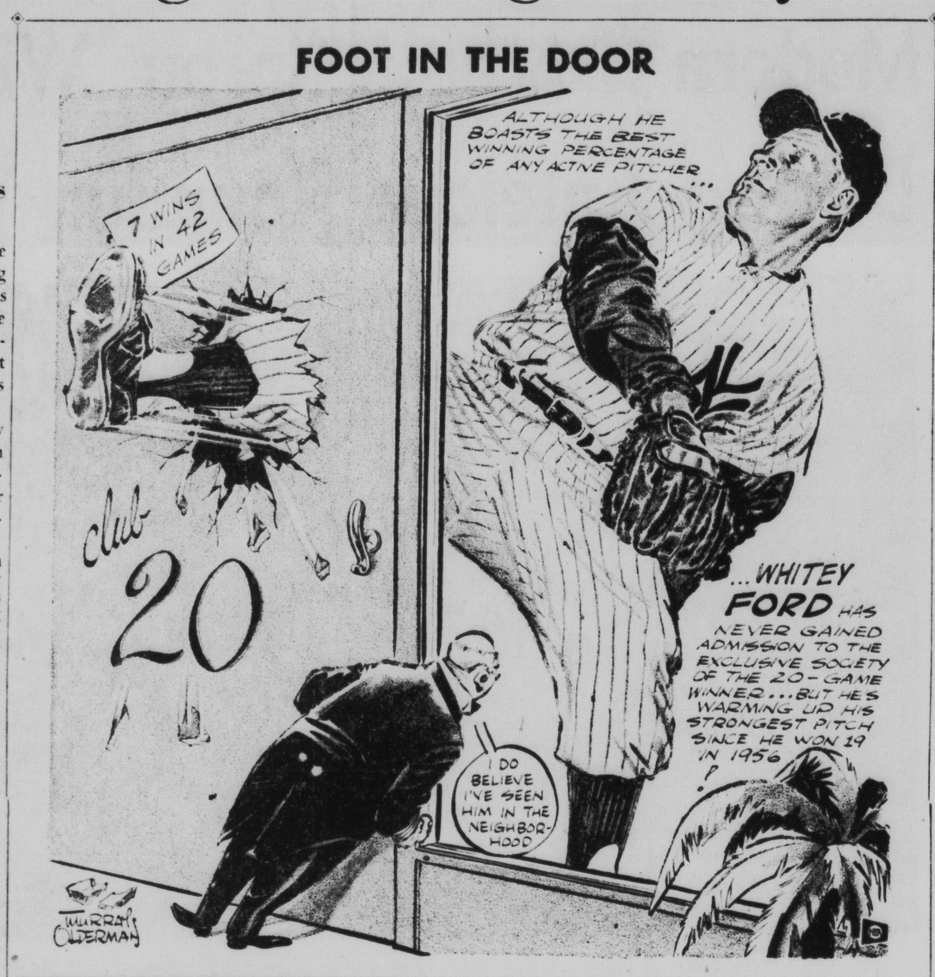

The last-place Tigers clawed the league - leading Geneva Redlegs, 9-2, Friday night in a Class D New York-Penn Baseball League game at Geneva.

In the only other league game played, the Elmira Pioneers blanked the Wellsville Braves, 7-0, at Elmira. The Auburn at Olean and Erie at Batavia contests were rained out.

A three-run homer by Jamestown's Jim Rooker in the eighth inning was the blow that broke the Redlegs' back. Art Jasinski, the Tigers' left fielder, poked a two-run round-tripper in the second and Elmira's Art Franz rapped a solo homer in the ninth.

Fred Mason's three-run triple for Elmira in the seventh was the big blow for the Pioneers. John Morris notched the win, his first in three starts, and fanned seven.

Indians Widen Lead in AL Race; Drysdale Snaps Victory Famine

Phillips' Homer Tops Tigers, 5-4; Yankees Top A's

The Cleveland Indians defeated second place Detroit 5-4 on Bubba Phillips' ninth-inning home run and 4 2-3 innings of one-hit relief by Barry Latman Friday night for a 1½-game lead in the American League race.

Third place New York stayed within three games of Cleveland by beating the Kansas City A's 8-6. Washington swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, winning 1-0, in 10 innings, and 10-9. Boston defeated Los Angeles 5-3 in the first game of a twi-night pair, but the Angels took the nightcap 5-1, with Ryne Duren striking out seven in a row for an AL record. The Minnesota-Baltimore game was rained out.

Phillips' winning shot came on a 3-2 pitch by Paul Foytack (3-4), the loser in relief. Willie Kirkland delivered a three-run homer as Cleveland scored four in the third inning off starter Phil Regan. Latman had just one lapse, giving up a tying double by Rocky Colavito after relieving Bobby Locke in a two-run fifth inning.

The Indians won with the help of a rookie's running error. The game ended with an odd double-play when catcher Johnny Romano grabbed a foul pop by Steve Boros, then nailed pinch-runner George Thomas as he attempted to go from first to second after the catch.

Maris, Mantle Slam

Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, each crashing home runs, batted in six runs between them for the Yankees. Maris' 18th homer, tops in the majors, came with a man on base and broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh against Ray Herbert (3-6). Luis Arroyo (2-2) won it in relief.

The Senators beat the White Sox on a pinch-single by Harry Bright in the opener as Dick Donovan, a Sox castoff, blanked his ex-mates on six hits for his second victory. Reliever Warren Hacker (1-1) was the loser. In the nightcap, Washington came up with four runs in the ninth, beating Frank Baumann (4-5) in relief with an unearned run on Danny O'Connell's pinch single. Dale Long and Willie Tasby hit consecutive home runs in the rally, which gave reliever Johnny Klippstein his first victory.

Falls One Short

Duren (2-6), making his first start, began his record string by fanning Frank Malzone for the final out in the first inning of the second game at Boston. He then added Pete Runnels, Jim Pagliaroni, Don Buddin, loser Mike Fornieles, Chuck Schilling and Gary Geiger, falling one short of the major league record set by Milwaukee's Max Surkont in 1953.

Hurls Dodgers Into 1st Place With 3-1 Victory

Don Drysdale pitched a four-hitter for his first victory in a month Friday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Philadelphia 3-1 and regained a half-game lead over Cincinnati in the National League race. St. Louis beat the Reds 8-4.

San Francisco twice came from behind for a 9-6 victory over Pittsburgh, and the Chicago Cubs defeated Milwaukee 11-10.

Wally Moon's 11th home run, his first since May 12, broke a 1-1 tie for the Dodgers in the fourth inning against right-hander Frank Sullivan (2-7). Don Demeter, an ex-Dodger, had two of the Phils' hits, driving in their run with a fourth inning double. Drysdale (4-3) walked three and struck out seven for his first complete game since beating the Phils 5-2 in a five-inning game May 9.

Cards On a Streak

The Cards, winning four in a row for the first time and climbing back to .500 with 13 victories in their last 20 games, built a decisive, 5-3 lead against the Reds with a three-run third inning. Ken Boyer's single drove in two, and Stan Musial brought in the winner against lefty Jim O'Toole (5-6). Bob Gibson (3-3) was the winner.

San Francisco overhauled the Pirates on a three-run homer by Ed Bailey that capped a six-run seventh inning. It came after Bobby Shantz had come in as Pittsburgh's third pitcher, but tagged the loss on ElRoy Face (2-3). Ed Stephan Smith won the $7,000 Bolin won his first in the majors, in relief. Bailey drove in four of the Giants' runs and Orlando Cepeda, the NL's home run leader, knocked in three, one with his 16th homer.

Spahn Is Loser

The Cubs, blew 6-0 and 9-6 leads as the Braves' unloaded four home runs, then came from behind with two runs in the ninth and beat Warren Spahn for the first time in nine decisions since June 10, 1958. A single by Moe Thacker brought in the clincher and handed Spahn (6-6) his second loss in two days, this one in relief. Joe Torre, Joe Adcock, Ed Mathews and Lee Maye homered for the Braves, with Maye's a grand slam in the ninth that gave Milwaukee a 10-9 lead. Bob Anderson (3-5) won it in relief.

Ochiwanak Tops Onteora in Golf

Ochiwanak Central of Columbia County defeated Onteora Central School, 10½ to 4½ in a duel golf match.

The scoring follows:

Dunn, Ferraro, Natale Picked By Loop Scribes

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Pitcher Bob Dunn, shortstop Mike Ferraro and outfielder Paul Natale represent Kingston High School on the 1961 All-DUSO Baseball team, as selected yesterday by the circuit's writers at a meeting in Poughkeepsie. The trio, who sparked the locals to a second place finish in the circuit, were unanimous selections of the scribes.

Newburgh Free Academy, which won its third straight league title and finished with an 8-0 mark in loop play, gained most of the laurels. The Hilly City nine placed pitchers Jim MacMillan and Jack Wolpe, catcher Jack Glassy, second baseman Pat Myers and outfielder Gerald Williams on the team.

Player of the Year

Wolpe, who pitched and played the outfield, nipped Natale, the sophomore slugger for Player of the Year honors and George J. Balcanoff beat Al Gruner of Kingston as Coach of the Year.

The rest of the squad features Brian Schmalz of Poughkeepsie at first, Don Backus of Port Jervis at third and Steve White of Middletown in the outfield.

The pitching staff had a combined record of 12-1 during the year. MacMillan and Wolpe were both unbeaten and Dunn won four of five decisions, losing only to Newburgh. MacMillan will be back again next year. He's a junior.

Glassey was the boy who handled the NFA hurlers. He's a solid defensive catcher and a good hitter. He succeeds Ken Bento, a former teammate, as the top catcher in the circuit.

Schmalz hit .444 for Poughkeepsie and also slugged three home runs. He was the cleanup hitter for Sam J. Kalloch and did a bangup job all season long.

Second Selection

Myers batted over .300 for the Goldbacks and did a good job at second. Ferraro stroked .360 for Kingston and struck out only twice in eight games. Among his nine hits, two were triples and one a double. He's a junior and this makes his second All-DUSO selection, having been previously picked on the basketball squad.

Backus was a bright light in an otherwise drab season for Port Jervis. He was a good line drive hitter and a steady fielder.

Natale was the slugging sensation of the league. The sophomore star, who is built like Ted Kluszewski, had 13 hits in 25 trips for a sensational .520 average. He scored six runs and hit three doubles and a homer. Since he only struck out once, it shows that he hit the ball almost all the time.

Williams was a ballhawk in the outfield and another steady hitter in the powerful NFA lineup.

Mickey Wright Has Tournament Lead

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (AP) — The lead has switched from Marlene Hagge to Kathy Cornelius to Mickey Wright in the first three rounds of the mathematical nightmare called the Women's Round Robin Golf Tournament.

As the 16 contestants in the five-round event started their fourth round today, Miss Wright had a slim 6-point lead over Patty Berg, with Louise Suggs, Kathy Whitworth and Mrs. Cornelius tied for third, four points farther back.

The long-driving Miss Wright had accumulated plus 22 points in the three rounds, with Miss Berg at 16 and the other three at 12.

The title is won not on the medal score, but on the points won. Each player meets each other player in medal play once during the five rounds, so if one player in a foursome has a 70 and the other three have 72s, the 70 player picks up plus six points and the other three each registers minus two.

Six players scored one-under-par 71s for the third round Friday afternoon, and only three were able to equal par figures for the morning round of the hazy, damp day.

The 71 shooters were Miss Suggs, Miss Whitworth, Miss Berg, Betty Jameson, Marilynn Smith and Betsy Rawls.

Negroes Boycott Texas Track Meet

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The sixth annual track Meet of Champions produced a lot of news but few records.

The big meet Friday night was supposed to have most of the top track stars in the country competing. But all 20 of the Negro entries, including two world record breakers, withdrew at the last minute in protest of what they called segregated seating in the stands.

The missing entries cut so deeply into the field that meet officials offered money back to any of the 5,200 customers who attended just to see the Negroes compete.

Bob Goehrs, chairman of the Gulf Coast Division of the AAU, said AAU rules specify any contestant who withdraws from a meet without good reason is subject to suspension or fine.

Goehrs said the Gulf AAU has no jurisdiction over any of the Negroes except those on the Texas Southern University team, which withdrew Thursday night.

John Thomas and Ralph Boston, both world record breakers were among those who refused to compete. Others included Hayes Jones, Anthony Watson, George Keer, a star in the 880, and Stone Johnson, an outstanding sprinter. All were members of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team.

Before the drop-outs, entres in 13 of the 18 events had bettered meet records. But the remaining contestants could break only five records.

Don Bragg, holder of the current world record listing in the pole vault, set a meet record when he jumped 15 feet 3¾ inches.

Earl Young of Abilene Christian set a meet record in the 440 with a time of 46.7, breaking the record of 46.8.

Cliff Cushman broke the record in the 440-yard hurdles with 51.3.

Dave Styron of Southern Illinois was a double winner, setting a meet record in the 220-yard dash of 21.1. This performance was singled out as the best of the night. He also won the 100-yard dash on the soggy track in 9.5.

Dick Crane, who hasn't lost a meet, broke the discus record he set last year with a toss of 178 feet 2 inches. He also won the shot put with 56 feet 8½ inches.

Jerry Dyes of Abilene, who won the javelin and the hop-step and jump, was the meet's other double winner.

France Auto Race Ready to Start

LE MANS, France (AP) — Mechanics tinkered with the world's sleekest racers into the early hours today for the start of the 24-hour Le Mans auto race, Europe's toughest test for cars and drivers.

This city of northern France had a carnival air on the eve of the 29th running of the day and night car race. The crowd of 200,000 was expected to line the 8.36-mile asphalt track when the drivers run to their racers for the famous Le Mans standing start at 10 a.m., EST, today.

On hand for the race were the greatest names in international racing. Among them: Great Britain's Stirling Moss, Maurice Trintignant of France, United States stars Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., Ritchie Ginther of Granada Hills, Calif., and Briggs Cunningham of Green Farms, Conn.; Sweden's Joaquim Bonnier, Mexico's team of Ricardo and Pedro Rodriguez and last year's winner, Oliver Gendebien of Belgium.

The race has a reputation for danger and often death.

Reading Slugger Gets Six Singles

Reading's Tony Martinez stepped up to the plate seven times Friday night and smacked six singles. The last of them drove in the winning run against Binghamton, which lost a 12-inning battle 6-5.

Martinez, the Indian's shortstop, also drove in two runs and scored twice himself in the only Eastern League game of the night.

The last half of the ninth began as Len Ferguson, the third Binghamton pitcher, walked Johnny Parker. Parker than made second on a grounder by Bobby Ledford. Martinez' long hit to center followed. The ball bounced off Fred Carpenter's glove, and Parker scored.

Johnstown at Springfield and Lancaster at Williamsport were postponed because of rain.

Against Rinaldi

Moore's Age Is Only Question In His Title Defense Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A sleek if aging Archie Moore gets down to business tonight in defense of his piece of the light heavyweight title against young, husky Giulio Rinaldi of Italy.

If the graying, 44½-year-old marvel hasn't lost too much in the battle of the scales and with father time, he figures to knock out the Italian from Anzio within five rounds of their scheduled 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Rinaldi is 26.

Archie's vitality is the only question mark in this television scrap. If he's got enough left it will be arriverderci Giulio—and early. Moore is favored at odds ranging from 8-5 to 2-1.

Ninth Defense

This will be Moore's ninth defense of the title he won 8½ years ago and his first since he flattened crude but powerful Yvon Durelle of Canada at Montreal 22 months ago. He weighed 174½ pounds for that return fight. Since then the National Boxing Association has stripped him of his title. He is recognized by New York, Massachusetts and Europe.

Moore, holder of the world record of 130 knockouts, has flattened his last six challengers in title fights. Only Joey Maxim has gone the distance with him at the 175-pound division limit.

The strong-armed, master boxer and puncher wrested the crown from Maxim at St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952 on a lop-sided decision.

Rinaldi, solidly built and deep-chested, earned his big chance by outpointing Moore in a 10-rounder in the Olympic Sports Palace in Rome, last Oct. 29. Moore was a plump 190¼ to Rinaldi's 181½.

Although Moore was given a mandatory eight-count while leaning back against the ropes in the last round, Rinaldi was awarded the verdict by only a slim margin.

The black-haired Italian, who was only one-year-old when Archie started boxing pro a quarter-century ago, has a 25-5 record with eight knockouts. He is the Italian light heavyweight champion.

Poor Workouts

After his victory—even if disputed and close—he has to be conceded a chance to beat the old man. But Giulio has not shown to advantage in his workouts here.

He has displayed little power and appears wide-open. If he presses Archie—as he must to win—and leaves an opening, it could be disastrous.

"He can't punch hard when he's going back," said Giulio. "I noticed that in my fight with him and I saw what Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson did to him when I watched the films. They pressed him and they knocked him out. I think I can too."

"All I hope is that he comes after me like he says he will," said Moore.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

Although the fight will be shown on television in the city as well as coast-to-coast, garden officials expect to attract a crowd of 10,000 as a gross gate of $50,000 at prices ranging from $3 to $15. The big money comes from TV, which is paying $150,000.

Moore has been guaranteed $100,000 plus $12,000 expenses. Rinaldi will collect $25,000 plus expenses.

For 16-18 Year Old Boys

Connie Mack League Starts in Saugerties

Connie Mack League baseball, for boys 16 to 18 years of age, has been started in Saugerties under the direction of Bill Straub, Saugerties High school athletic director.

The league, an outgrowth of Babe Ruth League, is under the direction of the American Amateur Baseball Congress. Players who have not reached their 19th birthday by Sept. 1, of this year, are eligible to participate.

Several high school stars from the Kingston-Saugerties-Onteora area will play in the circuit with the opening game scheduled for tonight, weather permitting.

There are no sponsors, uniforms or adult leaders as yet and those interested in doing any of the above, are asked to contact Straub, the head of the circuit.

"These boys have a great desire to play baseball and this league will help them a great deal," Straub declared.

Games will be played at Cantine field on Saturday evenings and Wednesday evenings.

NCAA World Series Continued Today

OMAHA (AP) — The NCAA Baseball World Series, off to a thrilling start when Oklahoma State beat Duke on a ninth-inning home run Friday night, had a three-game slate scheduled today.

The three games that will complete the first round sent Colorado State College against Syracuse, Western Michigan against Boston College and Southern California against Texas.

In Friday night's opener, Duke rode a 2-1 lead into the last of the ninth, gained on the two-run homer of Lynn Feder in the third inning.

Then State, the pre-tourney favorite, mounted its winning rally as Gentry Pollitte singled and was sacrificed to second. That brought up Bill Ketchum to hit for pitcher Jim Wixson. Ketchum homered for a 3-2 win that gave Wixson his 11th victory this season without defeat.

New Paltz Tennis Aces in Tourney

Roger Ambrose and Gordon Krajna, representing the State University College of Education at New Paltz, will compete in the Eastern Intercollegiate Tennis Championship Tournament. Ambrose and Krajna, the two top varsity players from New Paltz, leave for Colgate University, Hamilton, N. Y., scene of the Tournament, on Monday, June 12. The competition is scheduled through Saturday, June 17. Both men are entered in the singles division and as a team in doubles.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hitting — Bubba Phillips, Indians, broke tie game with ninth-inning homer for 5-4 victory and 1½-game lead over second place Tigers.

Pitching — Dick Donovan, Senators, blanked ex-mates on six hits for 1-0, 10-inning victory over White Sox.

Bowl of Flowers Is Belmont Choice

NEW YORK (AP) — Brookmeade Stable's Bowl of Flowers goes after the second leg of the Fillies' Triple today — seeking to run her winning streak to seven in the $75,000-added Mother Goose Stakes at Belmont Park.

Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Ace, champion juvenile filly last year, won the first leg — the $57,750 Acorn Stakes May 20 at Aqueduct. If she makes it today, she'll go for a sweep in the $100,000 Coaching Club American Oaks at a mile and quarter on June 24.

The winner of the Black-Eyed Susan Stakes at Pimlico, Ogden Phipps' Funloving, is the probable second choice with C.V. Whitney's Counter Call rated third.

Stevenson Faces Woes in Brazil

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Adlai Stevenson faced the threat of more demonstrations today in Brazil, major trouble spot in his Latin American tour, after catching a blast here from supporters of Fidel Castro.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations came under the first attack of his tour Friday night when speakers at a university rally denounced him as an "envoy of Wall Street" and demanded that he leave Uruguay.

The Uruguayan government also made clear to Stevenson—on a special mission for President Kennedy—that it opposed any action against the Castro regime in Cuba. It was especially firm against armed intervention.

Stevenson was due in Rio de Janeiro in midafternoon to seek understanding with Brazil's new president, Janio Quadros, on Cuba and other issues.

U.S. officials, who have been worried by some policies of the Quadros government, are anxious to line up his support for a program to improve working conditions in Latin America.

Stevenson planned to see the Brazilian foreign minister and other officials, then fly to Sao Paulo Sunday for private discussions with Quadros.

Stevenson's associates played down the importance of Friday night's demonstrations, but it was further proof that South American sentiment, both official and private, is pretty solid against anti-Castro action.

Stevenson found this feeling both in the Venezuelan and Argentine governments and again in Uruguay.

Area Book Selection Meeting Set June 21

Dorothy M. Broderick, whose "On Quality Books for Children" is the lead article in the current edition of "Bookmark," will be guest speaker June 21 at the 10 a. m. meeting of Rockland County librarians and library trustees at the Nanuet Public Library, host of a book selection session sponsored by the Ramapo Catskill Library System.

At this book selection meeting, open to all librarians and library trustees in the 35 member libraries of the Ramapo Catskill Library System in Orange, Ulster and Sullivan Counties as well as Rockland, new books will be exhibited and discussed for possible selection by public libraries throughout the area. The capsule review and recommendations will be presented by librarians, staff members and trustees who have volunteered to report on new books.

New Paltz Net Team To Meet West Point

The New Paltz tennis team is scheduled to meet the West Point officers' club on the State University College of Education tennis courts at New Paltz on Sunday, June 11. Local devotees of tennis and those who have followed the team and the Hudson Valley Tournament, held here annually in early August, will welcome the opportunity to see Steve Bank in action against West Point. Supporting Bank will be Roger Ambrose, Gordon Krajna, and Ron Mutchnik, New Paltz varsitymen, George Baron of Kingston and Dick Smith and Dick Little also of Kingson.

Leading the team from West Point is Master Sergeant W. B. Millikan. Millikan won both singles and doubles in 1959 and 1960 in the senior men's inter-service competition between the top players from the Army, Air Force, Marines and Navy, making him the current champion in both divisions. The West Point team will also include Major R. W. Weeks who has distinguished himself in First Army championships in both tennis and badminton.

Duren Strikes Out 7 Straight Hitters

BOSTON (AP) — Ryne Duren made one of his rare starts Friday night and struck out seven Red Sox batters in a row for an American League record, but he isn't too impressed over the feat.

The Los Angeles hurler, winner in the second game of a double-header, added:

"I like to win, rather win than set records, even though all of us like 'em (records). I've had lots of strikeouts and I've pitched in World Series."

His SO total was 11 and he received credit for a 5-1 victory.

Duren's record is one under the modern National League record accomplished in 1953 by the Milwaukee Braves' Max Surkont.

Duren earlier this season equalled a major league record by fanning four batters in one inning.

Dallas Long Sets Shotput Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dallas Long, University of Southern California shot put specialist, bettered his own national collegiate record with a performance of 64 feet 7¾ inches Friday night.

Long, competing in the Southern College, got off this series of puts: 63-8¾, 62-0, 64-7¾, 61-6¾, 64-4, and 64-4½.

On hand to watch was Bill Nieder, now retired, the only man in track and field history who has tossed the shot farther than Long's latest mark. Nieder's world record is 65-10 and he has three other performances topping Long's.

Long's previous national collegiate standard was 64-6½, set in 1960.

Stephan Smith Wins Feature Pace at Roosevelt Raceway

Stephan Smith won the $7,000 Old Country junior free-for - all pace at Roosevelt Raceway with a 2:00 1-5 mile.

The five-year-old bay holds the season's fastest time for a half-mile track, 1:59, scored last week at Westbury. Friday night he paid $4.60 and was driven by Gene Sears.

Caduceus and Arania, an entry, finished second and third.

The win enables Stephan Smith to compete against world-champion pacer Adios Butler in a $25,000 free - for-all next Friday at Westbury.

At Saratoga Raceway, Tansey, took the second division of the $3,000 Catskill Pace in a four-photo finish.

Tansey was driven by Jack Sheldon and paid $24. The winner's rivals, right from the start, were Plymouth Rock, Connewago and Shozo, which finished in that order. Shady Dale Monitor won the first division and paid $3.40. Tansey's time was 2:10 and Shady Dale Monitor's 2:07, on a slow track.

Guy Oakie won the first division of the Ghent $4,500 trot in 2:082-5 and returned $61.50. Mandy's Girl won the second division in 2:09 and paid $6.50.

At Vernon Downs, Family Man won the $3,000 invitational trot by five lengths in 2:01. Driven by Harold Miller, Family Man paid $27.60. Hoot Frost, the favorite, was second and Wendy Kay third, won by Joel, with Dick Thomas driving. Joel, was set back to sixth for interference and second-place Ten Hanover was declared winner.

At Buffalo Raceway, Gene Putney posted the fastest mile of the track's season to win the $4,000 Monroe Pace. The winner, whose time was 2:04, was driven by Francois LeBoeuf. Gene Putney paid $8.30.

Finishing second and third in the photo-finish were Avalon Junior and Mil Hanover.

Betty's Guy and Spiroy finished first in a dead heat in the first race, paying $9.30.

More a Jackal

Despite its description as a "prairie wolf," the coyote is much smaller than the true wolf and more closely resembles the jackal.

Jefferson Official, Woman Crash Victims

LOWVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—A Jefferson County official and a young woman were injured fatally Friday night ina two-car collission about 4 miles south of this Lewis County community.

The dead were Arthur J. Morrell, 47, of Watertown, a representative of the Jefferson County Sales Tax Department, and Miss Linda Spahl, 22, of Port Leyden.

Robert L. Epps, 21, of Canajoharie, who was with Miss Spahl in one automobile, was reported in critical condition in a Watertown hospital.

Esopus Schedules

township. It was just 100 years ago, in 1861, that two lots were bought above the river bank with a view to establishing a parish in Port Ewen. Thirteen years later the bright new church was ready for dedication, taking place 87 years ago this month in June of 1874.

The "church below the hill" has sheltered its flock in good times and bad. In the beginning, the Delaware and Hudson and the Pennsylvania Coal Companies brought good times to the village and to the parish. The closing of the coal depot at Port Ewen brought a period of local depression. However, almost as a symbol of certainity of faith in the future the parish built a rectory. Later, at the end of the last century the closing of the Delaware and Hudson Canal and industrial changes in the area again brought bleak times to the parish. Again, the parishioners demonstrated their faith in the future by building St. Leo's parish hall.

In 1913 the Redemptorist Fathers from Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary in Esopus took charge of the Port Ewen parish. From the start, they too were affected by the contagious hope for the future of the parish. Through two World Wars they waited with their faithful parishioners for the future expansion that seemed so slow in coming. But though the bricks in the old church were now worn by many winters, its aura of hope was still bright. By 1947 land was purchased for the parish school of the future yet to arrive.

Established in '52

In 1952 on the parish grounds, the Shrine of Our Lady of the Hudson was established. The Hudson River had first brought Port Ewen and the parish to life a century before. Past and future then met the present in the person of the statue looking out over the river, looking along below the hill, looking up over the hill to an ever-growing Port Ewen and Town of Esopus. Our Lady of the Hudson stands there as a tribute to the faith, hope and love of the people of the past and as a symbol of the bright future the Presentation parish is always ready to welcome.

During these days of concentration on the town's historic past, visitors may take a little trip below the hill in Port Ewen and see that past mirrored in stone, steeple and statue, where hope built for the future — at Presentation parish.

Trujillo Aide Is

berto Reid Cabral, who police said committed suicide after four accused plotters seized his home as a hideout.

One of the captured assassination band had told reporters at his prison that the plan was to kidnap Trujillo and force the 69-year-old dictator to abdicate.

Rumors circulated in Ciudad Trujillo that on the night Trujillo was slain, Gen. Roman was visiting a Dominican official's home near the scene of the ambush.

Roman and his host went to see what the shooting was about.

Roman Replaced

Leland Rosemberg, civilian aide to Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., new armed forces chief and son of the late dictator, said Roman has been replaced as defense chief by Maj. Gen. Santos Melido Marte Picchardo.

Rosemberg also has been serving as the new regime's liaison man with the special team sent here by the Organization of American States to investigate the status of civil liberties in the Dominican Republic, which Trujillo ruled with an iron hand for 31 years.

The OAS committee will report on whether the past nine months' trade boycott and broken diplomatic relations with the republic should be continued or mended by other hemisphere nations.

Augusto Arango of Panama, head of the OAS fact-finding committee, said Trujillo Jr. offered him planes and any other facilities needed in the job of probing conditions here.

Two Plead Innocent

Charged with disorderly conduct as the result of a fight on Canal Street near Ferry Street early today, Theron J. Van Dyke Jr., of 18 Mill Street and David S. Bjaelker, 21, Route 2, Box 61 Kingston, pleaded innocent in City Court. Judge Aaron E. Klein adjourned the case until Monday, June 26. The defendants were arrested by Patrolmen Frank Stip and Garvin Fisher.

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— The economic recovery rolled on during the week and expectations of more rapid improvement later in the year mounted.

May Set Record

The gross national product (GNP) — total of all goods and services—may be setting a record in the current quarter ending June 30.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the GNP for the quarter might reach an annual rate of nearly $510 billion. It was a little under $500 billion in the previous quarter.

Heller said that by the final quarter the rate may be $530 billion.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents reported that new orders production and employment kept on increasing in May.

Producers of machine tools, construction equipment and other manufacturing machinery equipment predicted a good gain in sales by the fourth quarter. This was despite indications that investment for new plants and equipment is not speeding up.

Merchants Optimistic

The National Retail Merchants Association surveyed its membership of 11,500 department, specialty and variety stores and found high optimism about prospects for the second half of the year. The majority of merchants look for a four per cent gai nin sales and a five per cent increase in profits.

The First National City Bank of New York commented that the industrial performance in the last two months has "erased any lingering doubts that the economy is in a very encouraging rebound from recession lows." Dr. Marcus Nadler, economic consultant to the Hanover Bank of New York, said he expects a "moderate recovery" but that "no major boom is in the making."

The momentum of recovery has aroused anxiety in the Kennedy administration that it will bring a revival of inflation.

Heller said direct price or wage control is not under consideration, barring a wartime situation.

Chrysler Omits Raises

Presidential assistant Walt Whitman Rostow asserted: "As we go into the new wage negotiations, the question is whether we will negotiate our way into inflation or whether we can exercise discipline without wage and price controls."

With labor contract negotiations nearing in the automobile industry, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler omitted the usual annual raises June 1for 138,000 salaried employes not covered by union contracts.

Automobile production moved up during the week to an estimated 128,000 passenger cars. This was only 8.7 per cent below the comparable 1960 week, one of the year's slimmest margins.

The industry was particularly happy about sales in May. The 537,825 cars sold was the biggest monthly total of the year. This brought dealers' new car stocks down to about 900,000, lowest since last October.

Sees Steel Climb

Harold C. Lumb, vice president of Republic Steel Corp., predicted steel production will increase steadily and should approach record heights in the next year.

The Memorial Day holiday halted the 11-week rise in steel output but the decline was only 1.2 per cent below the previous week.

Prices of stainless steel and oil-country pipe were reduced. The industry publication, Iron Age, considered it a dampening effect on the likelihood of any general price rise in the near future.

Moving against another segment of the electrical equipment industry, the government's Anti-trust Division obtained price-fixing indictments against six companies which produce transmission equipment.

The firms are Oliver Electrical Manufacturing Co., Battle Creek, Mich.; Utilities Service Co., Allentown, Pa.; McGraw - Edison Co., Elgin, Ill.; Joslyn Manufacturing & Supply Co., Chicago; A.B. Chance Co., Centralia, Mo., and Hubbard & Co., Chicago.

R. Sargent Shriver Jrm director of the Peace Corps, called on business and labor to make manpower available to help undeveloped areas of the world.

The immediate general reaction was favorable.

Briefly Around

Briefly around the business scene: Martin Co. has developed a radio - telephone it believes is the forerunner of a vest pocket walkie-talkie with unlimited range . . . Boeing Co. expects to sell an additional $60 million worth of jet transports in Europe this year. . . General Precision Equipment Co. announced an electronic data-processing system capable of performing 2.48 million operations a second.

The New York Stock Exchange's volume last week totaled 19,721,550 shares compared with 11,796,850 in the previous three-day trading week, (cut short by the Memorial Day weekend) and with 19,235,340 shares in the full five-day week before that.

Bond volume increased to $29,932,000 from $18,009,000 par value the previous holiday week, with the daily average about the same.

Particles Could Puncture Space Ships, Is Word

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two U.S. satellites that stopped broadcasting last December—Explorer VIII and Vanguard III—have warned scientists that future space travelers may be bombarded by large numbers of high-velocity dust particles.

This cosmic dust—fast-moving clouds of micro-meteorites near the earth—appears to be in orbit around the sun, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday.

Analysis of the tapes of telemetry information sent back by the two satellites showed that most of the particles "could be associated with a major meteor stream," NASA said.

If big enough, the particles presumably could puncture a spaceship. Also, they may have a corrosive effect.

The two satellites, operating a year apart, apparently probed the same meteor stream—the Leonid star shower that occurs every Nov. 14. The Leonids are shooting stars so named because they seem to move in lines radiating from a point in the constellation Leo.

Father of Seven Is RPI Graduate

TROY, N. Y. (AP)—Russel Jensen, father of sever and a factory supervisor, held a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering today—after 11 years of night school.

Jensen, 31, of Valley Falls, was graduated Friday at the 155th commencement at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Frederick R. Kappel, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., urged the graduating class to make decisions based on unmeasurable human factors along with slide-rule results.

Without considering such factors as economics, public taste and tribal customs, today's technician would operate in a technological vacuum, Kappel said.

Jensen, whose children range from 1 to 13, said the only way to get through college as he did was "with an understanding wife."

Southern 'Freedom Riders' Echo Across N. Y. in Varying Degrees

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Anti-segreation efforts in the South echoed across New York State today with the involvement, in varying degrees, of Gov. Rockefeller, a state legislator, Cornell, University students and Protestant churches.

A Roman Catholic diocese, however, criticized "freedom-riding "Northern do - gooders" for allegedly increasing racial tensions.

Among developments in:

Albany — Gov. Rockefeller invited the Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro integration leader, to dinner June 16, in advance of a fund-raising rally for the Southern anti - segregation campaign. The governor's office said Rockefeller planned to attend the rally.

Apology Is Asked

Ithaca — The Freedom Walk Committee of Ithaca, a group of Cornell students and Ithaca residents, said Friday night all the white freedom riders in the Jackson, Miss., city jail would join a hunger strike Monday unless the Kennedy administration acted by then to lift "the deplorable restrictions on free travel in our Southern states."

New York City—State Sen. Manfred Ohrenstein called on Rockefeller to request a public apology from the governor of Mississippi for the arrest in Jackson of New York Assemblyman Mark Lane. The senator also asked Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to enjoin Mississippi authorities from further interference with interstate travel.

Lane, a member of an insurgent Democratic group in New York City, was arrested Wednesday on a breach-of-peace charge for using a segregated washroom at a bus terminal.

Endorses HST Remark

The Evangelist, newspaper of the Roman Catholic diocese of Albany, took a different view of Freedom Riders. An editorial endorsed former President Harry S. Truman's remark that the riders were a "pain in the neck." The paper said Freedom Riders had heightened tensions and bitter-cation and good will.

The Ithaca group sent telegrams Friday night to President Kennedy, the U. S. attorney general and the director of the Interstate Commerce Commission, asking them to take "rapid action" against segregated transportation facilities in the South.

The threat of a hunger strike among all the prisoners in the Jackson jail was relayed to Ithaca by three white Cornell graduate students who had spent 10 through "kindly persuasion," eduness. It called for integration days in the jail for breeching the peace.

Cornellians to Join

The Cornell group said five more Cornellians planned to join the freedom-ride movement Monday.

The Freedom Walk Committee, headed by Ithaca physician Edward Hart, also announced it had raised more than $1,000 for CORE's use.

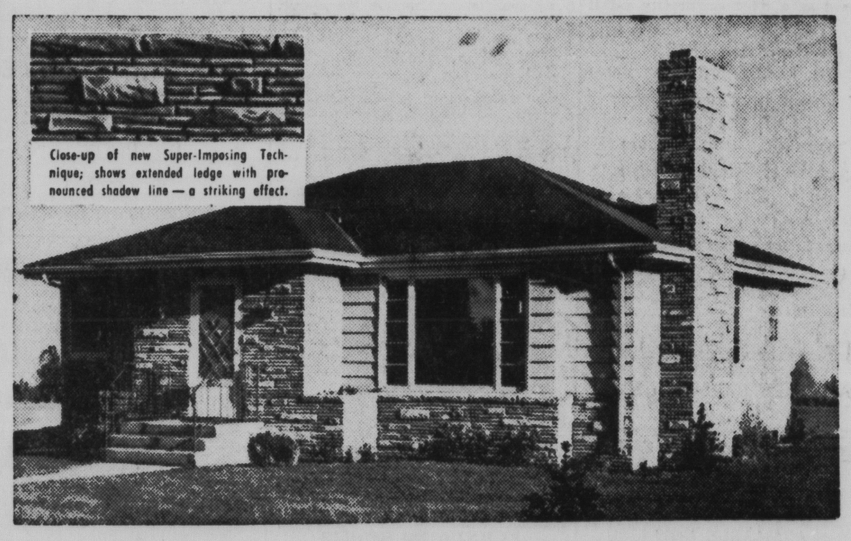

Another Cornellian and an Upstate Negro girl were among five student freedom riders arrested and convicted Friday in Jackson in another test of segregated transportation facilities. They are Del Greenblatt, 21, of Brooklyn, a white Cornell student, and Patricia Elaine Bryan, 20, of Elmira, a student at Central Ohio State College.

Meanwhile, the Capital District Council of Churches proceeded with a fund-raising drive to finance a freedom ride into the South by a Negro minister. The council is composed of Protestant, Anglican and Eastern Orthodox churches in the Albany area.

First successful oil well in the United States was drilled at Titusville, Penna., in 1859.

Twister Levels Church, 50 Injured in Kentucky

RAVENNA, Ky. (AP)—A tornado, perhaps the same one which killed a little girl south of here, ripped up Ravenna Friday, collapsing a church where 23 small children were studying the Bible.

A score of the children were injured, but none was killed.

There was no warning in this east central Kentucky community which borders on the mountain country. The black funnel just "came over the mountain and down into the town," one witness said.

In all, state police estimated about 50 or more persons were injured.

Betsy Bush, 9, was one of those in the church. Her quick wit in dropping to the floor immediately may have saved her serious injury.

"I heard it and lay down on the floor," she said. "But some of the other children were running around and screaming."

Betsy suffered only some minor bruises.

Her father, Floyd Bush, was at their home across the street when the twister hit. As he rushed out of the house, the church was collapsing and rubble was falling in on the children.

Under Brick Timber

"I never heard anything so pitiful in my life," he said of the children's screams and moans. He rushed into the ruins and found some of the children buried under mounds of brick and timber.

Some of the children, Bush said, "must have had 2,000 pounds of stuff on them."

Most of the children were taken to the Estill County Hospital at Irvine, Ravenna's sister city along the Kentucky River here. However, they later were transferred to other hospitals in this area.

A check at other hospitals failed to turn up any cases which were termed worse than fair.

Four Within Hour

The tornado which hit here was one of three, or perhaps four, which dipped into the state within hours. No witnesses at Bellpoint, where Valerie Hope Collins, 9, was killed, could verify if a funnel had been sighted.

However, there were funnels at Columbia, in south central Kentucky, and at Wide Creek, southeast of here.

If all were the same tornado, it would have made a giant — turn, looping around the fringe of the hill country. The Weather Bureau said this was quite possible.

The Collins girl, whose home is at Newport, was visiting her grandfather, Brad Collins. She was killed when a partially constructed church collapsed in the high wind.

Tried to Run, Hit

Her uncle, Daniel Collins, and some other children at the scene were only bruised. Officials said the Collins girl tried to run and was hit by a falling beam.

The tornado here opened its havoc by tearing the roof from the Louisville & Nashville Railroad roundhouse on the edge of town. Then it acted like a mammoth ice cream scoop, cutting across the business and residential areas of the town.

In the tornado's wake came sunny skies and a glorious double rainbow—and misery for the 1,100 residents of the town.

An Army reserve unit was ordered to help with the cleanup and to prevent looting.

SAYS KILLING MISTAKE—Pedro Livio Cedeno, wounded during assassination of Generalisimo Trujillo, faces newsmen in Ciudad Trujillo hospital. Alternate Proposal Favored

Bargaining Team Will Leave Today

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro said early today he will receive a four-man bargaining team from the United States to work out details of swapping 1,200 captive Cuban rebels for 500 tractors.

But the bearded prime minister raised anew his alternate proposal to trade the rebels captured in the abortive April invasion for "political prisoners" held by the United States, Puerto Rico, Nicaragua and Guatemala.

Preferred Top Members

Castro notified the U. S. Tractors-for-Freedom Committee that he would receive its technicians, provided they have full power to negotiate the tractor-prisoner deal as "spelled out" by the Cuban prisoners' mission sent to the United States to broach his offer.

The freedom committee announced in Detroit its bargaining team will fly to Havana Monday.

In his note to the freedom group Castro said he would have preferred leading members of the committee itself, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt and Milton Eisenhower, come to Havana, "but that is not indispensable."

To Decide Over Business

He insisted, however, that the bargaining mission "must have powers to discuss the quality and amount of indemnification Cuba is asking. Your committee cannot decide by itself what kind of equipment Cuba is going to accept as compensation for all the material damage done by the aggressive actions launched from the United States against our country," Castro declared.

"Your committee ought to know that we are the ones to decide over our own business and that we only accept technical advice when we ask for it beforehand."

The note, signed by Castro, also called for an answer to his proposal for exchanging the invasion captives for Cubans held in the United States and elsewhere.

Repeats Basis

"In this case," he said, "Cuba would be willing to surrender all her claims for material indemnification."

Castro has insisted repeatedly during his overtures that the exchange should be on a "freedom for freedom" basis.

Castro insisted he had no ulterior motive in suggesting that Mrs. Roosevelt and Dr. Eisenhower come to Cuba to take a personal hand in the negotiations.

The freedom committee said its bargaining team will fly from Miami, Fla., Monday at 2:30 p.m. EST on a regularly scheduled flight and indicated newsmen could go along. The plane ordinarily flies empty to Havana to pick up passengers for Miami.

Break Possible In Laos Talks

GENEVA (AP) — A possible break in the deadlocked international conference on Laos appeared in the making today—at least in the talking stage.

U. S. Ambassador W. Averell Harriman Friday delivered to Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko a note President Kennedy personally approved. Then Harriman spent an hour backing it up.

Nothing Specific

American sources said Gromyko responded to the extent of expressing eagerness for going on with the 14-nation talks but he offered nothing specific in the way of compromise. British Foreign Secretary Lord Home planned to fly here from London Sunday to see Gromyko.

Violations of the cease-fire in Laos by the pro-Communist rebels caused the Western powers to call an indefinite postponement of the conference last Thursday.

The decision followed the rebels' capture of Padong, a mountain village 20 miles south of rebel headquarters at Xieng Khouang.

Blames Air Drops

Khrushchev and Kennedy were agreed on the importance of a cease-fire when they met last weekend in Vienna, though some observers doubted that the words in their joint communique held the same meaning for each.

Gromyko told Harriman Friday that U. S. parachute supply drops to Padong's defenders had provoked the attack by the rebels.

Four Persons Injured In Six County Crashes

Four persons were injured in six separate vehicular accidents in Ulster County over night, including a nine-year-old Town of Ulster boy who was struck by a car, and a Poughkeepsie man was arrested for allegedly passing a bad check at a Highland traffic circle market operated by Supervisor John Gaffney of the town of Lloyd.

Ulster Boy Fair

Stephen Chatham, 9, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Chatham of 5 Stahlman Place, who was struck by a car as he was riding his bicycle along Vincent Street about 100 feet east of Nichols Street, Town of Ulster, late Friday afternoon, was reported in "apparently fair" condition today at Kingston Hospital.

Rafael Trinidad, 29, of Albany, who was injured early this morning in a two-car collision on the Thruway south of Kingston, was taken to Kingston Hospital by Fatum's Ambulance with a possible fractured leg, chest injuries, contusions and abrasions. No condition report was available this morning.

Lester Simpson, 30, of Newburgh, was taken to St. Francis Hospital, Poughkeepsie, early last night with a severely lacerated left arm after the car he was driving on Pancake Hollow road near Highland, Town of Lloyd, failed to make a left turn, struck a utility pole and turned over.

Earling Rise, 61, of Atwood Road, Stone Ridge, told state police he would see his own doctor for treatment of a head injury suffered when a tire blew out on his sedan about 11:30 p. m. Friday on the Peak road, Stone Ridge.

Passed at Fruit Market

Highland state police arrested Allen Walker, 29, of Poughkeepsie yesterday on a forgery charge involving an alleged bad check passed at a fruit market operated by Supervisor John Gaffney at the Highland traffic circle on Route 9W.

Kingston state police said the Chatham boy was riding his bicycle in a westerly direction along Vincent Street when he turned into the path of a car operated by George S. Clark, 40, of Box 419, Kingston, proceeding in an easterly direction.

Trooper T. J. Morrissey said the child received possible internal injuries, contusions and bruises. Time of the mishap was 4:15 p. m.

Apparently Fell Asleep

Trinidad was proceeding south on the Thruway at Mile Post 76.9, town of New Paltz, about 15 miles south of Kingston, when he apparently went to sleep at the wheel of his car and smashed into the rear of a car operated by Kenneth D. Folta, 22, of Saratoga Springs.

The White Eagle Benevolent Society which built the hall is bringing Rymanowski Brothers Recording Orchestra from Troy to play from 9 p. m. to 1 o'clock for the dance and will present a program of speakers at the Sunday banquet, starting at 6:30 p. m., including a Catholic priest, Rev. John J. Gill, a graduate of the parochial school of Immaculate Conception Church which members of the society attend.

Others will be the president of the society, Edward E. Lukaszewski, Aloysius Mikula, president of the Polish-American Citizens Club of Poughkeepsie; Augustus R. Joseph Kelly, city editor of The Freeman, a former supervisor of the Fourth Ward in which the hall is located will be toastmaster.

Father Gill, who is at St. Patrick's Church, Verplanck, warmly accepted the invitation to speak from President Lukaszewski. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Gill of 56 Crane Street, and was ordained to the priesthood on May 30, 1959 at St. Patrick's Cathedral, New York City.

Father Gill received his primary education at Immaculate Conception School and graduated from Kingston High School magna cum laude in 1951. After two years of college, he entered St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, Yonkers, from which he received a Bachelor of Arts degree in 1955 and where he studied Sacred Theology for four years. He offered his first solemn Mass at Immaculate Conception Church on Sunday, May 31, 1959.

The first society was organized on May 8, 1892 by Polish immigrants who settled in the Downtown section of the city, mostly in the Fourth ward area, where they built Immaculate Conception Church. Esopus Schedules 'Lady of Hudson' Service Sunday

A special event in the Town of Esopus sesqui-centennial celebration will take place Sunday afternoon when a special service and benediction will be held at the shrine "Our Lady of the Hudson" on the grounds of the Church of the Presentation, Port Ewen. The service is scheduled to commence at 3 p. m.

The speaker at the service will be the Rev. Michael Downing, CSsR, who is the prefect of students at the Mt. St. Alphonsus monastery, Esopus. Father Downing during World War II was a chaplain in the U. S. Navy and during 1951 to 1953 served as chaplain of the Town of Esopus, Post 1298, American Legion. Father Downing's address will be "The Town of Esopus, Past, Present and Future."

Choir to Take Part

Also participating in the service will be the Mt. St. Alphonsus choir composed of students attending the seminary. Those who have heard the choir have high praise for its quality and ability. Assisting Father Downing in the solemn mass of benediction will be the Rev. James Kelley, CSsR, pastor of the Church of the Presentation. The public is invited to attend the service.

The Church of the Presentation, where the service will be held, is known as "the church below the hill" in Port Ewen and is an off-shoot of St. Mary's Church, Kingston. In 1874, when the then new church was dedicated, it was named after one of Mary's special feasts, the Presentation of the Blessed Virgin Mary.

The little Catholic Church in Port Ewen is part of the history of the Town of Esopus. It grew because the area grew and the parish continues to grow with the surrounding village and

Six State Areas Qualify for Aid To Cut Jobless

WASHINGTON (AP)—Six areas in New York State are among the first 4 in the nation eligible for special federal aid under a new $300-million program to combat persistent unemployment in depressed areas.

The New York areas are Amsterdam, Auburn, Gloversville, Jamestown-Dunkirk, Ogdensburg-Massena-Malone and Plattsburgh.

The Area Redevelopment Administration said Friday other depressed areas would be added to the list in the near future.

The administration said a community, to become eligible, must submit a plan for reviving its economy.

Meanwhile, the Urban Renewal Administration approved a $12,000 grant to finance preparation of a plan for the growth and development of the Towns of Newburgh and New Windsor, Orange County.

The grant, which goes through the New York Commerce Department, will be supplemented with $24,000 in state and local funds.

The work, to be completed in 20 months, includes parking, traffic, population, housing and economic studies.

Rain Washes Out ID Program, Set For Next Weekend

A continuous downpour of rain this morning forced postponement of the urban renewal festival scheduled today and Sunday at Island Dock on Abeel Street. The open house and feature events have been rescheduled for next weekend from 1 to 6 p. m. on Saturday and Sunday.

The program included the appearance of Mrs. New York State, Leonore Siegle of Fredonia; water skiing, aqua show, free boat and pony rides, YMCA trampoline demonstration, exhibits of the latest home products and materials, home modernization movies, and various other displays.

Admission is free and samples will be distributed.

The open house coincides with the grand opening of Island Dock Home Modernization Center.

Return of Player Piano Will Give Lift to Firm

By CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
Freeman Staff Writer

It's coming back big, they say—the player piano, and it's bringing the kind of music we like to hear locally—stimulation of industry.

It is already striking tones of a new future for the Charles Ramsey Corp., 15-19 Gage Street, manufacturer of piano hardware, and one of the city's older industries.

Harry C. Kapreilian, president and general manager of the corporation, today said growing interest in the mechanically played piano, is now noted west of the Mississippi, and this means it could again become popular elsewhere in the nation.

Big years of the player came soon after start of this century and the industry reached a peak in the 1920's when it shared popularity with the victrola.

New production of the instrument, Kapreilian said, is boosting

Amvets Will Give Word Sunday on Bingo Penalties

BINGHAMTON, N. Y. (AP) — The state convention of the American Veterans of World War II (Amvets) will disclose Sunday what action it has voted against two posts suspended in the wake of a state investigation of bingo.

Delegates to the convention acted Friday in the cases of Post 52 of Tuckahoe and University Post 481 of Manhattan, but declined to announce the result until Sunday, at the close of the four-day convention.

The State Investigation Commission said convicted swindler William P. Buckner had been connected with bingo games the posts sponsored.

Meanwhile, delegates considered a resolution today that asks Gov. Rockefeller to call a special session of the Legislature to consider a bill to give Korean War veterans bonus payments, a measure that died in the 1961 session.

Another resolution calls for an increase in pensions to disabled veterans of World War II and the Korean War. A spokesman said current payments failed to keep up with inflation.

Colonel to Face Trial In Texas Tower Crash

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has ordered a colonel to face a court martial in the collapse of a radar "Texas Tower" that dragged 28 men to their death in the Atlantic Ocean.

The officer, Col. William M. Banks, has been charged with being derelict in duty by failing to keep himself informed.

Banks was in command of the Boston air defense center and the tower was part of its radar network.

The court martial was ordered Friday by the air defense commander, Lt. Gen. Robert M. Lee. The Air Force indicated the military trial may convene within a week.

Charges against two other officers—Majs. William R. Sheppard and Reginald L. Stark—were dismissed. Both had been serving under Banks. Lee also dismissed a charge against Banks of culpable negligence resulting in death. Banks is from Raleigh, W.Va.

The tower, officially known as No. 4 but unaffectionately known by its crew as "old shaky," buckled and sank in an Atlantic gale Jan. 15.

Standing on three stilt-like legs in open sea, No. 4 had been battered and weakened by hurricanes Daisy and Donna, and it was inclined to sway and vibrate like a tuning fork.

"There were times when the men lay in their bunks and practically cried because the thing swayed so," the sister of one of the lost crewmen has recalled.

Security Clerk Gone, No Access to Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Police today sought a clerk from the hush-hush National Security Agency who has been missing since Monday.

The FBI declined comment on whether it was taking part in the search for William Hyter Covington, 28, conducted by Maryland state police at the request of NSA.

Defense Department officials said Covington had no access to secret material.

NSA—so secret its employes are not supposed to tell their friends where they work—engages in communications intelligence. Located at nearby Ft. Meade, Md., it maintains around-the-clock monitoring of all signals and messages on the air waves, including those in code form.

Officials said Covington had been on sick leave for two months following an operation.

He returned to work May 31, but after working two days asked to be off June 2 because he said he needed additional medical treatment.

Last Monday and Tuesday Covington telephoned that he was sick. Wednesday, his wife called the security agency to learn where he was and was told he hadn't been in. The Covingtons live at Laurel, Md.

NSA listed Covington as missing Thursday. He was reported seen at the race track at Charles Town, W. Va., and also in Arlington, Va.

Last summer, two NSA code clerks fled to Moscow and have since been used by the Soviet Union for propaganda blasts at the United States. Both Bernon F. Mitchell and William H. Martin are reported to have gone to work as mathematicians for the Soviet government.

The POWER of FAITH

by Howard Brodie

"Psychiatry and faith are teammates," says Chaplain Joseph H. Lief of the Veterans Hospital at Northport, N. Y. There for 15 years this rabbi has offered patients the strength and inspiration of faith, while psychiatrists have offered them mental health.

He has devoted his life to serving the personal and spiritual needs of thousands of patients, says the National Jewish Welfare Board, with "the warmth of a human and with brotherly feeling," becoming "famous in the field of pastoral counseling."

Other speakers will be the Honorable Gov. Mark Hatfield of Oregon; the Rev. Dr. C. E. Carlson, Washington, D. C., executive director, Baptist joint committee on public affairs; and the Rev. Dr. Curtis R. Nims, pastor, First Baptist Church, San Francisco, Calif., who will give the convention sermon.

"Mission to the Unchurched" is the third-year emphasis of the Baptist Jubilee Advance. It will be launched June 14 at the opening session of the Portland convention by the Rev. Dr. Jitsuo Morikawa, New York City, who will direct that year's emphasis. Dr. Morikawa's address that evening will be on "The Vocation of the Church — Witness in the World." Dr. Morikawa is secretary of the Division of Evangelism of the American Baptist Home Mission Societies. The Rev. Dr. Kenneth L. Cober, Philadelphia, Pa., who directed the second year BJA emphasis "Mission to the Local Church," is planning to present two or three pastors who will give their testimonies on what has happened in their church and congregations during the past year because of the 2nd year BJA emphasis. Dr. Cober is executive director of the Division of Christian Education, American Baptist Board of Education and Publication.

C. Stanton Gallup, Plainfield, Conn., president of the American Baptist Convention will deliver the presidential address at the opening session of the convention June 14. All convention sessions will be at the new Memorial Coliseum.

The Rev. Dr. Forest M. Ashbrook, New York City, executive director, ministers and missionaries benefit board, will be the honored guest at the M and M luncheon to be held June 14. Dr. Ashbrook is retiring effective June 30 after having been with the M and M board since 1940.

An event that consistently draws the largest audience is the annual missionary dedication service which traditionally takes place during the Sunday evening sessions; it will be June 18, this year. Newly-commissioned missionaries who will serve across the United States and in many parts of the world, are dedicated to their task in a moving service. Many of them appear in the native costumes of the countries in which they are serving or have served.

One of the major business items to come before the delegates at the annual sessions will be reorganization of the convention's administrative life.

Protestant Rally in Berlin Hampered by Cold War Snags

By GEORGE BOULTWOOD

BERLIN (AP) — The struggle between the Protestant church and the Communist regime of East Germany will reach a new peak in July.

The church has scheduled its annual mass rally in divided Berlin for July 19-23 and the Communists are doing their utmost to wreck it.

Half a million of the church's 40 million members throughout Germany attended the rally, known as the Kirchentag, in Munich last year. An equally large turnout could be expected next month.

But the Communists have made it plain they will do all they can to prevent East German members getting to Berlin.

They may also interfere with free travel to surrounded Berlin by barring church leaders from West Germany coming by road or rail. They have done this before when meetings of which they disapproved were held in the divided city.

Struggle Over Unity

The struggle is over the unity of the Evangelical church.

Groups of member churches are federated in one body which straddles the iron curtain. The biggest group, the Church of the Union, which formerly covered the area of Prussia, now stretches from the Oder River in the Communist East to the Rhine in the free West.

The Communist regime doesn't like this. It wants for East Germany a separate church leadership. So it is campaigning to split the church in two by obstructing unified meetings of members from East and West.

To justify their opposition the Communists have slapped a political label on the rally.

They claimed East Germans were being lured to West Berlin to become pawns in the cold war. They called the organizers "militarists and revenge seekers," claiming the Kirchentag was under the patronage of North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

So far the Communists have confiscated church papers announcing the date of the Kirchentag, vetoed meetings in East Berlin and warned East Germans not to try to get to West Berlin to take part.

The church has made one concession to this pressure. It has advised serving members of the West German armed forces not to come to Berlin to take part.

Cardinal's Drive For Foster Homes

June has been designated as "Catholic Foster Home Month" in the New York Archdiocese and a campaign will be waged to find foster parents for 564 dependent children ranging in age from infancy to 16 years, now on the waiting lists of the Catholic Home Bureau and the New York Foundling Hospital, the two placement agencies of New York Catholic Charities.

The Rev. G. Howard Moore, in charge of the Cardinal's Campaign for Foster Homes which has been in operation since 1947, will direct this latest drive to find foster families for homeless boys and girls. The search will extend to all sections of the Archdiocese which includes the counties of Westchester, Dutchess, Rockland, Orange, Ulster, Putnam and Sullivan as well as the boroughs of Bronx, Manhattan and Richmond.

Currently there are 26 foster homes in Ulster County where 58 children are being cared for until their own homes, if possible, can be rehabilitated.

The Catholic Home Bureau was the first Catholic agency in the United States organized for the exclusive purpose of placing Catholic children under foster home care. It was founded in 1899 to cope with the problem of finding shelter for the deluge of of Irish, Italian and German children left stranded in New York through the illness or death of their immigrant parents in the latter part of the 19th century. Now as then the Bureau is still looking for homes for the homeless, a number of whom are New York's latter-day "migrants," those of the Spanish-speaking backgrounds.

The New York Foundling Hospital, which dates back to 1869, also places children in foster homes as part of its four fold program of caring for abandoned and neglected infants of all races. The Boarding Department specializes in placing children up to two years of age.

These two Catholic child placement agencies presently have a combined total of 2809 children under supervision in 1260 foster homes.

Each proposed foster home, Father Moore explains, is considered on an individual basis but certain qualities, both tangible and intangible, are sought in prospective foster parents. They should have a genuine love and wholesome interest in children; parental affection, stability of character, flexibility and thoughtfulness; an understanding approach to the problems of growing children and a concern for the spiritual and moral as well as the physical and intellectual forces in a child's life. Foster parents are paid $75 a month for each child plus medical care and clothing allowances.

Applicants must be between 25 and 60 years of age, have an income sufficient to meet the needs of their families and must either be citizens or have declared their intention of becoming one by filing first papers.

Additional information and applications to become foster parents may be obtained from the Cardinal's Campaign for Foster Homes, 122 East 22nd Street, New York 10, or by phoning GRamercy 5-7030.

Must Bring Christ To Minority Is Churchman Plea

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—One of the church's greatest needs is missionary work among minority groups in this country, a Methodist leader says.

The Rev. Dr. Hanford H. Closson, associated general secretary of the Methodist home missions division in Philadelphia, said Friday that more effort should be made to reach Negroes, American Indians and Latin Americans, especially in the Southwest.

"It is imperative that we use every effort to bring the principles and person of Christ to bear upon our society," he said. "We are vulnerable in world affairs because we want other national to follow a way that we have not yet been able to follow in our own country."

Q) "I have bought a few stocks in the past year that I am not happy about. My broker is a nice chap but I'm afraid he's rather excitable. He calls me regularly to tell me that somebody important is moving into such and such a situation, that another stock is rumored to be set for a merger or that still another is reported ready to split. I bought into all of these issues and none of the actions he mentioned has taken place. How would you handle this situation?" — C.G.

A) I think you should tell your broker that you're unhappy about your purchases; also, that if he wants to keep your business, he'll have to stick to facts and stop feeding you tips.

Almost all rumors and tips are false, and the reason is plain. Strong companies rarely allow leaks about their future plans, although insider buying sometimes reveals them. A good broker is usually backed up by an analytical department which is always sorting and sifting information to come up with some logical assumpsions on the basis of careful study.

I believe that in this matter you are almost as culpable as your broker. You tried to make some easy profits without thorough investigation, and money simply isn't made that way in the stock market.

Q) "Not long ago I purchased Universal Oil Products for long-term appreciation. I am a junior in college and have no immediate need for the money. My parents have urged me to sell now that I have recovered the full purchase cost. What do you think?" — R. G.

A) Universal Oil Products (NYSE) shares have performed very well this year. Much of this strength has come from belief that the company's anti-smog device will be accepted in California. But with or without this development, I would hold this stock as a fine research situation with good prospects for growth on increasing royalty income.

Will Valid, Kin Left Out, $700,000 for Area Church

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — New Jersey's second highest court Friday upheld a will in which an elderly spinster disinherited her only living relative and left almost all of her $800,000 estate to a small country church near Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

The Appellate Division of Superior Court said Miss Edna K. Denver, a retired Jersey City school teacher who died last July at 89, was of sound mind when she made the will.

The will was fought by her nephew, William D. Beattie, 54, of Oradell. He said she lived in a world of delusions, had no clear idea of how rich she was, and could not leave a valid will.

The court said, "by commonly accepted standards, Edna K. Denver was very penurious and very eccentric."

It pointed out that she lived in a small apartment heated by a kerosene stove, had ancient furniture, wore old-fashioned black clothes, collected her own rents, and lived on her teacher pension without even clipping her substantial bond coupons.

But it said that "old age, penury and eccentricity do not per se establish a lack of testamentary (will-making) capacity."

It said Beattie's own witnesses showed Miss Denver was a lucid person of strong mind, a very shrewd investor, honest in all her dealings, and a person who talked intelligently with her friends.

She left more than $700,000 in trust for the Shrub Oak Methodist Church in the tiny village of Shrub Oak, N.Y. She was buried there.

The court said Miss Denver's reason for leaving Beattie without a cent was that he didn't bury his mother—Miss Denver's sister—in the Shrub Oak family plot, but instead kept her body in a vault of Hackensack Cemetery for 10 years.

DOMINICAN CHALLENGE

The Trujillo assassination poses a sizable challenge to the United States. What follows next in the Dominican Republic is certain to have an effect, possibly a profound one, on our relations with the Organization of American States.

Our OAS leadership, which we dare not shirk, is at stake here as it must be in everything that transpires in the Caribbean of which Castro's Cuba is a part. At the same time, it is essential that we act with wisdom and caution. The importance of having a democratic regime succeed Trujillo can scarcely be over-estimated. But in our zeal to bring this about we must be careful not to add new fuel to the fire of Latin American resentment of Yankee power.

Satisfying all the conflicting purposes of the 14 Latin American nations may require the genius of a Cavour and the wisdom of a Solomon. But we must bend every effort to that task, yet still eschew unilateral action. Senator Smathers has urged us to send in the Marines. We did that in 1916. But this is not 1916. Troops may ultimately have to go in, but if so they should be troops of several nations under OAS command.

Our record of success in the Organization of American States is encouraging. The Latins followed our lead in embargoes and sanctions against Trujillo and even in severance of relations. We can hope that leadership will be maintained. The present goal is a democratic Dominican Republic; the long-range goal is a strengthened and more unified OAS.

TOO GOOD TO LOSE

Perhaps the ultimate salvation of the world may come about as a result of man's making this old globe too cushy a place to live to permit it being destroyed. Science is making tremendous strides along this road.

The latest development in this rosy prospect is our preparation to launch, this summer, a satellite hurricane-hunter by which we hope to discover ways to kill off cyclones, tornadoes and such before they get a good start. That is the reported purpose of the third Tiros meteorological satellite which the National Aeronautics and Space Administration hopes to put aloft a few weeks hence, at the start of the Atlantic hurricane season.

Other scientists are plugging away at sea water desalinization, promising that maybe within this decade they will find a way to assure mankind of inexhaustible, inexpensive supplies of fresh water. With water and weather controlled, we could make the desert bloom and add enough cropland to support the expected doubling of our population. And for added recreational facilities there is, of course, the moon.

Meanwhile, we've got quite some chore on our hands. We must assure that our nuclear antics don't ditch this long-orbiting sphere we're already riding, before we get the improvements completed.

The Supreme Court rules that embezzled money is subject to federal income tax. Well, there goes another handy loophole.

LAND FOR SALE — CHEAP

Interior Secretary Udall's announced new regulation to spur state and local communities to obtain federal lands for parks seems commendable. Under it, communities dedicating such parks to the use of all Americans could buy the land for $2.50 an acre or rent it for 25 cents an acre a year. Heretofore the price has been 50 per cent of the fair market value, which is rising.

For the first year the annual limit is 12,800 acres. After 1962 this would drop to 6,000 acres. The limit up to now has been 640 acres. The plan would be a boon to our expanding need for outdoor recreation areas.

But is the out-and-out sale necessary? The leases, if of a sufficiently long term, would be almost equally valuable.

When we sell these lands, how do we know state administrations with easy consciences wouldn't resell them to speculators? Perhaps there is some such guarantee in the regulation. If not, there ought to be.

'These Days'

POPULARITY

Personal popularity has the political value of making it smoother for a President to carry his program to completion. An unpopular President may be the richest man in all this world but Congress always responds to the voice of the people, as it should, and if the people do not like the President, for one reason or another, Congress will fight him.

John Kennedy, as a candidate, was not particularly popular. Neither was his opponent, Richard Nixon. Their debates, while novel, were not too exciting. Such a display of forensics will not likely be tried too soon again. Kennedy was elected by a small popular vote, which translated into political terms ordinarily would mean that he would not exercise much influence over Congress.

Then came the first hundred days. John Kennedy developed a personal popularity of major political significance. The general sentiment was that he ought to be given a chance. His press interviews, in contrast with President Eisenhower's which were extraordinarily dull and ambiguous, were exacting and informative. Jack Kennedy answers questions with certainty and sparkle.

The spell of popularity continued to swell until the Cuban fiasco which hurt President Kennedy's reputation, particularly as he assumed full responsibility instead of firing those who were really responsible for errors of judgment and of commission. His avoidance of an immediate decision against Castro looked like indecisiveness. Many who had looked upon Kennedy as a possible Moses, took a second look at him and critics became numerous.

The White House sped up its public relations program, emphasizing the glorious womanhood of Mrs. Kennedy, the charm of Carolina, the brilliance of Bobby. But it did not work and had there been someone with the sharpness of William Randolph Hearst to shout "Remember the Maine!" no one could have known what might have happened. But Kennedy remained adamant. He would not risk a war over Berlin because of any action he might take in Cuba.

Again many stepped back to ask whether Kennedy was strong enough, mature enough to head this nation. Criticism was no longer only political; it became personal.

Then he went to Europe, to Paris, Vienna and London and conquered a continent by his personality, his culture, his charm, his surprising knowledge and his wife. It was a public relations job but an extraordinarily brilliant one. Without a single misstep, without an iota of cheapness, President and Mrs. Kennedy captured the hearts of the masses. In Great Britain, this was particularly fortunate, because the British have been moving away from us in many directions. It is more important for the United States, from a practical standpoint, that half a million Londoners came out to shout themselves hoarse for Jack and Jackie, than that Khrushchev should have behaved like a gentleman, which he did. Londoners do not shout for foreigners very readily.

What Kennedy actually accomplished was to overcome the froth of minor antagonism and to re-establish such unity as Winston Churchill produced during the worst days of World War II. And this was accomplished without saying one word or making a single gesture.

Mass popularity is a major quality in international relations. Winston Churchill could do no wrong, could say nothing untoward, so far as the American people are concerned. He was a master of public opinion in his hey-day and could do more with the wave of a hand than most politicians could accomplish with profound speeches. Apparently John Kennedy possesses this same quality — a warmth of personality which carries itself not only to individuals but to great masses.

Actually, President Kennedy did not achieve an agreement about anything. Even his understanding with Prime Minister Macmillan is only a repetition of an already established position. Nevertheless the enthusiasm of the British people for President Kennedy and his wife re-established a cordiality which even Franklin D. Roosevelt did not achieve in Great Britain. That popularity can stand the United States in good stead in the forthcoming discussions, particularly as it becomes increasingly necessary for this country to find a unification of policy with Great Britain.

Although the United States is probably the strongest nation on Earth, it cannot stand alone. The world today is too complex, too involved, for any one nation to stand absolutely alone. From an historical standpoint, Anglo-American friendship must be the foundation of policy and that has been strengthened by John Kennedy's visit.

The Mature Parent

Don't Let Jealous Child Upset Fairness, Firmness

MRS. MURIEL LAWRENCE
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Our 8-year-old is very jealous of his older brother. Though he gets along with his little sister, he always is accusing me of unfairness and partiality to the older boy. Lately I've wondered if we did wrong when we sent him to his grandmother at the time of his sister's birth and kept the older boy with us. He is so jealous I think at times he hates me.

ANSWER: Ask your pediatrician if he thinks this child needs professional help with his jealousy.

Now about you. You didn't send this boy away from home when his sister was born to hurt him, did you? You sent him to grandma because it seemed the only thing to do at the time. We parents are not gifted with infallible foresight. We do not have to spend our lives apologizing to children for exposing them to situations whose harmful effects we could not foresee at the time.

I think you are doing just that. I think that fear of having treated this child unfairly makes you especially vulnerable to his accusations of "unfairness."

To feel obliged to deliver perfect fairness to a jealous child is to paralyze our ability to take firm stands with him.

If he demands his brother's privilege of a later bedtime we'll grant it in order to maintain his picture of us as a perfectly just parent. We back down from our stand on a bed time appropriate to his younger age, not so much because we're interested in justice but because we fear his accusation of imperfect fairness.

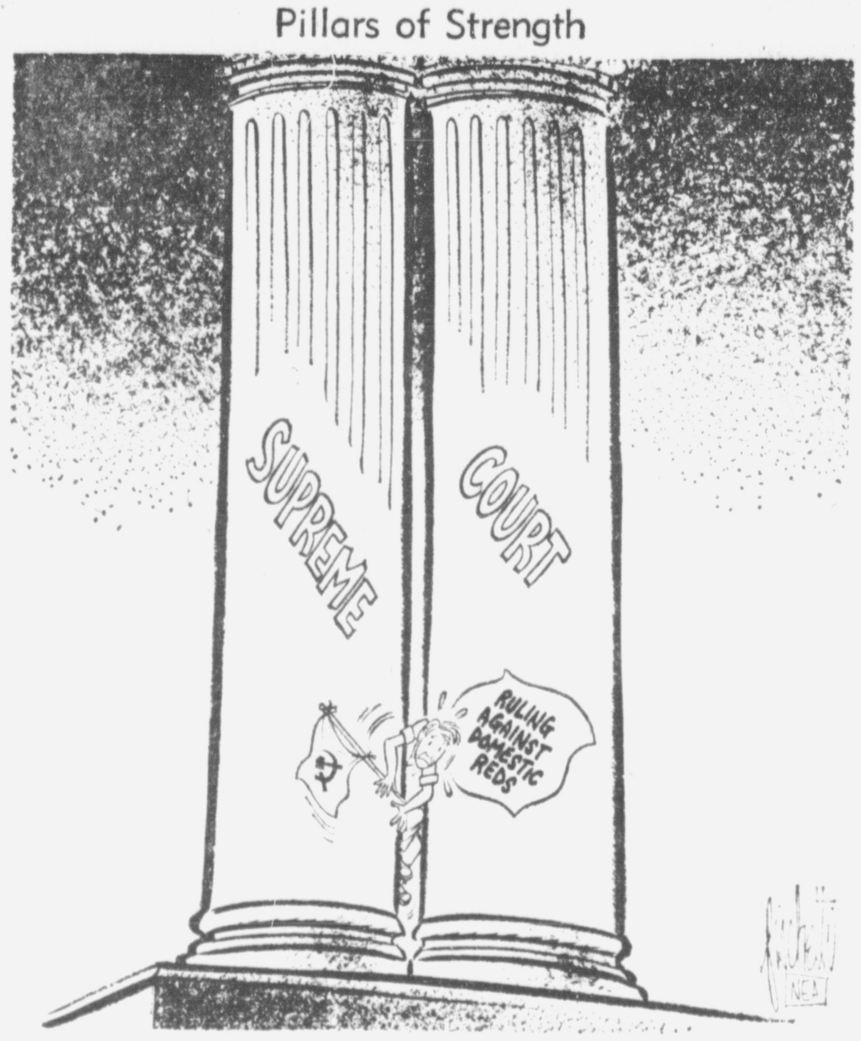

But if we don't mind being regarded as imperfectly fair, his accusations doesn't disturb us. We say cheerfully, "OK. I'm unfair. Now get along upstairs. Call me when you're in bed and I'll come up and say good night."

A jealous child sensing our anxiety to be perfectly fair can use it to make us indulge all his demands.

He can also make us very resentful. Because his jealousy is doubt of our affection, we can't afford resentful submissions to his demands which increase his doubt. We can't afford the pretense of perfect fairness that exposes us to constant challenges that irritate us. We can't afford to let his jealousy maneuver us into begrudged indulgences that justify his jealous belief that we do not like him.

Pillars of Strength

Washington News

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — An old-fashioned New Deal-type battle between the United States government and the private power companies is shaping up on the New Frontier. It involves a proposed $176 million all-federal transmission line system in the upper Colorado River basin.

U. S. Commissioner of Reclamation Floyd E. Dominy went to Salt Lake City for a public debate on the issue with President E. M. Naughton of Utah Power and Light Co.

This private utility is running a big advertising campaign to buck the government proposal. Consumer groups, public power authorities and electric co-operatives are answering with a campaign in support of the Department of Interior's Bureau of Reclamation program, approved by Congress.

THE BATTLE COMES TO WASHINGTON this month in hearings before the House Appropriations Committee, when public and private power interest spokesmen present cases.

Bureau of Reclamation completed its testimony in May. House money hearing are closed. But when the battle moves over to the Senate side, it will all come out in the open.

The curious thing about this fight is that the Bureau of Reclamation's program for all-federal transmission lines has the approval of both Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations.

Part of the explanation for this is found in the fact that Dominy, a career civil servant who worked his way to the top in Bureau of Reclamation during the Eisenhower administration, was kept on as head by Kennedy.

Anyway, just three days before the Eisenhower administration ended, Republican Secretary of Interior Fred A. Seaton approved Dominy's recommendations for an all-federal transmission line system in the Colorado River storage basin.

Two weeks after the Kennedy administration came in, Secretary Stewart L. Udall reaffirmed Seaton's decision, over private utility objections. And the battle was on.

WHAT IS INVOLVED is a proposed 1,872-mile government built, owned and operated system of 115 and 230 kilovolt capacity. It would connect the principal government power dams and generating stations in Wyoming, Utah, Colorado, Arizona and New Mexico.

Private power companies have some transmission lines of their own in this area, and propose to build others. They oppose an all-federal system as a duplication.

Also, they would like to be paid for "wheeling" government power over their own lines for wholesale distribution. It would go to government-preferred customers like rural electric co-ops and to private power companies that would retail it to consumers.

Private utilities also argue they would save the government money by constructing the lines themselves and by paying taxes on their system. Federal lines would operate tax-free.

THE GOVERNMENTS REPLY, IN BRIEF, is that it can deliver the power at six mills a kilowatt, while the private charge would have to be 6.75 mills minimum. The government system would thus provide a yardstick to keep prices down.

This would be done by interchanges with other federal power system. The upper Colorado basin transmission system would connect with the Hoover-Davis-Parker dam system on the lower Colorado at Phoenix. It would connect with the Colorado-Big Thompson system at Green Mountain, west of Denver. It would connect with the Missouri River system at Pueblo.

Ultimately this system might be connected with the Bonneville power system in the northwest through the upper Missouri power lines in Montana. An all-western power grid is one of the dreams of assistant secretary of interior, Kenneth Holum.

ANY IDEA THAT BONNEVILLE POWER could be delivered to the Tennessee Valley or the eastern U. S. is, however, nonsense. Maximum range would be 230 miles.

Bureau of Reclamation received $5.1 million from Congress for developing the upper Colorado grid this year. It is requesting $13.6 million for the year beginning July 1.

Citizen's Group To Study School Facts, Figures

The first meeting of the New Paltz Citizen's Committee was held recently under the sponsorship of the Chamber of Commerce at the Municipal Building, Harold Phillips, president of the chamber acted as chairman of the meeting.

Approximatey 30 people, delegates from other organizations, and John Ashton Jr., president of the school board, attended.

Phillips introduced Van Pine, the Chamber delegate, who said, this group should study all the available facts and figures concerning public school education and how these facts apply to New Paltz. When the committee thinks it has pertinent facts about any part of the educational system, these facts should be presented to the school board and be published at the same time. In no way is the committee to think of itself as an agitation group. The purpose of the group is to offer constructive aid to the board and to the public."

Pine outlined the fundamentals of operation that the committee should endeavor to follow. They are:

The committee should get advice from everyone. All classes and ages must be represented in polls and statistics.

It should be well organized with a set of rules governing action. Action should be kept to study, advice and recommendation.

It should have freedom of thought, and action, but should cooperate with the school board.

It should have a two-way communication system set up between the school board and the community.

On a permanent basis, members of the committee should be rotated.

The members should be able, interested, nonpolitical and nonpartisan.

The committee should turn to the school board, faculty and administration for cooperation and help, but not to be dominated by them.

The committee should conduct research, study and then debate before making final recommendations.

The committee should operate with "no ax to grind."

Officers should be selected from active, interested people on the committee.

The membership should be free from pre-conceived notions and be flexible in its beliefs.

It should be a fact-finding committee, not a fault-finding one.

Mrs. Hicks, representative from the New York State Citizen's Committee on Education, spoke on the functions of such a committee. She said a written format of operations should be used as a guide for the future. She also said that there was a need to include teachers on the committee.

The Chamber of Commerce wishes it to be known that their chief interest in organizing a citizen's committee is that of organizer only.

Delegates to date from local organizations are Van Pine, Chamber of Commerce; Taylor Thompson, Jaycees; Millicent Zaleski, Jayncees; Stanley Hasbrouck Jr., Paltz Club; Robert Corey, VFW; Maureen Hasbrouck, VFW Auxiliary; William Gruner, American Legion; Mrs. Delia Shaw, American Legion Auxiliary; Frank Tantillo, Gardiner Civic Association; Mrs. H. Marks, Gardiner P-TA; Douglas Bartow, Reformed Church; Walter Dyer, Methodist Church; Barbara Schulte, St. Joseph's Mother's Guild; Mrs. B. Bradt, League of Women Voters; Mrs. Nathan Stillman, Garden Club; Alfred Stassman, Lutheran Church; John Schreiber, Huguenot Grange; Walter Paradies, Rod and Gun Club; Mrs. Eldon Johnson, Nursing Committee.

A meeting of the committee has been scheduled for Tuesday, June 13, at which time they will elect officers. Mrs. Schulte has been selected to act as secretary for the meeting.

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

This columnist in a previous article has dwelt upon the feverish activities connected with the great recruiting campaign of 1862 in New York State following Lincoln's call for 300,000 more volunteers to cope with the rapidly rising tenseness of the war situation. Col. Silas W. Burt, assistant inspector-general who had been assigned to the Hudson Valley together with several areas above Albany, was busily surveying the progress being made at camp sites as far down the river as Yonkers including the one on the Kingston flats where the construction of wooden barracks already was underway. Colonel Burt, following his visits to Newburgh and Kingston, expressed himself as being "deeply impressed by the earnest and serious interest in military matters by every one I met." At Kingston, August 14, 1862, he found that great progress had been made in organizing the 120th Infantry: 444 men had been mustered and 400 more reported as enlisted for the new regiment which Col. George H. Sharpe had been authorized to raise in Ulster County. However, he now found that the camp quarters were inadequate for such a large number of men.

Colonel Burt also reported that as none of the soldiers was uniformed, there were more of them loafing about the village (Kingston) than there were in camp, where they "appeared merely as a mob." It seems that Adjutant Tuthill was so absorbed in his routine duties that he could give no attention to other matters, while Colonel Sharpe was engaged in a personal canvass of his district to speed up enlistments, and so could not attend to the discipline in the big camp. Colonel Sharpe, who had captained a company of 20th Regiment men following the first Federal call for volunteers, was an indefatigable worker and it is logical to assume that he spared no time and effort to visit the several enlistment stations in the outlying townships, and gather in such physically fit young fellows as had not already gone South with Col. George Pratt's Old Twentieth, or Ulster Guards.

Yes, one can imagine the boys in their off-duty hours found "loafing" in the village rather an interesting place to pass the time on those hot August days previous to their departure for the Southland. Here, in the section known as Higginsville, between Wall Street and the Esopus Creek bridge, were the principal business places and it was from the sidewalks, if any, along North Front Street and upper Washington Avenue that they could stand and watch the almost incessant flow of wagon traffic from the busy townships up the Delhi and Kingston Turnpike. They also could see the folks back home, driving in from Hurley, Marbletown, Rochester, Wawarsing and other Rondout Creek areas. A good place to contact friends and neighbors, and perhaps also find out who had taken over a soldier's old job of teamstering for the tanneries and sawmills which lined the brooks and creeks back in the hills. Lads from the mountain towns possibly would know some of the men who were bringing in big loads of tanned hides and wooden firkins of butter from neighboring Greene and Delaware Counties. A feller, whilst waiting for his natty blue uniform and all that was to go with it, might even 'hoof it' down past the scattered houses to Rondout, there to view the sights of that busy waterfront village.

Still, things were moving along pretty well and the time was not far off when our boys would march down Union Avenue (Broadway) to board the Steamer Manhattan for New York, on the first leg of their trip to Washington. Capt. S. S. Westbrook and Lieutenants R. B. Newkirk and Daniel Elmendorf had completed their B Company and that unit had been mustered into U. S. Service, and the captain was made acting commandant of the camp. The recruits, still minus their equipment, were well fed and sheltered. Butter and other "camp luxuries" were often furnished by committees. August 23, 1862, the 120th was presented with a stand of colors by the women of Ulster, and the following day, Sunday, came the sad parting of 941 Boys in Blue from home and friends. Total deaths in service, 279. Total wounded 394. The later additions by recruits and transfer made a total of 1,562 names on the muster rolls of that grand old regiment, the 120th Volunteer Infantry.

Man With $14,000 InUnderwearNow Faces New Counts

PLATTSBURGH, N. Y. (AP)—The man who carried $14,000 in his underwear and $2,000 in his pocket must answer charges more serious than the one that sent him to jail for five days for vagrancy.

Identified as Boris Jordan, 42, the man was accused Friday of attempting to bribe a state trooper, a felony, and entering the United States illegally.

He also is wanted for questioning by Denver, Colo., authorities, who said Jordan fits the description of a man who bilked 36 banks in the Denver area of $7,000 to $10,000 by cashing worthless checks under the signature of Antoine Lorraine.

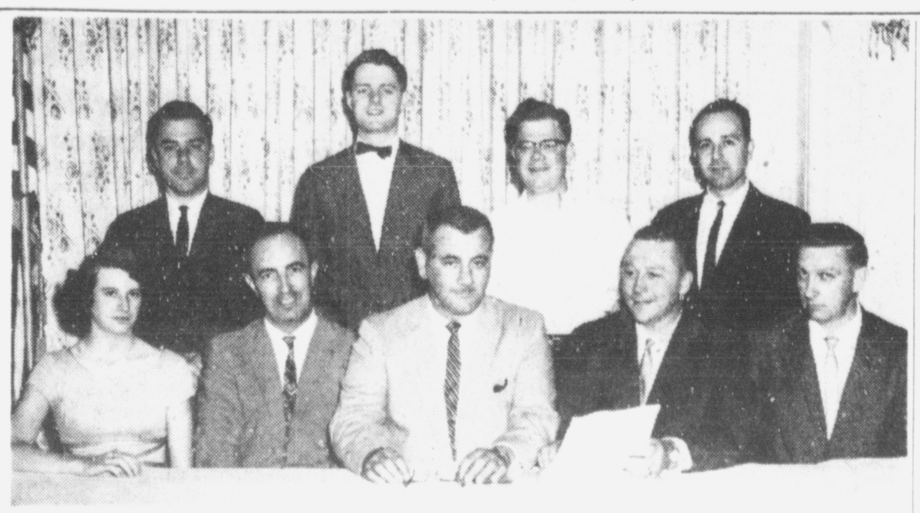

Dist. Atty. Thomas R. North said Jordan, shortly after he was arrested Wednesday at Rouses Point, offered Trooper Russell Trombley $2,000, and raised it to $3,000, if he would let him go. Jordan also allegedly offered $3,000 if Trombley would try to persuade immigration authorities not to file charges.

The Immigration Services issued a detainer charging Jordan with illegal entry.

North said he believed the alleged illegal entry occurred five years ago.

State Police quoted Jordan, who claimed to be a native of Germany, as saying he came to to special pockets in his underNorthern New York from Chicago to buy a farm.

Troopers found $14,000 sewn in wear.

Veterans Rights and Benefits Listed

Bonus New York State paid a bonus for World War I active service performed between April 6, 1917 and November 11, 1918. The rate of payment was $10 a month for each month of active service with a maximum of $150 payable to any one case. There was no distinction made between stateside or overseas service. The detailed records concerning payment of WW 1 State Bonuses have been destroyed. A veteran, therefore, generally will not be able to obtain the date or amount of payment of the WW 1 NYS veteran bonus. A document may be obtained through this agency, however, from the Division of Veterans' Affairs, 155 Washington Avenue, Albany 10, N. Y., which will indicate that a veteran applied for and received the NYS bonus for service in WW I.

Compensation — The current monthly compensation rates for veterans with war time service-connected disabilities which became effectively Oct. 1, 1957 are: 10%-$19; 20%-$36; 30%-$55; 40%-$73; 50%-$100; 60%-$120; 70%-$140; 80%-$160; 90%-$179; 100%-$225. Peacetime service is compensated at the rate of 80% of wartime disability rates. Additional compensation for dependents is payable to veterans who are rated 30% or more disabled.

Education Children of deceased veterans who are eligible for schooling under the War Orphans Educational program are not allowed to pursue correspondence courses under this law.

Insurance World War 2 National Service Life Insurance or post-Korea NSLI policy holders (except for RH policies) may add a total disability income rider to their policies at a small additional premium cost. Policy holders who become totally disabled from any cause before age 60 and while the TDIP clause is in effect will receive an income of $10 a month for each $1000 of their NSLI which is in force. Payments under the disability income rider may begin after the insured has been totally disabled for six consecutive months and continue for the duration of the disability regardless of how long it lasts. No payment may be made for disabilities incurred after age 60 and no premium change for this benefit is made after that date. The premium cost for the TDIP varies according to the insured's age, type of policy and its face amount. Payments under the disability income provision do not reduce the face amount of the NSLI policy payable at death. Premium payments, moreover, both on the basic NSLI policy and the disability rider, may be waived upon application by the insured for any period of total disability lasting longer than six months.

Armed Forces — The Soldier's and Sailor's Civil Relief Act of 1940, as amended, permits the courts to prevent the foreclosure on a loan of a person in active military service and for three months after his discharge. The income of a service person, however, must be so reduced that the required payment on the loan cannot be made. The law does not forgive payments on the loan. Any part of the payment which is postponed must be made up after Armed Forces.

Questions about the rights and benefits of veterans, servicemen on their dependents may be submitted for individual attention to the NYS Division of Veterans' Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency at 32 Main Street, Kingston, N. Y.

Three Candidates File for B of E Election July 12

Three candidates have filed petitions for positions on Saugerties Board of Education up to Friday afternoon, according to Mrs. Margaret Marburger, district clerk. Other petitions have been requested and are expected to be filed before the deadline on June 28.

Steve Stycos is running for reelection for his second term, having served on the board for the past three years. He resides at 25 Main Street in the village, and conducts a tailoring and cleaning establishment at 234 Main Street.

Charles Ollinger of Mt. View Avenue, Simmons Park, has filed a petition for the position created by the resignation of Kenneth Beadle, and later filled by Clarence Brower who subsequently moved from the vicinity. This opening is for a one year term. Ollinger and his wife Violet have four sons, Gerald and Joseph who are students in Saugerties High School and Jeffrey and Charles who are pupils in St. Mary's of the Snow. They have resided here since October 1955.

Ollinger has been with the IBM Corporation for the past 13 years and at present is a manager of installation planning and cabling. He served four and a half years in the U. S. Navy prior to his present employment. He is active locally in youth programs, including CYO, Little League, Babe Ruth and Biddy Leagues.

The third petition was filed by Henry P. Breitenbach of High Woods for a three-year term vacated by John Lowther. He and his wife, Shirley, have two daughters, both students in the Saugerties system. He is an employe of Shults Paint Company in Kingston.

He is active in community affairs and recently was elected president of the Lions Club for the coming year. He is also serving on the Citizens Advisory Group which was appointed by the board of education to study the school problems and make recommendations for a new school building program for the district.

The election for board members will take place at the Main St. School on July 12.

Glasco Firemen Start Campaign For Activity Fund

Glasco Fire Company will begin its annual canvass of the district Sunday, to raise money for the many activities which it sponsors and supports in the area.

This kickoff drive is scheduled at this time to insure the funds necessary for the forthcoming bazaar and fireworks display tentatively set for July 7 and 8 by the volunteer company.

Michael Mauro, president, in issuing this notice said, "We are hoping the residents in the Glasco Fire District will welcome and support the volunteers as they have in the past years. Only with your help at this time is it possible to continue to support and sponsor the Yankee Little League team, the annual visit from Santa, the fireworks display and the many other civic duties which are undertaken throughout the year."

Mauro also spoke of the excellent record of the district in having so few fires during the past year. He said that members of the fire department felt that this was a good indication of the precautions taken by the residents.

All vols on the canvass Sunday will be wearing their parade hats and will be carrying proper identification cards.

Set Film Showing At Baptist Church On Red Strategy

The film, "Operation Abolition" will be shown in First Baptist Church of Saugerties, Wednesday 7:30 p. m. This film reveals the Communist strategy and tactics in the rioting which occurred during House Committee on Un-American Activities hearings in San Francisco, May 12-14, 1960.

J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, in a report in relation to this rioting wrote, "The Communists demonstrated in San Francisco just how powerful a weapon Communist infiltration is. They revealed how it is possible for only a few Communist agitators, using mob psychology, to turn peaceful demonstrations into riots. Their success there must serve as a warning that their infiltration efforts aimed not only at the youth and student groups, but also at our labor unions, churches, professional groups, artists, newspapers, government, and the like, can create chaos and shatter our internal security.

"The Communists also demonstrated that the menace of communism is not a simple forthright threat. Instead, it is conspiracy which can be controlled only through full understanding of the true nature of the conspiracy and the ability to separate truth from propaganda."

The public is cordially invited to attend the showing of the film.

Orientation Held For Sixth Grade Students, Parents

Sixth Grade students from Saugerties elementary schools and their parents attended an orientation meeting at Saugerties Junior-Senior High School this week.

The meeting was sponsored by the high school guidance department under the supervision of Keneth Lane, guidance counselor, for the purpose of familiarizing the students and parents with the Seventh Grade program.

David Cunningham, high school principal, extended a welcome to the sixth graders and their parents in the school auditorium. This was followed by a short discussion period during which different phases of the junior high school program were explained. Participating in the discussions were Miss Audrey Grant, nurse-teacher; Miss A. Frances Larned, guidance director, and Robert Moser, Seventh Grade leader and English teacher.

Following the meeting in the auditorium, those attending were conducted on tours of the high school with several girls from the present Seventh Grade class acting as their guides.

As the groups visited the classrooms, the Seventh Grade teachers greeted them and answered questions concerning the Seventh Grade program.

Teachers who participated in the orientation were Graham Barkhuff, industrial arts department; Mrs. Robert Weiss, home economics department; Eugene LaPlante, art department; Richard Redder, social studies and mathematics, and David Goble, social studies.

Prior to the evening meeting, Lane visited all of the elementary schools and showed colored slides of the various events in a typical school day of the seventh grader. Each sixth grade student was also given a junior high handbook to use as a guide when entering the junior-senior high school in September.

Commencement Plans at SHS AnnouncedToday

A brief talk will also be given by Roland Mayone, Senior Class president.

Brief addresses will be given by Principal David S. Cunningham, and Dr. Grant D. Morse, superintendent of schools, who will also present the long list of prizes which local donors will be giving at that time.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP) — Testimony ended Friday in the trial of David Amesse, accused of the Hudson River drowning of his girl friend, Rachel Perry, last Dec. 21.

Amesse, 20, is charged with second degree murder and first-degree manslaughter in the death of Miss Perry,18.

The prosecution contends Amesse pushed the girl off the Mid-Hudson Bridge because he thought shewas pregnant. Authorities said Amesse signed a statement saying he and Rachel entered into a suicide pact but that he "chickened out."

Amesse testified he did give the girl a push, but denied that he shoved her off the bridge. The defendant also said he signed a confession because he feared the threats of state troopers.

State Trooper John Conway, one of the final trial witnesses, denied Amesse had been threatened.

Woman is Hurt In Truck Fall

A 52-year-old Kingston woman was injured Thursday when she fell from a pickup truck and struck her head on pavement on Delaware Avenue, according to a report to police on Friday.

Estelle Kelly, of 221 East Strand, was a passenger in a 1957 truck operated by Charles E. Howell, of 215 North Street, when the vehicle skidded and struck a wall. The impact caused the door on the passenger's side to open and the woman fell out, police were told.

She was taken to Kingston Hospital and treated. Later she was released.

The player, as probably everyone knows, produces music by movement of rolls of perforated paper to activate keys. The old type conformed to the style of the ordinary upright piano, but those now being made are more compact and of modern design.

Words on Rolls

Words of popular songs are carried along with melodies on the olls, and this accommodation probably more than anything affecting popular music, accounted for the memorizing of more song lyrics back in the roaring twenties than anything else in the field.

The invention of the modern piano (non-player type), says Webster, cannot be credited to a single individual. The first application of the principle used was by the Italian harpsicord maker Cristofori in 1710-11. It took a long while after that, even though the hurdy gurdy, barrel and hand organs, hinted at the idea, before the player piano was produced.

White Eagle Assn.

temporary house of worship on West Union Street.

Desiring their children to have a religious education and to be taught the Polish language, the congregation built a school near the church on Delaware Avenue. It was used until December of 1958, when, because of its wooden structure, it was declared a fire hazard.

When the Rev. Joseph Sieczek, pastor of the church, was faced with the problem of immediate action for a school building, the White Eagle Society offered the use of their brick building for classes and later for permanent use as a school, with an addition built on. The school with modern facilities cost about $200,000.

The cornerstone laying for the original White Eagle Building was laid in October of 1921 by Mayor Palmer Canfield during a program presided over by the Benevolent Society president John Lukaszewski. The stone was blessed by the Rev. Francis Lesniewski, pastor of the church. Verses were recited by Frances Hudela and Stella Musialkiewicz.

Appreciated by Priest

Father Sieczek, who blessed the new White Eagle building last November, will be out of the city Sunday, and has sent his felicitations to the society. He wrote, "May God continue to bless you is the sincere wish and earnest prayer of your chaplain." He has complimented the society publicly on several occasions for their cooperation in giving up their building for his school.

The new $135,000 building, 42 by 82, was started in April of 1960 by Slover, Jansen and Schline, following drawings made by Augustus Schrowang, local architect. Its banquet hall seats 300 people, and there is a recreation room for the society on the first of two floors.

Members of the building committee are Edward Lukaszewski, president; John Buboltz, vice president (former alderman of the Fourth ward); Joseph Klonowski, recording secretary; Walter Tatarzewski, financial secretary; and John A. Dudek, treasurer. Board of directors—Bernard Bujak, Francis Duffy, Walter Czarnecki, Donald Tomczyk, and Joseph Raczkowski Jr.

Officers of the White Eagle Benevolent Society are: Edward Lukaszewski, president; Adam Klonowski, vice president; Walter Tatarzewski, financial secretary; John A. The widow of another received a letter from her husband which said:

"I hope it (the tower) lasts long enough to get home and see you and the kids again."

It didn't.

The Air Force said the charge against Banks is that:

"Despite his knowledge of the structural condition of the tower and his receipt of the severe weather forecast, Col. Banks failed to keep himself appraised of the developing weather situation; did not maintain contact with the officer in charge of the tower and with the commander of the squadron, and failed to hold himself readily available for any action necessary in view of the developing dangerous situation at the tower."

While the Air Force pressed its inquiry into the tragedy, a Senate subcommittee collected testimony.

35 From Holland Guests in City

A group of 35 visitors from Holland were entertained in Kingston earlier this week. The Convention and Visitors Committee of the Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce helped make the necessary arrangements, including a requested visit to the Old Dutch Church.

This is the third consecutive year a group of tourists from Holland included Kingston in their itinerary. On arrival they were greeted by Chamber manager Albert Kurdt and Harry Rigby Jr. assisted in making plans for the visit to the Old Dutch Church.

Two things which impressed the visitors very favorably were the display of a Dutch Flag in the lobby of the Governor Clinton Hotel, in honor of their visit, and the hospitality and assistance given by Mrs. Martha Rauscher of the hotel staff. Mrs. Rauscher, being able to speak Dutch, served as a guide and interpreter. The latter was appreciated by many of the visitors unable to read the dinner menu or speak English.

Highland state police arrested Walker on the check charge after a fast alert had been sent out to area police authorities Friday afternoon.

Walker allegedly cashed a check for $42.50 at the Gaffney market. The check was signed by "Joseph Evans." It was taken by one of Gaffney's clerks.

Gaffney became suspicious and called the Huguenot Bank, New Paltz, which advised him that there was no such account. Gaffney then called Highland state police and gave them a description of the car. State police sent out a wire message to area police authorities.

A trooper with the Hyde Park state police and a member of the Poughkeepsie Police Department spotted and stopped the car in Poughkeepsie, but Walker was not in it. It was learned that Walker was driving another car and was on his way to Highland.

Committed to Jail

Investigator Al Chieco, Trooper Joseph Franke and Poughkeepsie Detective Edward McLoughlin later found Walker in a second car in Highland and he was arrested.

Walker was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Patsy Conforti of Highland and committed to the Ulster County jail pending a preliminary hearing at 10 a. m. Tuesday.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fans of the Saturday night who-did-it will be happy to know that all is peace once more in the Perry Mason family. Perry is back in the fold.

Raymond Burr is the living image of Perry, of course, and ever will be in the minds of millions of fans of the Erle Stanley Gardner mysteries. Include me in that group. Perry Mason is the only TV show our family watches on a regular basis.

For a few anxious weeks, it looked as though Burr might fly the coop. Now the troubles are resolved, and the resolution bodes well for future years of the popular series.

Burr explains: "It wasn't a matter of my holding out for a change of contract or a change of venue." These legal terms have rubbed off on him; the latter means change of a trial, for good cause shown, from one county to another.

The actor wasn't seeking to change counties. As he put it: "The issue was whether they would change the show so I could continue with it."

Burr's situation has been well chronicled in this space and elsewhere. It was that he found himself faced with a superhuman task of delivering weekly more dialogue than the average leading man has in a feature movie.

And did it for four years with scarcely a let-up, except for enforced stays in the hospital.

The producers came up with a formula to keep their Perry before the bar.

"It is quite simple," said Burr. "I now will work only five days out of every six. In other words, no matter how long the shooting of a program will take, I will be assured the sixth day off. That will be enough to regain my strength, whereas working six or seven days at 18 hours a day became virtually impossible."

Though he had another Emmy in his satchel, Burr didn't use it or any other means to exact more money from his employers.

President's Back Condition Better

By KARL R. BAUMAN

PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Kennedy's doctor expressed confidence today that the President's ailing back is getting well.

But Dr. Janet Travell kept a sharp vigil over her famous patient to see that he obeyed orders.

She again directed that he get a lot of rest, swim in a heated pool and us crutches while walking about the seaside villa where he is staying.

Assistant White House press secretary Andrew T. Hatcher said it still is too early to say whether Kennedy will be on crutches when he leaves late Sunday for Washington.

"Dr. Travell is confident that the President's condition is improving," Hatcher told newsmen. "He is experiencing less discomfort."

Get well telegrams poured in.

One came from Prime Minister John G. Diefenbaker of Canada. Diefenbaker said he was distressed to hear the news of Kennedy's back injury. He said he was more concerned that Kennedy should have sustained it during ceremonial tree planting in Ottawa May 16.

Kennedy wired back thanking the prime minister "for your gracious message," and added:

"The tree will be there long after the discomfort is gone."

Kennedy's condition, described as a lumbosacral strain, is said officially to be unrelated to seriour back operations he underwent in 1954 and '55.

Dr. Travell recommended the use of crutches to relieve pressure on the President's back.

Distinctive Ranch Type Home for Growing Family

(By Associated Architects)

It's always a pleasant surprise to find a house which is attractive and different, yet which costs no more to build. The "Mary", today's offering of the Associated Architects, completely refutes the idea that a home must be "boxy" to be economical. It's a trim, sleek three-bedroom ranch with a personality all it's own.

Important to its good looks are fine balance, careful adaptation to the lot and fine use of detail. Yet a look at the floor plan shows how closely the "Mary" adheres to the sound building technique that a simple geometrical form may be used.

Much of the balance is achieved by placing the garage on a lower level. Set in a brick area with landscaping appropriate to the lot, it is very convenient, yet allows the lines of the house itself to flow uninterruptedly above. The "Mary" can also be constructed on level ground and the area where the garage shows on the picture would become part of the full basement.

The design inside shows a fine sense of balance also: the three sleeping rooms on the right offer privacy and quiet. Windows, two of them corner units, provide excellent ventilation and light to the whole area. Sliding door closets are especially roomy. And a linen closet in the hallway is handy to all three rooms.

No bedroom is more than a step away from the bathroom and its fine, modern appointments. A lavatory adjoins the bath, opening into an entryway at the right of the family room. This is a most economical and efficient arrangement.

Surprising note is the kitchen which appears somewhat smaller than usual. Actually, with its built-in ovens and modern cooking top excellent layout of appliances and with a dining area provided in the family room, this room proves itself to every woman's satisfaction. It saves many steps, actually makes her more efficient.

Not only is the living room large and cheerful with light pouring in its magnificent, six foot by nine bow window, its sense of spaciousness is increased by its opening into the family room.

As a center from which all social activity radiates, the generously-sized family room lives up to its name. Traffic is channeled here from the rear entrance and by a foyer at the front door which smartly bypasses the living room.

On the outside, the roof design should be noted for two reasons: (1) its gentle pitch makes the house look longer and more trim, and (2) a 24 inch overhang all around not only adds attractiveness but helps keep rooms cool by shading them from the high midsummer sun.

Total cubage is 25,878 cubic feet. The living area occupies 1362 square feet, the garage 325 square feet. Overall dimensions are 48 feet by 27 feet. Plans show details and section views for building with full basement or with no basement.

Old Furniture Can Now Take On Bright Life

By VIVIAN BROWN

Bulky pieces of old furniture the lady of the house has been hoarding may see new light and become useful, if present trends are an indication.

That old oak round dining room table, fashionable during World War I, may see service again, and set the pace for an entire room. Everywhere one sees these sturdy wood tables revived handsomely for modern use. Some spotted at antiques shows were rejuvenated to look better than just about anything that could take their place. The tops of these tables are stained and rubbed to a full sheen, a paradoxial effect to achieve, but easily done with proper sanding, staining and rubbing with wax. It is a wonderful finish for oak in particular, although the bases of the tables that gave them their air of distinction are either of wrought iron or painted.

One oak table had a handsome x-shaped wrought iron base that fanned out below in spiral designs. Another table was finished in a dark oak with a pedestal painted in two shades of Italian blue greens — a green that is intensely blue and a blue that is very green.

Eighteenth century reproduction high-back chairs were painted the same color as the blue-green base. The effect was handsome. These are the type chairs that are sturdy, and so well built that they are seldom discarded, yet they do not look chic with contemporary furnishings. The new look of these chairs is good enough for any room of the house. An odd chair could serve as a desk chair. A pair of them could be used in a foyer or entrance hall.

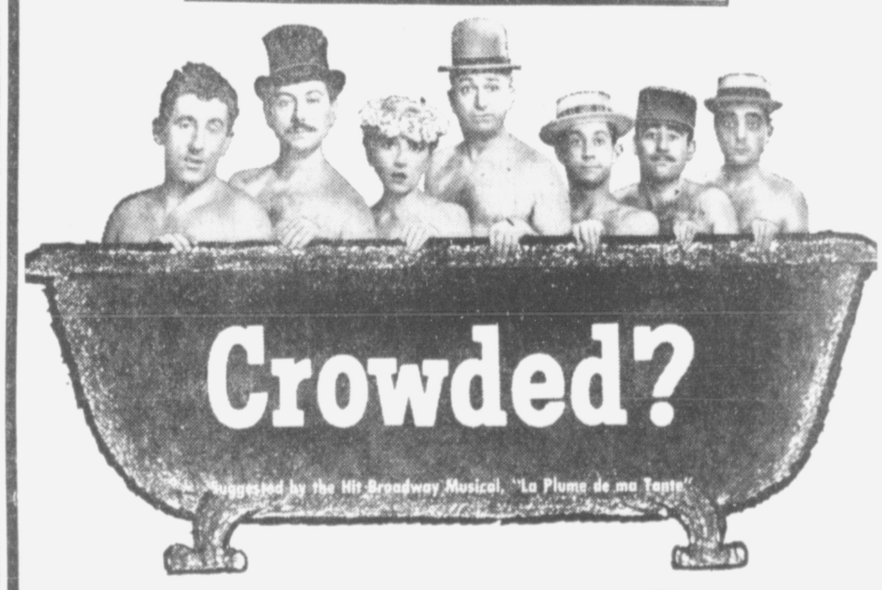

Secretaries and breakfronts often are the biggest eyesores in a house, unless built of special wood effects. These, too, may be painted in the new paint-and-polish look. One breakfront seen at a recent homefurnishings show was refinished in a mustard hue. Wrought iron pulls replaced the original hardware. The piece could see service in a dining room or living room.

A dry sink in a handsome deep orange color could perk up a solarium, dining room, den, living room. These are improved also by the addition of the black hardware. Wall brackets painted in deep hues — green, red, blue or other color look important against white or light-colored walls. Ditto book shelves.

There is a new vogue, too, for putting vibrant deep colors on old-fashioned candlesticks.

Home Extension Service News

Phyllis W. Barlow, county home demonstration agent of the Ulster County Service Association, submits the following article:

Americans are said to have one of the richest and most nutritious diets of any nation and the lowest in real food costs—that is, in terms of hours of work required.

Too, Americans are eating better than they did 20 some years ago, yet they spend just about the same share of their income for food. This is so even though food costs today include a great deal more for packaging and processing than formerly.

Food shoppers are also expecting more in terms of quality. As marketing analysts note there is a greater sophistication and an increased expectation on the part of the consumer.

When the consumer shops for quality as well as price, however, she must know something about the items she buys. A recent survey in one urban area in Illinois disclosed that many homemakers would have preferred eggs of higher quality than they are actually using. Many of them did not understand what U. S. egg grades meant.

Two pages of colored pictures illustrating egg quality standards are included in Cornell bulletin 915, "Eggs: Selection, Care, and Preparation." You may receive this bulletin by writing to Home Demonstration Department, 220 Wall St., UPO Box 545, Kingston, N. Y. or calling FE 8-3494.

Egg Quality and Use

High quality eggs rate high in flavor and thus are a good selection for table use—for cooking in the shell, frying, and poaching. But lower quality eggs (grades B and C) have many uses in cooking and baking where appearance and delicate flavor are not as important.

All eggs need to be stored, covered, in the refrigerator—for short term storage, the carton in which they are sold is good. At room temperature, eggs can lose as much quality in 3 days as those kept for 2 weeks under proper conditions. Cracked eggs deteriorate rapidly and need to be used as soon as possible.

Did You Know

Four tablespoons of peanut butter supply the same amount of body-building protein as two ounces of lean-cooked meat.

If all the dairy products we consume yearly were in the form of fluid milk, the amount would be 302 quarts per person.

Nylon tends to pick up small quantities of dyes from other clothing and from the wash water when laundered with colored garments.

Outdoor cooking enthusiasts can use less charcoal if they first line the barbecue grill with heavy duty aluminum foil. The foil reflects more heat to the cooking area.

Farmers received 39 cents of each dollar consumers spent for domestically-produced food in 1960. This was one cent more than in 1959 and marked the first increase since 1951.

South was an expert. He won the opening club lead; drew trumps; and studied the hand carefully.

There was a simple way to play the hand. He could lead a spade toward dummy's king. Put the ace of spades in the West hand and he would have a parking place for his third diamond.

There also was a complicated way to play the hand and South decided to try it. He played one high diamond to see if the queen would drop. Then he carefully discarded dummy's deuce of spades on his long club and played a spade.

Give East the ace of spades and this would have worked perfectly. Unfortunately for South, the ace was with West. West led his last diamond and expert South went down.

Strangely enough, South had given the hand the best percentage play, because if West had started with a singleton diamond South would still have made the hand, so we can say that he played brilliantly, but without success.

PRESIDENT 11½?

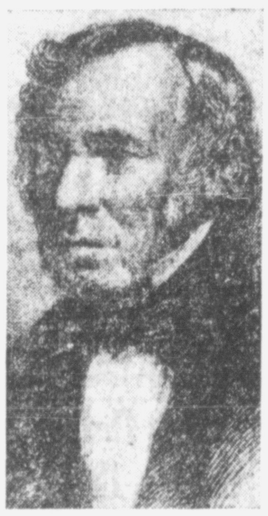

America's Forgotten President Held Office for Just One Day

James Polk: 11th President of the United States.

David R. Atchison; could he be called 11½?

Zachary Taylor; America's 12th President. He waited a day to take office.

For a single day he was President of the United States and he didn't know it!

The day was Sunday, March 4, 1849 and the man was David Rice Atchison. For the brief space of 24 hours he held the nation's highest executive office.

The presidential election of 1848 had seen Gen. Zachary Taylor defeat James K. Polk, who was running for re-election. Taylor's inauguration was scheduled, by law, to be held March 4, 1849.

But for the first and only time in our country's history, Inauguration Day fell upon a Sunday.

Federal laws prohibited holding these ceremonies on the Sabbath. Taylor was inaugurated on Monday, the 5th.

A law covered this happening. It stated that the President of the Senate would hold the office during such time.

Mr. Atchison, a Senator from Missouri, was the President of the Senate. And so, for a day, he was President, but was not informed of the fact until months later by a friend.

When his home state of Missouri was torn by the Civil War, he joined the Confederate Army. Returning from the war to his home town of Gower, he remained in retirement until his death in 1886.

The Missouri General Assembly erected a statue in Plattsburg, Missouri to this man who held the unique honor of being his country's only president for a day.

Where Did the Indian Maze Stone Come From?

The Maze Stone.

If a fortune were offered to the person who could decode the mysterious rock writing on the Maze Stone in Rinehart Canyon near Hemet, Calif., no one would claim it.

The huge gray boulder, with its weird symbols chipped into it with what is known as volcanic glass, was discovered 46 years ago by engineers searching for water. At first it was thought that the carving was the work of the nearby Cahuilla Indians.

"Our people did not do it," the Indians said, when shown the rock. Then one of the old men recalled a tribal tradition which declared the "people who came from the sea" did it.

Who these "people from the sea" were is another unsolved mystery. Twelve more rocks with a similar pattern painted in red have been discovered between Escondido, Calif., and the Mexican border. Also identical symbols are said to have been located in both the eastern and western hemispheres.

This leads to the belief that a single language may have been common throughout the world at one time. The double swastika symbol is the same as is seen over temple doorways in Tibet.

Scientists are still puzzling over the mystery. The Chinese Imperial Encyclopedia in the British Museum records an account of a voyage made by Buddhist missionaries to a land they called Fusang. It is likely they could have drifted along the Japanese current, which touches and follows the west coast of North America.

There is also the story of the Buddhist nuns who sailed in a junk from Japan in 458 A.D., met a storm, and landed on the shores of a vast country which they explored.

From its trees they made clothing, and ate the berries for food. Could this tree have been the Century Plant which has many uses and which thrives in Mexico?

If this account of the travelers is true, then the Maze Stone carving is about 1,500 years old.

The five acres of land on which it stands has been made into a public park. Visitors and scientists alike would like to know what message the mysterious writing bears. But to date, no one has found the key.

Modern Cowboys Sprout Wings During Antelope Roundup Time

Shadow of airplane is cast on running herd of antelope during roundup from the air.

The plane swoops low over the sagebrush flats and grassy plateaus. In the plane the pilot and a man called a "spotter" carefully scan the land below. They are searching for antelope herds.

Perhaps the men want only to count the animals—or they may want to round up the brown, tan, cream and white creatures and herd them into a corral.

Rounding up antelope and other big game animals in the West is fairly common. Only now and then do men on horseback in big hats make roundups. Most of the work is done by men in planes and helicopters. These air vehicles are equipped with radios.

Little guys have to be cared for, too.

The antelope, or pronghorn, have proved to be the easiest and most popular big game animal for these modern roundups in the West. But there is risk for both air and ground crews.

Antelope can run up to 60 m.p.h. for short distances—and they can sail over rough ground.

To keep the antelope bunched, and headed for the traps on the ground, the pilot of the plane must fly very low. He may have to circle or bank quickly—so there is always the danger of a crack-up.

Ground crews—sometimes on horseback, but usually in jeeps—are stationed out of sight near traps. Most of the traps, or corrals, are made of fine-mesh netting or wire and anchored with steel posts.

Circular in shape, the traps have widely spaced wings, or deflectors, which lead to a narrow passageway that opens into the corral.

As the herd leaders are forced into the wing area, ground crews rush in from all sides to keep the pronghorns from escaping.

Once inside, escape is almost impossible when the gate to the corral is fastened.

Leaping frantically, the pronghorns fling themselves against the enclosure. But usually the netting gives enough to keep the animals from harming themselves. After a day or two of being corralled, the antelope usually quit down. They also get used to men.

Later the animals are ear-tagged and loaded into darkened trucks. Such loading isn't without danger. The pronghorns' hooves and antlers are sharp! Once loaded, the antelopes may be hauled from 100 to 200 or more miles—and released in a new area.

Several western states, including Idaho, Wyoming, Montana, New Mexico, Utah, Nevada, Texas and California have antelope roundups. They try to set up new antelope herds in less crowded ranges.

As a result, several states now have excellent and large antelope herds.

Great cattle roundups may be only a colorful memory in the West, but big game roundups are on the increase. They are a part of scientific game management.

Help Yourself!

By Frances Gorman Risser

If I owned a big grocery store,
I know I'd give away
A lot of yummy things to eat
To people, every day.

If I saw someone looking hard
At goodies on a shelf,
And knew he didn't have two cents,
I'd say, "Just help yourself!"

I'd have a cafeteria
For homeless dogs and cats,
With tasty bits of meat and fish
Spread out on plastic mats.

I guess I wouldn't get rich quick
With my free grocery mart,
But I know I'd feel awfully good
Way down in my heart!

Corwin and Acker Rival Pitchers Tonight at Stadium

Three Kingston High Players on All-DUSO Baseball Team

Braves to Play Poughkeepsie 9; Chick Boice In

Parade and Ceremonies Planned With Opener

Two former major league pitchers will be on the firing line when the Kingston Braves launch the NY-NJ League home season against the Poughkeepsie Hoe Bowls tonight at Dietz Stadium. Game time is 8:30 p. m.

Al Corwin, former New York Giant flinger, will be on the mound for Kingston opposed by Tom Acker, former Cincinnati Red southpaw relief specialist.

Corwin and Acker have both shown phenomenal form in early season games. Corwin has pitched in two games permitting only 2 hits in 11 innings while fanning 19. Acker was equally impressive against Kinderhook, giving up 5 hits and striking out 17.

General Manager Fred Davi has also summoned the acquisition of Chick Boice, who was recently released by Auburn of the New York-Penn League. Boice, a hard hitting first baseman, was dropped when the Yankees signed two high priced bonus rookies and placed them at Auburn.

Pre-game ceremonies include a parade of city officials, players, Miss Baseball of 1961 and other dignitaries up Broadway from Delaware Avenue starting at 6:30 p. m. Alderman Sam Perry and William (Pucker) Davis were a committee handling the transportation arrangements.

A brief ceremony will be held at Dietz Stadium prior to the baseball game. Mayor Radel will toss out the first ball.

John (Honey) Russell, former professional basketball star and Seton Hall coach, will be among the spectators. He is now a member of the Milwaukee Braves scouting staff.

Rival managers John Pullie of Kingston and Billy Ostrom of Poughkeepsie will go into the contest with loaded lineups.

The Hoe-Bowls are bringing in two veteran New Jersey semi-pro players for outfield duty—Bob Fisher and Eddie Bauer, who played with the Paterson, N. J., entry in the early days of the NY-NJ.

Ostrom, of course, is the hardy perennial of Mid-Hudson area semi-pro baseball and will be at first base for the visitors. He is a renowned slugger who has yet to lose his touch after more than 20 years of campaigning.

With Chick Boice available for first base duty, Manager Pullie will shift hard hitting Wally Widholm to his normal catching post.

Kingston fans have a new favorite in the hard slugging Irishman Dennis Casey, who has two home runs in three games and a .500 average. The Braves are undefeated with a 3-0 record.

The probable lineups:

Jamestown Wins, 9-2, in NYP Loop

Life is full of surprises, the saying goes, and the Jamestown Tigers had one up their sleeves.

The last-place Tigers clawed the league - leading Geneva Rediegs, 9-2 Friday night in a Class D New York-Penn Baseball League game at Geneva.

In the only other league game played the Elmira Pioneers blanked the Wellsville Braves, 7-0, at Elmira. The Auburn at Olean and Erie at Batavia contests were rained out.

A three-run homer by Jamestown's Jim Booker in the eighth inning was the blow that broke the Redlegs' back. Art Jasinski, the Tigers' left fielder, poked a two-run round-tripper in the second and Elmira's Art Franz rapped a solo homer in the ninth.

Fred Mason's three-run triple for Elmira in the seventh was the big blow for the Pioneers. John Morris notched the win, his first in three starts, and fanned seven.

Indians Widen Lead in AL Race; Drysdale Snaps Victory Famine

Phillips' Homer Tops Tigers, 5-4: Yankees Top A's

The Cleveland Indians defeated second place Detroit 5-4 on Bubba Phillips' ninth-inning home run and 4 2-3 innings of one-hit relief by Barry Latman Friday night for a 1½-game lead in the American League race.

Third place New York stayed within three games of Cleveland by beating the Kansas City A's 8-6. Washington swept a twi-night doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox, winning 1-0, in 10 innings, and 10-9. Boston defeated Los Angeles 5-3 in the first game of a twi-night pair, but the Angels took the nightcap 5-1, with Ryne Duren striking out seven in a row for an AL record. The Minnesota-Baltimore game was rained out.

Phillips' winning shot came on a 3-2 pitch by Paul Foytack (3-4), the loser in relief. Willie Kirkland delivered a three-run homer as Cleveland scored four in the third inning off starter Phil Regan. Latman had just one lapse, giving up a tying double by Rocky Colavito after relieving Bobby Locke in a two-run fifth inning.

The Indians won with the help of a rookie's running error. The game ended with an odd double-play when catcher Johnny Romano grabbed a foul pop by Steve Boros, then nailed pinch-runner George Thomas as he attempted to go from first to second after the catch.

Maris, Mantle Slam

Roger Maris and Mickey Mantle, each crashing home runs, batted in six runs between them for the Yankees. Maris' 18th homer, tops in the majors, came with a man on base and broke a 5-5 tie in the seventh against Ray Herbert (3-6). Luis Arroyo (2-2) won it in relief.

The Senators beat the White Sox on a pinch-single by Harry Bright in the opener as Dick Donovan, a Sox castoff, blanked his ex-mates on six hits for his second victory. Reliever Warren Hacker (1-1) was the loser. In the nightcap, Washington came up with four runs in the ninth, beating Frank Baumann (4-5) in relief with an unearned run on Danny O'Connell's pinch single. Dale Long and Willie Tasby hit consecutive home runs in the rally, which gave reliever Johnny Klippstein his first victory.

Falls One Short

Duren (2-6), making his first start, began his record string by fanning Frank Malzone for the final out in the first inning of the second game at Boston. He then added Pete Runnels, Jim Pagliaroni, Don Buddin, loser Mike Fornieles, Chuck Schilling and Gary Geiger, falling one short of the major league record set by Milwaukee's Max Surkont in 1953.

Hurls Dodgers Into 1st Place With 3-1 Victory

Don Drysdale pitched a four-hitter for his first victory in a month Friday night as the Los Angeles Dodgers defeated Philadelphia 3-1 and regained a half-game lead over Cincinnati in the National League race. St. Louis beat the Reds 8-4.

San Francisco twice came from behind for a 9-6 victory over Pittsburgh, and the Chicago Cubs defeated Milwaukee 11-10.

Wally Moon's 11th home run, his first since May 12, broke a 1-1 tie for the Dodgers in the fourth inning against right-hander Frank Sullivan (2-7). Don Demeter, an ex-Dodger, had two of the Phils' hits, driving in their run with a fourth inning double. Drysdale (4-3) walked three and struck out seven for his first complete game since beating the Phils 5-2 in a five-inning game May 9.

Cards On a Streak

The Cards, winning four in a row for the first time and climbing back to .500 with 13 victories in their last 20 games, built a decisive, 5-3 lead against the Reds with a three-run third inning. Ken Boyer's single drove in two, and Stan Musial brought in the winner against lefty Jim O'Toole (5-6). Bob Gibson (3-3) was the winner.

San Francisco overhauled the Pirates on a three-run homer by Ed Bailey that capped a six-run seventh inning. It came after Bobby Shantz had come in as Pittsburgh's third pitcher, but tagged the loss on ElRoy Face (2-3). Ed Stephan Smith won the $7,000 Bolin won his first in the majors, in relief. Bailey drove in four of the Giants' runs and Orlando Cepeda, the NL's home run leader, knocked in three, one with his 16th homer.

Spahn Is Loser

The Cubs, blew 6-0 and 9-6 leads as the Braves' unloaded four home runs, then came from behind with two runs in the ninth and beat Warren Spahn for the first time in nine decisions since June 10, 1958. A single by Moe Thacker brought in the clincher and handed Spahn (6-6) his second loss in two days, this one in relief. Joe Torre, Joe Adcock, Ed Mathews and Lee Maye homered for the Braves, with Maye's a grand slam in the ninth that gave Milwaukee a 10-9 lead. Bob Anderson (3-5) won it in relief.

Ochiwanak Tops Onteora in Golf

Ochiwanak Central of Columbia County defeated Onteora Central School, 10½ to 4½ in a duel golf match.

David Dean scored the lone OCS victory with a 2½-½ win in the No. 1 match.

The scoring follows:

Onteora (4½)—David Dean 2½, John Gordon 1, Tad Crawford 1; Ochiwanak (10½) Bob Link ½, D. Hamm 2, J. McClear 3, K. Northrup, D. Sherman 3.

Dunn, Ferraro, Natale Picked By Loop Scribes

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Pitcher Bob Dunn, shortstop Mike Ferraro and outfielder Paul Natale represent Kingston High School on the 1961 All-DUSO Baseball team, as selected yesterday by the circuit's writers at a meeting in Poughkeepsie. The trio, who sparked the locals to a second place finish in the circuit, were unanimous selections of the scribes.

Newburgh Free Academy, which won its third straight league title and finished with an 8-0 mark in loop play, gained most of the laurels. The Hilly City nine placed pitchers Jim MacMillan and Jack Wolpe, catcher Jack Glassy, second baseman Pat Myers and outfielder Gerald Williams on the team.

Player of the Year

Wolpe, who pitched and played the outfield, nipped Natale, the sophomore slugger for Player of the Year honors and George J. Balcanoff beat Al Gruner of Kingston as Coach of the Year.

The rest of the squad features Brian Schmalz of Poughkeepsie at first, Don Backus of Port Jervis at third and Steve White of Middletown in the outfield.

The pitching staff had a combined record of 12-1 during the year. MacMillan and Wolpe were both unbeaten and Dunn won four of five decisions, losing only to Newburgh. MacMillan will be back again next year. He's a junior.

Glassey was the boy who handled the NFA hurlers. He's a solid defensive catcher and a good hitter. He succeeds Ken Bento, a former teammate, as the top catcher in the circuit.

Schmalz hit .444 for Poughkeepsie and also slugged three home runs. He was the cleanup hitter for Sam J. Kalloch and did a bangup job all season long.

Second Selection

Myers batted over .300 for the Goldbacks and did a good job at second. Ferraro stroked .360 for Kingston and struck out only twice in eight games. Among his nine hits, two were triples and one a double. He's a junior and this makes his second All-DUSO selection, having been previously picked on the basketball squad.

Backus was a bright light in an otherwise drab season for Port Jervis. He was a good line drive hitter and a steady fielder.

Natale was the slugging sensation of the league. The sophomore star, who is built like Ted Kluszewski, had 13 hits in 25 trips for a sensational .520 average. He scored six runs and hit three doubles and a homer. Since he only struck out once, it shows that he hit the ball almost all the time.

Williams was a ballhawk in the outfield and another steady hitter in the powerful NFA lineup.

Mickey Wright Has Tournament Lead

By WHITNEY MARTIN
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW ROCHELLE, N. Y. (AP) — The lead has switched from Marlene Hagge to Kathy Cornelius to Mickey Wright in the first three rounds of the mathematical nightmare called the Women's Round Robin Golf Tournament.

As the 16 contestants in the five-round event started their fourth round today, Miss Wright had a slim 6-point lead over Patty Berg, with Louise Suggs, Kathy Whitworth and Mrs. Cornelius tied for third, four points farther back.

The long-driving Miss Wright had accumulated plus 22 points in the three rounds, with Miss Berg at 16 and the other three at 12.

The title is won not on the medal score, but on the points won. Each player meets each other player in medal play once during the five rounds, so if one player in a foursome has a 70 and the other three have 72s, the 70 player picks up plus six points and the other three each registers minus two.

Six players scored one-under-par 71s for the third round Friday afternoon, and only three were able to equal par figures for the morning round of the hazy, damp day.

The 71 shooters were Miss Suggs, Miss Whitworth, Miss Berg, Betty Jameson, Marilynn Smith and Betsy Rawls.

Negroes Boycott Texas Track Meet

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The sixth annual track Meet of Champions produced a lot of news but few records.

The big meet Friday night was supposed to have most of the top track stars in the country competing. But all 20 of the Negro entries, including two world record breakers, withdrew at the last minute in protest of what they called segregated seating in the stands.

The missing entries cut so deeply into the field that meet officials offered money back to any of the 5,200 customers who attended just to see the Negroes compete.

Bob Goehrs, chairman of the Gulf Coast Division of the AAU, said AAU rules specify any contestant who withdraws from a meet without good reason is subject to suspension or fine.

Goehrs said the Gulf AAU has no jurisdiction over any of the Negroes except those on the Texas Southern University team, which withdrew Thursday night.

John Thomas and Ralph Boston, both world record breakers were among those who refused to compete. Others included Hayes Jones, Anthony Watson, George Keer, a star in the 880, and Stone Johnson, an outstanding sprinter. All were members of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team.

Before the drop-outs, entres in 13 of the 18 events had bettered meet records. But the remaining contestants could break only five records.

Don Bragg, holder of the current world record listing in the pole vault, set a meet record when he jumped 15 feet 3¾ inches.

Earl Young of Abilene Christian set a meet record in the 440 with a time of 46.7, breaking the record of 46.8.

Cliff Cushman broke the record in the 440-yard hurdles with 51.3.

Dave Styron of Southern Illinois was a double winner, setting a meet record in the 220-yard dash of 21.1. This performance was singled out as the best of the night. He also won the 100-yard dash on the soggy track in 9.5.

Dick Crane, who hasn't lost a meet, broke the discus record he set last year with a toss of 178 feet 2 inches. He also won the shot put with 56 feet 8½ inches.

Jerry Dyes of Abilene, who won the javelin and the hop-step and jump, was the meet's other double winner.

France Auto Race Ready to Start

LE MANS, France (AP) — Mechanics tinkered with the world's sleekest racers into the early hours today for the start of the 24-hour Le Mans auto race, Europe's toughest test for cars and drivers.

This city of northern France had a carnival air on the eve of the 29th running of the day and night car race. The crowd of 200,000 was expected to line the 8.36-mile asphalt track when the drivers run to their racers for the famous Le Mans standing start at 10 a.m., EST, today.

On hand for the race were the greatest names in international racing. Among them: Great Britain's Stirling Moss, Maurice Trintignant of France, United States stars Phil Hill of Santa Monica, Calif., Ritchie Ginther of Granada Hills, Calif., and Briggs Cunningham of Green Farms, Conn.; Sweden's Joaquim Bonnier, Mexico's team of Ricardo and Pedro Rodriguez and last year's winner, Oliver Gendebien of Belgium.

The race has a reputation for danger and often death.

Reading Slugger Gets Six Singles

Reading's Tony Martinez stepped up to the plate seven times Friday night and smacked six singles. The last of them drove in the winning run against Binghamton, which lost a 12-inning battle 6-5.

Martinez, the Indian's shortstop, also drove in two runs and scored twice himself in the only Eastern League game of the night.

The last half of the ninth began as Len Ferguson, the third Binghamton pitcher, walked Johnny Parker. Parker then made second on a grounder by Bobby Ledford. Martinez' long hit to center followed. The ball bounced off Fred Carpenter's glove, and Parker scored.

Johnstown at Springfield and Lancaster at Williamsport were postponed because of rain.

Against Rinaldi

Moore's Age Is Only Question In His Title Defense Tonight

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—A sleek if aging Archie Moore gets down to business tonight in defense of his piece of the light heavyweight title against young, husky Giulio Rinaldi of Italy.

If the graying, 44½-year-old marvel hasn't lost too much in the battle of the scales and with father time, he figures to knock out the Italian from Anzio within five rounds of their scheduled 15-rounder at Madison Square Garden. Rinaldi is 26.

Archie's vitality is the only question mark in this television scrap. If he's got enough left it will be arriverderci Giulio—and early. Moore is favored at odds ranging from 8-5 to 2-1.

Ninth Defense

This will be Moore's ninth defense of the title he won 8½ years ago and his first since he flattened crude but powerful Yvon Durelle of Canada at Montreal 22 months ago. He weighed 174½ pounds for that return fight. Since then the National Boxing Association has stripped him of his title. He is recognized by New York, Massachusetts and Europe.

Moore, holder of the world record of 130 knockouts, has flattened his last six challengers in title fights. Only Joey Maxim has gone the distance with him at the 175-pound division limit.

The strong-armed, master boxer and puncher wrested the crown from Maxim at St. Louis Dec. 17, 1952 on a lop-sided decision.

Rinaldi, solidly built and deep-chested, earned his big chance by outpointing Moore in a 10-rounder in the Olympic Sports Palace in Rome, last Oct. 29. Moore was a plump 190¾ to Rinaldi's 181.

Although Moore was given a mandatory eight-count while leaning back against the ropes in the last round, Rinaldi was awarded the verdict by only a slim margin.

The black-haired Italian, who was only one-year-old when Archie started boxing pro a quarter-century ago, has a 25-5 record with eight knockouts. He is the Italian light heavyweight champion.

Poor Workouts

After his victory—even if disputed and close—he has to be conceded a chance to beat the old man. But Giulio has not shown to advantage in his workouts here.

He has displayed little power and appears wide-open. If he presses Archie—as he must to win—and leaves an opening, it could be disastrous.

"He can't punch hard when he's going back," said Giulio. "I noticed that in my fight with him and I saw what Rocky Marciano and Floyd Patterson did to him when I watched the films. They pressed him and they knocked him out. I think I can too."

"All I hope is that he comes after me like he says he will," said Moore.

Scoring will be by the rounds system. A supplementary point system also will be used to help break draws.

Although the fight will be shown on television in the city as well as coast-to-coast, garden officials expect to attract a crowd of 10,000 as a gross gate of $50,000 at prices ranging from $3 to $15. The big money comes from TV, which is paying $150,000.

Moore has been guaranteed $100,000 plus $12,500 expenses. Rinaldi will collect $25,000 plus expenses.

Connie Mack League Starts in Saugerties

Connie Mack League baseball, for boys 16 to 18 years of age, has been started in Saugerties under the direction of Bill Straub, Saugerties High school athletic director.

The league, an outgrowth of Babe Ruth League, is under the direction of the American Amateur Baseball Congress. Players who have not reached their 19th birthday by Sept. 1, of this year, are eligible to participate.

Several high school stars from the Kingston-Saugerties-Onteora area will play in the circuit with the opening game scheduled for tonight, weather permitting.

There are no sponsors, uniforms or adult leaders as yet and those interested in doing any of the above are asked to contact Straub, the head of the circuit.

"These boys have a great desire to play baseball and this league will help them a great deal," Straub declared.

Games will be played at Cantine field on Saturday evenings and Wednesday evenings.

Bowl of Flowers Is Belmont Choice

NEW YORK (AP) — Brookmeade Stable's Bowl of Flowers goes after the second leg of the Filies' Triple today — seeking to run her winning streak to seven in the $75,000-added Mother Goose Stakes at Belmont Park.

Mrs. Dodge Sloane's Ace, champion juvenile filly last year, won the first leg — the $57,750 Acorn Stakes May 20 at Aqueduct. If she makes it today, she'll go for a sweep in the $100,000 Coaching Club American Oaks at a mile and quarter on June 21.

The winner of the Black-Eyed Susan Stakes at Pimlico, Ogden Phipps' Funloving, is the probable second choice with C.V. Whitney's Counter Call rated third.

Stevenson Faces Woes in Brazil

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (AP) — Adlai Stevenson faced the threat of more demonstrations today in Brazil, major trouble spot in his Latin American tour, after catching a blast here from supporters of Fidel Castro.

The chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations came under the first attack of his tour Friday night when speakers at a university rally denounced him as an "envoy of Wall Street" and demanded that he leave Uruguay.

The Uruguayan government also made clear to Stevenson—on a special mission for President Kennedy—that it opposed any action against the Castro regime in Cuba. It was especially firm against armed intervention.

Stevenson was due in Rio de Janeiro in midafternoon to seek understanding with Brazil's new president, Janio Quadros, on Cuba and other issues.

U.S. officials, who have been worried by some policies of the Quadros government, are anxious to line up his support for a program to improve working conditions in Latin America.

Stevenson planned to see the Brazilian foreign minister and other officials, then fly to Sao Paulo Sunday for private discussions with Quadros.

Stevenson's associates played down the importance of Friday night's demonstrations, but it was further proof that South American sentiment, both official and private, is pretty solid against anti-Castro action.

Stevenson found this feeling both in the Venezuelan and Argentine governments and again in Uruguay.

Dorothy M. Broderick, whose "On Quality Books for Children" is the lead article in the current edition of "Bookmark," will be guest speaker June 21 at the 10 a. m. meeting of Rockland County librarians and library trustees at the Nanuet Public Library, host of a book selection session sponsored by the Ramapo Catskill Library System.

At this book selection meeting, open to all librarians and library trustees in the 35 member libraries of the Ramapo Catskill Library System in Orange, Ulster and Sullivan Counties as well as Rockland, new books will be exhibited and discussed for possible selection by public libraries throughout the area. The capsule review and recommendations will be presented by librarians, staff members and trustees who have volunteered to report on new books.

NCAA World Series Continued Today

OMAHA (AP) — The NCAA Baseball World Series, off to a thrilling start when Oklahoma State beat Duke on a ninth-inning home run Friday night, had a three-game slate scheduled today.

The three games that will complete the first round sent Colorado State College against Syracuse, Western Michigan against Boston College and Southern California against Texas.

In Friday night's opener, Duke rode a 2-1 lead into the last of the ninth gained on the two-run homer of Lynn Feder in the third inning.

Then State, the pre-tourney favorite, mounted its winning rally as Gentry Pollitte singled and was sacrificed to second. That brought up Bill Ketchum to hit for pitcher Jim Wixson. Ketchum homered for a 3-2 win that gave Wixson his 11th victory this season without defeat.

New Paltz Net Team To Meet West Point

The New Paltz tennis team is scheduled to meet the West Point officers' club on the State University College of Education tennis courts at New Paltz on Sunday, June 11. Local devotees of tennis and those who have followed the team and the Hudson Valley Tournament, held here annually in early August, will welcome the opportunity to see Steve Bank in action against West Point. Supporting Bank will be Roger Ambrose, Gordon Krajna, and Ron Mutchnik, New Paltz varsitymen, George Baron of Kingston and Dick Smith and Dick Little also of Kingson.

Leading the team from West Point is Master Sergeant W. B. Millikan. Millikan won both singles and doubles in 1959 and 1960 in the senior men's inter-service competition between the top players from the Army, Air Force, Marines and Navy, making him the current champion in both divisions. The West Point team will also include Major R. W. Weeks who has distinguished himself in First Army championships in both tennis and badminton.

Duren Strikes Out 7 Straight Hitters

BOSTON (AP) — Ryne Duren made one of his rare starts Friday night and struck out seven Red Sox batters in a row for an American League record, but he isn't too impressed over the feat.

The Los Angeles hurler, winner in the second game of a double-header, added:

"I like to win, rather win than set records, even though all of us like 'em (records). I've had lots of strikeouts and I've pitched in World Series."

His SO total was 11 and he received credit for a 5-1 victory.

Duren's record is one under the modern National League record accomplished in 1953 by the Milwaukee Braves' Max Surkont.

Dallas Long Sets Shotput Record

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Dallas Long, University of Southern California shot put specialist, bettered his own national collegiate record with a performance of 64 feet 7¾ inches Friday night.

Long, competing in the Southern College, got off this series of puts: 63-8¾, 62-0, 64-7¾, 61-6¾, 64-1 and 64-4½.

On hand to watch was Bill Nieder, now retired, the only man in track and field history who has tossed the shot further than Long's latest mark. Nieder's world record is 65-10 and he has three other performances topping Long's.

Long's previous national collegiate standard was 64-6½, set in 1960.

Stephan Smith Wins Feature Pace at Roosevelt Raceway

Stephan Smith won the $7,000 Old Country junior free-for-all pace at Roosevelt Raceway with a 2:00 1-5 mile.

The five-year-old bay holds the season's fastest time for a half-mile track, 1:59, scored last week at Westbury. Friday night he paid $4.60 and was driven by Gene Sears.

Caduceus and Arania, an entry, finished second and third.

The win enables Stephan Smith to compete against world-champion pacer Adios Butler in a $25,000 free-for-all next Friday at Westbury.

Tansey was driven by Jack Sheldon and paid $24. The winner's rivals, right from the start, were Plymouth Rock, Connewago and Shozo, which finished in that order. Shady Dale Monitor won the first division and paid $3.40. Tansey's time was 2:10 and Shady Dale Monitor's 2:07, on a slow track.

Guy Oakie won the first division of the Ghent $1,500 trot in 2:08 2-5 and returned $61.50. Mandy's Girl won the second division in 2:09 and paid $6.50.

At Vernon Downs, Family Man won the $3,000 invitational trot by five lengths in 2:01. Driven by Harold Miller, Family Man paid $27.60. Hoot Frost, the favorite was second and Wendy Kay third won by Joel, with Dick Thomas driving. Joel was set back to sixth for interference and second-place Ten Hanover was declared winner.

At Buffalo Raceway, Gene Putney posted the fastest mile of the track's season to win the $4,000 Monroe Pace. The winner, whose time was 2:04, was driven by Francois LeBoeuf. Gene Putney paid $8.30.

Finishing second and third in the photo-finish were Avalon Junior and Mil Hanover.

More a Jackal

Despite its description as a "prairie wolf," the coyote is much smaller than the true wolf and more closely resembles the jackal.

township. It was just 100 years ago, in 1861, that two lots were bought above the river bank with a view to establishing a parish in Port Ewen. Thirteen years later the bright new church was ready for dedication, taking place 87 years ago this month in June of 1874.

The "church below the hill" has sheltered its flock in good times and bad. In the beginning, the Delaware and Hudson and the Pennsylvania Coal Companies brought good times to the village and to the parish. The closing of the coal depot at Port Ewen brought a period of local depression. However, almost as a symbol of certainity of faith in the future the parish built a rectory. Later, at the end of the last century the closing of the Delaware and Hudson Canal and industrial changes in the area again brought bleak times to the parish. Again, the parishioners demonstrated their faith in the future by building St. Leo's parish hall.

In 1913 the Redemptorist Fathers from Mt. St. Alphonsus Seminary in Esopus took charge of the Port Ewen parish. From the start, they too were affected by the contagious hope for the future of the parish. Through two World Wars they waited with their faithful parishioners for the future expansion that seemed so slow in coming. But though the bricks in the old church were now worn by many winters, its aura of hope was still bright. By 1947 land was purchased for the parish school of the future yet to arrive.

Established in '52

In 1952 on the parish grounds, the Shrine of Our Lady of the Hudson was established. The Hudson River had first brought Port Ewen and the parish to life a century before. Past and future then met the present in the person of the statue looking out over the river, looking along below the hill, looking up over the hill to an ever-growing Port Ewen and Town of Esopus. Our Lady of the Hudson stands there as a tribute to the faith, hope and love of the people of the past and as a symbol of the bright future the Presentation parish is always ready to welcome.

During these days of concentration on the town's historic past, visitors may take a little trip below the hill in Port Ewen and see that past mirrored in stone, steeple and statue, where hope built for the future — at Presentation parish.

Trujillo Aide Is

berto Reid Cabral, who police said committed suicide after four accused plotters seized his home as a hideout.

One of the captured assassination band had told reporters at his prison that the plan was to kidnap Trujillo and force the 69-year-old dictator to abdicate.

Rumors circulated in Ciudad Trujillo that on the night Trujillo was slain, Gen. Roman was visiting a Dominican official's home near the scene of the ambush.

Roman and his host went to see what the shooting was about.

Roman Replaced

Leland Rosemberg, civilian aide to Gen. Rafael Trujillo Jr., new armed forces chief and son of the late dictator, said Roman has been replaced as defense chief by Maj. Gen. Santos Melido Marte Picchardo.

Rosemberg also has been serving as the new regime's liaison man with the special team sent here by the Organization of American States to investigate the status of civil liberties in the Dominican Republic, which Trujillo ruled with an iron hand for 31 years.

The OAS committee will report on whether the past nine months' trade boycott and broken diplomatic relations with the republic should be continued or mended by other hemisphere nations.

Augusto Arango of Panama, head of the OAS fact-finding committee, said Trujillo Jr. offered him planes and any other facilities needed in the job of probing conditions here.

Two Plead Innocent

Charged with disorderly conduct as the result of a fight on Canal Street near Ferry Street early today, Theron J. Van Dyke Jr., of 18 Mill Street and David S. Bjaelker, 21, Route 2, Box 61 Kingston, pleaded innocent in City Court. Judge Aaron E. Klein adjourned the case until Monday, June 26. The defendants were arrested by Patrolmen Frank Stip and Garvin Fisher.

Business Week in Review

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)— The economic recovery rolled on during the week and expectations of more rapid improvement later in the year mounted.

May Set Record

The gross national product (GNP) — total of all goods and services—may be setting a record in the current quarter ending June 30.

Walter W. Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, said the GNP for the quarter might reach an annual rate of nearly $510 billion. It was a little under $500 billion in the previous quarter.

Heller said that by the final quarter the rate may be $530 billion.

The National Association of Purchasing Agents reported that new orders production and employment kept on increasing in May.

Producers of machine tools, construction equipment and other manufacturing machinery equipment predicted a good gain in sales by the fourth quarter. This was despite indications that investment for new plants and equipment is not speeding up.

Merchants Optimistic

The National Retail Merchants Association surveyed its membership of 11,500 department, specialty and variety stores and found high optimism about prospects for the second half of the year. The majority of merchants look for a four per cent gai nin sales and a five per cent increase in profits.

The First National City Bank of New York commented that the industrial performance in the last two months has "erased any lingering doubts that the economy is in a very encouraging rebound from recession lows." Dr. Marcus Nadler, economic consultant to the Hanover Bank of New York, said he expects a "moderate recovery" but that "no major boom is in the making."

The momentum of recovery has aroused anxiety in the Kennedy administration that it will bring a revival of inflation.

Heller said direct price or wage control is not under consideration, barring a wartime situation.

Chrysler Omits Raises

Presidential assistant Walt Whitman Rostow asserted: "As we go into the new wage negotiations, the question is whether we will negotiate our way into inflation or whether we can exercise discipline without wage and price controls."

With labor contract negotiations nearing in the automobile industry, General Motors, Ford and Chrysler omitted the usual annual raises June 1for 138,000 salaried employes not covered by union contracts.

Automobile production moved up during the week to an estimated 128,000 passenger cars. This was only 8.7 per cent below the comparable 1960 week, one of the year's slimmest margins.

The industry was particularly happy about sales in May. The 537,825 cars sold was the biggest monthly total of the year. This brought dealers' new car stocks down to about 900,000, lowest since last October.

Sees Steel Climb

Harold C. Lumb, vice president of Republic Steel Corp., predicted steel production will increase steadily and should approach record heights in the next year.

The Memorial Day holiday halted the 11-week rise in steel output but the decline was only 1.2 per cent below the previous week.

Prices of stainless steel and oil-country pipe were reduced. The industry publication, Iron Age, considered it a dampening effect on the likelihood of any general price rise in the near future.

Moving against another segment of the electrical equipment industry, the government's Anti-trust Division obtained price-fixing indictments against six companies which produce transmission equipment.

The firms are Oliver Electrical Manufacturing Co., Battle Creek, Mich.; Utilities Service Co., Allentown, Pa.; McGraw-Edison Co., Elgin, Ill.; Joslyn Manufacturing & Supply Co., Chicago; A.B. Chance Co., Centralia, Mo., and Hubbard & Co., Chicago.

R. Sargent Shriver Jrm director of the Peace Corps, called on business and labor to make manpower available to help undeveloped areas of the world.

The immediate general reaction was favorable.

Briefly Around

Briefly around the business scene: Martin Co. has developed a radio-telephone it believes is the forerunner of a vest pocket walkie-talkie with unlimited range . . . Boeing Co. expects to sell an additional $60 million worth of jet transports in Europe this year. . . General Precision Equipment Co. announced an electronic data-processing system capable of performing 2.48 million operations a second.

The New York Stock Exchange's volume last week totaled 19,721,550 shares compared with 11,796,850 in the previous three-day trading week, (cut short by the Memorial Day weekend) and with 19,235,340 shares in the full five-day week before that.

Bond volume increased to $29,932,000 from $18,009,000 par value the previous holiday week, with the daily average about the same.

Particles Could Puncture Space Ships, Is Word

WASHINGTON (AP)—Two U.S. satellites that stopped broadcasting last December—Explorer VIII and Vanguard III—have warned scientists that future space travelers may be bombarded by large numbers of high-velocity dust particles.

This cosmic dust—fast-moving clouds of micro-meteorites near the earth—appears to be in orbit around the sun, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Friday.

Analysis of the tapes of telemetry information sent back by the two satellites showed that most of the particles "could be associated with a major meteor stream," NASA said.

If big enough, the particles presumably could puncture a spaceship. Also, they may have a corrosive effect.

The two satellites, operating a year apart, apparently probed the same meteor stream—the Leonid star shower that occurs every Nov. 14. The Leonids are shooting stars so named because they seem to move in lines radiating from a point in the constellation Leo.

Father of Seven Is RPI Graduate

TROY, N. Y. (AP)—Russel Jensen, father of seven and a factory supervisor, held a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering today—after 11 years of night school.

Jensen, 31, of Valley Falls, was graduated Friday at the 155th commencement at Rensselaer Polytechnic Institute.

Frederick R. Kappel, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., urged the graduating class to make decisions based on unmeasurable human factors along with slide-rule results.

Without considering such factors as economics, public taste and tribal customs, today's technician would operate in a technological vacuum, Kappel said.

Jensen, whose children range from 1 to 13, said the only way to get through college as he did was "with an understanding wife."

Southern 'Freedom Riders' Echo Across N. Y. in Varying Degrees

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — Anti-segregation efforts in the South echoed across New York State today with the involvement, in varying degrees, of Gov. Rockefeller, a state legislator, Cornell, University students and Protestant churches.

Among developments in:

Albany — Gov. Rockefeller invited the Rev. Martin Luther King, Negro integration leader, to dinner June 16, in advance of a fund-raising rally for the Southern anti-segregation campaign. The governor's office said Rockefeller planned to attend the rally.

Apology Is Asked

Ithaca — The Freedom Walk Committee of Ithaca, a group of Cornell students and Ithaca residents, said Friday night all the white freedom riders in the Jackson, Miss., city jail would join a hunger strike Monday unless the Kennedy administration acted by then to lift "the deplorable restrictions on free travel in our Southern states."

New York City—State Sen. Manfred Ohrenstein called on Rockefeller to request a public apology from the governor of Mississippi for the arrest in Jackson of New York Assemblyman Mark Lane. The senator also asked Gen. Robert F. Kennedy to enjoin Mississippi authorities from further interference with interstate travel.

Lane, a member of an insurgent Democratic group in New York City, was arrested Wednesday on a breach-of-peace charge for using a segregated washroom at a bus terminal.

Endorses HST Remark

The Evangelist, newspaper of the Roman Catholic diocese of Albany, took a different view of Freedom Riders. An editorial endorsed former President Harry S. Truman's remark that the riders were a "pain in the neck." The paper said Freedom Riders had heightened tensions and bitterness and good will.

The Ithaca group sent telegrams Friday night to President Kennedy, the U. S. attorney general and the director of the Interstate Commerce Commission, asking them to take "rapid action" against segregated transportation facilities in the South.

The threat of a hunger strike among all the prisoners in the Jackson jail was relayed to Ithaca by three white Cornell graduate students who had spent 10 days in the jail for breeching the peace through "kindly persuasion," eduness. It called for integration through through

The Cornell group said five more Cornellians planned to join the freedom-ride movement Monday.

The Freedom Walk Committee, headed by Ithaca physician Edward Hart, also announced it had raised more than $1,000 for CORE's use.

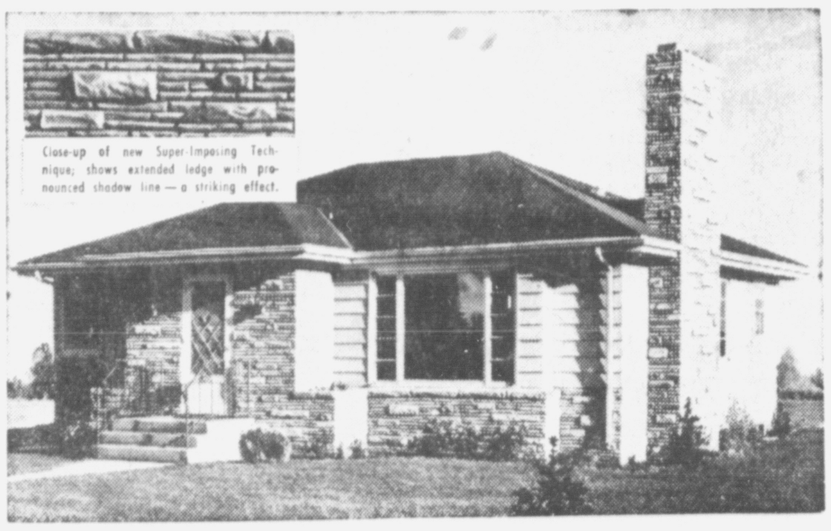

Another Cornellian and an Upstate Negro girl were among five student freedom riders arrested and convicted Friday in Jackson in another test of segregated transportation facilities. They are Del Greenblatt, 21, of Brooklyn, a white Cornell student, and Patricia Elaine Lryan, 20, of Elmira, a student at Central Ohio State College.

Meanwhile, the Capital District Council of Churches proceeded with a fund-raising drive to finance a freedom ride into the South by a Negro minister. The council is composed of Protestant, Anglican and Eastern Orthodox churches in the Albany area.

First successful oil well in the United States was drilled at Titusville, Penna., in 1859.
